British Transport Workers and R. R. Men Not to Quit in Sympathy With Miners

SPLIT IN RANKS OF TRIPLE ALLIANCE

Unexpected and Sensational Break on Eve of Great Industrial Crisis

Representatives of Miners From all Coal Fields Called Into Conference

To Act on Decision of R. R. Men and Transport Workers Not to Quit

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, April 15.—The calling of a conference of representatives of the miners from all the coal fields, at a date to be fixed tomorrow, was decided upon by the executive of the miners' federation this evening. It took this action after hearing the decision of the railwaymen and transport workers to cancel their sympathetic strike.

Frank Hodges, the miners' secretary, when questioned regarding this decision, said it meant that the miners' strike would continue.

"If I had resigned (as he was reported to have done) I should not be giving you this report," he added.

Sensational Split
LONDON, April 15.—(By the Associated Press)—An unexpected and sensational split in the ranks of the Triple Alliance of the coal, railway and transport workers, was announced today.

The municipal council at a special meeting this morning adopted an order to borrow $20,000 for sidewalk construction, introduced by Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy. The order had previously been advertised.

The council also instructed the city clerk to advertise a vote that the purchasing agent be empowered to enter into a contract with the following firms for supplies needed by the street and sewer departments for the current year. In each instance, the firms are the lowest bidder: Doherty Brothers, sewer castings; E. A. Wilson & Co., asphalted sewer pipe; Standard Oil company of New York, fuel oil; and applying road oil. The cost of the sewer castings and sewer pipe will be charged to the sewer department appropriation and the oil to the street sprinkling appropriation.

Educators From Various Parts of Massachusetts Speak at Normal School

Gathering in Co-operation With Merrimack Valley Superintendents' Round Table

Prominent educators from all parts of Massachusetts were the speakers at the Teachers' Institute, held today under the auspices of the department of education of the commonwealth, at the State Normal school here. The gathering was held in co-operation with the Merrimack valley superintendents' round table, and was attended by members of the teaching profession from cities and towns throughout this district. Clarence M.

CLARENCE M. WELCH, Chairman

Welch, acting principal of the Normal school, officiated as chairman and introduced the speakers, the first of whom was Frank W. Wright, director of the division of elementary and secondary education and normal schools. Mr. Wright welcomed those present in a brief address which stated the object of the session. He was followed by experts in every phase of pedagogy, who took up the newest theories of child development and culture. Music

CAMPAIGN PROGRESSING

Meeting Tonight in Elks' Hall to Further Irish Relief Drive

The local campaign to raise $15,000 for the relief of the sufferers in Ireland is now on in full swing and organization after organization is making known its intention of staging an entertainment or some other activity to add to the money which is being raised by various individuals.

Tonight in Elks' hall at 7:30 o'clock there will be a meeting of representatives of a large number of social and fraternal organizations who will make known their detailed plans for assisting the cause. The Knights of Columbus, Elks, Broadway club and many other organizations have plans under consideration and there will also come up for discussion this evening the advisability of a house-to-house canvass.

It will be recalled that when the drive opened emphasis was laid on the fact that the campaign is purely one of relief for the people of Ireland regardless of creed. It is non-sectarian and non-partisan and the money is being spent under the direction of an American commission.

Fred H. Bourke, supervisor of the drive in northern Middlesex county, is at work today up the towns for their part in the campaign and reports considerable success thus far.

BIG EXPLOSIONS ROCK RANDOLPH

Fireworks Plants Wiped Out Early Today — Sleeping People Hurlled From Beds

In Boston, 25 Miles From Scene, Buildings Were Shaken Severely

Families Attired in Night Clothes Flee to Woods—Score Injured

RANDOLPH, April 15.—Randolph was rocked early today by a series of explosions in the plant of the United States Fireworks company, which with subsequent fires, wiped out that plant, shivered houses for miles around and tossed people from their beds. In a shower of falling glass, overturned furniture and pictures and plaster that were shaken down, a score or more of persons suffered minor hurts, but none was seriously injured. The property damage was estimated at about $50,000.

The blast was felt within a radius of 25 miles. In Boston, on the edge of a circle with that radius, buildings were shaken severely at an hour that sent sleepers from their beds to the telephone with inquiries as to the cause. In such numbers as to cause telephone operators to believe that the peak-load hours of the day had arrived.

WANTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Police Seek Driver of Automobile That Injured Hugh McGrogan

Well Known Truckman Caught Between Cars Yesterday, Dies at Hospital

Hugh McGrogan, the well known truckman who was injured in an automobile accident in Green street yesterday morning, died at St. John's hospital last evening as a result of his injuries, and Samuel Inman, who, it is alleged, operated the automobile that figured in the accident and for whom a warrant for manslaughter has been issued, is at large and the police have been unable to locate him.

The accident occurred in Green street shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning, when McGrogan was placed against his own automobile truck by a car operated by Inman. While the victim of the accident was being taken to the hospital, Inman was placed under arrest by Traffic Officer Frank Motoney on charges of operating an automobile without a license and also of not having registration plates on his machine. He was bailed out by Robert F. Carr, bail being fixed at $400.

When the police were informed of McGrogan's death last night a warrant was issued for the arrest of Inman on a charge of manslaughter, but the police failed to locate him and this morning when his case was called in police court he again failed to put in an appearance and he was ordered defaulted.

Mr. McGrogan had been in the trucking business in this city a great many years, during which time he maintained a stand in Green street. His home is at 21 Church street. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Sarah Convery McGrogan; two daughters, Miss Margaret McGrogan and Miss James W. McGrogan; a son, Hugh V. McGrogan; a sister, Mrs. John Duffy of Lowell and two brothers, John and David McGrogan, both in Ireland.

Lowell Men Called as Witnesses Before Special Committee in Elevated Probe at State House

Rep. Corbett Testifies That He Had No Knowledge of Irregularity in 1918 and 1919 Street Railway Legislation—Rep. Slowey Excused Because of War Service

(Special to The Sun.)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 15.—Representative Thomas J. Corbett, of Lowell, was one of the witnesses called today before the special committee which is investigating charges of improper acts in connection with the passage of street railway legislation in the sessions of 1918 and 1919.

Representative Corbett was asked if anyone had at any time offered him an inducement of any sort to vote for the street railway legislation, whether he owned or bought any railway stocks in either of those years or if he knew of any member of the legislature who made such purchases, and finally he was asked if he knew of any irregularity or questionable conduct on the part of members or improper influence of any kind in connection with the legislation of those years.

To each of these questions Mr. Corbett answered in the negative. Representative Charles H. Slowey was also called as a witness but was immediately excused after he had stated that although he was elected to the 1918 legislature, he entered the army before the session began and, accordingly, did not take his seat.

Legislators Offer to Testify

France Warns Austrian Government

PARIS, April 15.—Warning has been given the Austrian government by the French minister to that country that if the government is unable to render efficacious plans looking to the fusion of Austria and Germany, France will suspend any contemplated assistance to Austria, it is said in a message received here from Vienna. In addition, the minister is said to have declared that in such case the allied reparations commission would receive restored authority in the republic. The British and Italian ministers are declared to have associated themselves in this declaration and to have added that the withdrawal of France from any movements for giving aid to Austria would mean a complete abandonment of efforts to assist that country on the part of the allies.

OPPOSE BALL GAME WITH "BLACK SOX"

CHICAGO, April 15.—Directors of the Chicago baseball league here called to meet in an emergency session today to take action against a team said to have booked a game with the "Black Sox," as the barnstorming team formed from discharged members of the Chicago White Sox have termed themselves. No official ruling had been made in the case of the Black Sox by President Edward Litsinger of the Chicago league, but it was understood that the league members were not to meet the team on which the men under indictment in the 1919 world's series scandal are playing. The manager of the Black Sox declared no additional games besides the one now scheduled for next Sunday with the Aristo Giants are planned for Chicago, but the team is scheduling dates through Kentucky and Indiana. Joe Jackson, Claude Williams, Harry Felsch, Swede Risberg and Fred Mottullin are the former White Sox players forming the nucleus of the Black Sox.

IN HOUSE AND SENATE

G. O. P. Proponents Hope to Shut Off Debate and Reach Vote on Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Republican proponents of the consolidated emergency tariff and anti-dumping bill were all set today for an effort to shut off debate and bring the measure to a vote in the house before adjournment tonight. Whether the democratic opposition planned an attempt to upset the program by a stand for further discussion, however, remained in doubt. Although several changes in the lineup on emergency tariff legislation were revealed in the opening debate yesterday, prospects that the bill would pull an ample majority in the house remained unaffected. While the house was considering emergency tariff, the senate planned to resume debate on the $25,000,000 Colombian treaty, with republican opponents of ratification—Senators Johnson, California; Lenroot, Wisconsin and McDexter, Washington—expected to hold the floor during the discussion.

CARPET PLANT TO REOPEN MONDAY

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., April 15.—The Bigelow-Hartford Carpet company yesterday announced that its plant here would be reopened next

Monday. It has been closed since Feb. 25, as a result of a strike of the organized employees in three departments of the factory. The company's statement said that it expected all its unorganized employees, numbering about 1300, to return to work, as well as many of the organized men, who numbered about 1200. The wage scale will be the same as when the strike started, which was 20 per cent. lower than previously. Assurance of police protection for all employees is given by the company.

UNEARTH SKELETONS

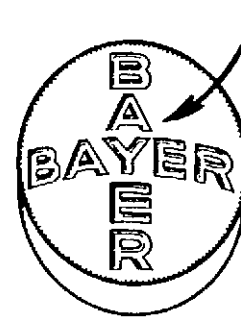

Mute Evidence of Tragedy Probably Enacted Years Ago Brought to Light

THE DALLES, Ore., April 15.—Mute evidence of a long forgotten tragedy probably enacted in the days of early settlement of The Dalles, was brought to light yesterday when workmen engaged in the construction of the Columbia river highway near the Deschutes river unearthed six skeletons, each with the skull crushed in. With the skeletons was found an old-fashioned watch chain, a rotted army saddle, such as was used by aviators stationed at Old Fort Dalles and a small copper campaign kettle, such as was used by soldiers for cooking purposes while in the field. The bones crumbled to dust when handled. Local pioneers are of the opinion that the findings are the remains of a skirmishing party of soldiers ambushed by Indians.

To Increase Size of House

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Representatives who made an unsuccessful attempt last session to increase the size of the house to 453 members have begun a compromise movement to boost the membership to 460. Chairman Siegel of the census committee said today there was growing sentiment in favor of an increase and predicted that a membership of 460 would meet with approval. A number of representatives from states that would lose seats if no increase were authorized and who voted for maintaining the present size of the house now favor a compromise, he added.

HOUSE PASSES BILL OVER LABOR PROTEST

BOSTON, April 15.—By a rollcall vote of 116 to 85 the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday passed the bill to allow voluntary associations of five or more persons to sue or be sued. A motion to refer it to the next annual session was defeated by a standing vote of 117 to 48. The measure now goes to the senate.

The figures show that there was practically no change on the part of house members since Tuesday afternoon when the bill was ordered to a third reading by a rollcall vote of 117 to 100, although many friends of organized labor worked diligently to bring about the defeat of the measure on the engagement stage.

Mr. Sutherland of Boston, in opening the debate, said: "Power should be accompanied by responsibility. Labor unions should not be favored by the law. The bill is founded on sound legal principles."

James H. Brown of Everett declared the bill does not enlarge the liability of labor unions, but merely makes it easier to sue voluntary associations who are violating the law. The majority of his constituents, he said, carry a union card, but do not share the fear of this bill "instilled by a few labor leaders or agitators."

Mr. Harrington of Fall River challenged those in favor of the bill to show where voluntary associations in Massachusetts have violated the law or have been guilty of a breach of contract. "The bill strikes at the only weapon labor has," said Mr. Harrington.

Mr. Kelly of Boston strongly opposed the measure.

Mr. Graves of Springfield spoke in favor.

Mr. Casey of South Boston declared:

"Organized labor is a bulwark against Bolshevism and anarchy and should not be antagonized."

Samuel Brown of Springfield said that he had received a telegram to vote against the bill from a socialist—a man who was hanging around the corners talking for Eugene V. Debs. Continuing Mr. Brown said, "That is the kind of labor leaders behind this bill."

Mr. Bates of Salem moved reference to the next annual session. He then declared that what had been said about the character of the opposition of organized labor to the bill was a "deliberate lie."

Immediately Mr. Brown jumped to

AFRAID TO STAY IN THE HOUSE ALONE

Lynn Woman Was in Terrible State of Health But Tautlac Entirely Overcomes Her Troubles

"I wouldn't take anything on earth for the good Tautlac has done me," said Mrs. Mabel Lavalie, 22 Stewart street, Lynn, recently.

"After an attack of pneumonia two years ago I was left in a very nervous condition. I decided to be alone in the house, for every little noise upset me, and even the sound of music at my neighbor's would almost drive me distracted. I had awful headaches, when I thought my head would split open, and nights I just rolled and tossed for hours, and sometimes just got up and walked the floor. I was down to 85 pounds in weight, and couldn't eat anything but a little cereal or drink milk."

"One of my neighbors took Tautlac with such good results that I decided to try it myself, and by the time I had taken my second bottle I noticed I was getting better. I'm now 100, my seventh bottle, and the change it has brought about in my condition certainly is remarkable. I eat most anything I want now and digest it perfectly. I sleep well, never feel nervous again, and I've picked up 12 lbs. in weight. I'm so strong and well I can be on my feet at my housework all day long and still feel fine when night comes. Tautlac certainly is the best medicine I ever saw or heard of, and I'm always glad to tell others about it."

Bandits Took $630,000 in Cancelled Checks

CHICAGO, April 15.—Six armed bandits who held up two bank messengers on an Illinois Central train, early today, captured two satchels containing $630,000 worth of cancelled checks. The robbery was elaborately planned, two of the bandits following the messengers when they boarded the train at a downtown station and the other four joining them half a mile south. The robbers left the train at 22nd street and escaped in a taxicab.

Three Murderers Hanged in Chicago

CHICAGO, April 15.—Sam Cardinella, leader of a band of thieves and murderers and Joseph Costanzo and Salvatore Ferrarini, convicted of murdering a fellow countryman, were hanged here today. The drop fell for Cardinella at 10:26 a. m. and the other two were hanged at 10:45 a. m. From his prison room Cardinella is said to have directed crimes which included 20 murders and scores of robberies and shootings.

Ford Liquidates $24,500,000 Loans

NEW YORK, April 15.—Recent reports that Henry Ford contemplated extensive financing in Wall street were discredited today by bankers, who announced that, instead of being in the market for money he had liquidated his loans here, aggregating $24,500,000. One bank announced that a note due April 15 had been paid two weeks ago.

Russia to Maintain Military Strength

RIGA, Latvia, April 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Russia must maintain her military strength in spite of the fact that fighting has ceased on all fronts, as the period of transition from war to peace is one filled with danger, says a resolution adopted at a conference of army commissaries and commanders at Moscow.

Discovery of Nine Foot Silver Vein

DAWSON, Y. T., April 15.—Recent arrivals from Keno Hill, in the Mayor district confirm the report of the discovery of a nine foot silver vein in the Rico claim there. The strike was made in a tunnel which pierces a 1000-foot bluff and the center of the vein is said to be two feet of solid galena, assaying more than $200 to the ton. It is to be the richest vein ever struck in the Yukon or Alaska.

Unique Counterfeiting Scheme

WASHINGTON, April 15.—A unique counterfeiting scheme was brought to light today in the arrest here of six negroes, the oldest 21 and the others boys ranging from 17 to 14 years, who have been held for the grand jury after a preliminary examination. They are charged with having used the corners of $20 and $10 notes turned into the treasury to be destroyed for raising one dollar bills to the former denominations. The process consisted of a simple operation of sticking the corners on the smaller bills. Secret service agents say the youths passed several hundred dollars in the spurious notes and they are now on the trail of the man who they declare has been furnishing the necessary condemned bank note corners after they were turned into the treasury.

his feet. Speaker Young banged his gavel and warned Mr. Bates to keep within parliamentary limits.

"There may be difference of opinion," said Speaker Young, "but the members will not characterize them as delinquent."

Mr. Shattuck of Cohasset said, "The question is whether or not the labor union leaders will be offended and whether or not we are afraid to pass the bill on that account."

Mr. Hull of Leominster was the last speaker. He said the democrats had adopted opposition to the bill as a party measure. He urged the republicans to "stand up and accept the challenge." Mr. Hull said he hoped the republicans "would not listen to anyone, however high in office," with regard to changing their votes on this question.

The committee on banks and banking reported a bill providing that no person shall be a director in any trust company unless he is a stockholder of record holding not less than 10 shares of unpledged stock therein.

CITY MARSHAL REFUSES TO RESIGN

DOVER, N. H., April 15.—It became known yesterday that the Dover police commissioners Wednesday night called City Marshal Thomas W. Wilkinson before them and demanded his resignation to take effect May 1, next.

Information as to this action of the board was withheld by Chairman Fred N. Beckwith after Wednesday night's meeting, he stating that only routine business was transacted.

In a statement yesterday, Marshal Wilkinson said: "I told the police board that I would not resign and that if they were determined to get rid of me, they would have to fire me. That would be the most fitting ending, I said, of the career of one who had given 35 years of his life to faithful service in the Dover police department."

The marshal added that he was given until April 27 by Chairman Beckwith to consider the matter of resigning.

CONFESSES PART IN RAILROAD THEFTS

WORCESTER, April 15.—John Cannon of Springfield, who was held in $5000 bonds last Tuesday for a continued hearing on April 15, in the Uxbridge court for alleged railroad thefts, has signed a four-page document in which he confesses his part in railroad thefts in Worcester county, including Charlton, Farnsworthville and the Blackstone valley, involving approximately $50,000, according to Railroad Detective Leltoy R. Chant of the Boston & Albany railroad.

With the arrest of one more individual, railroad police believe they will have rounded up the gang responsible for the recent railroad thefts in Worcester county which totaled close to $200,000. Most of the loot was sold to Worcester woolen dealers, it is stated.

CHURCH ORGANIST RESIGNS

William Paul McCarthy Has Resigned Offer from a Boston Concert Company

William Paul McCarthy has resigned as organist of St. Margaret's church choir and has now under consideration an offer from a Boston concert company.

Mr. McCarthy's retirement from St. Margaret's choir will cause considerable regret among the parishioners. His playing at all services and particularly at Easter time had an important part in the success of the musical programs. He is an accomplished musician and has attained a place of prominence in local musical circles. While an expert on the piano and organ he also plays several other instruments well. During the war he served in one of the big military bands and while overseas participated in a number of big concert programs.

SELF-SERVICE Grocery Store

A little over a year ago, we opened our Self-Service Grocery Store on Prescott street. In that short time this has turned out to be one of the most successful departments of the store.

Perhaps one of the biggest reasons for the success of this department is the elimination of all service features usually found in the regular groceries, thus effecting a saving of 12 per cent on every dollar.

Customers have taken to this method of selling, just as a duck takes to water, because they are not bothered, they can take their time in making selections. If you have never visited this busy little store, do so today or tomorrow.

HOME RULE COMMITTEE

Four Members State Emphatically That They Will Not Resign

Four members of the local street railway home rule committee gave very emphatic expression of their intention not to resign for the present, at least, when the committee assembled for its regular meeting late yesterday afternoon in city hall. Messrs Sullivan, Curtin, Matthews and Hobson pledged faithfulness to their duties. Messrs. Molloy, Carney and Dorrie were absent.

The committee voted to request the management of the road to place a conspicuous sign in Merrimack square announcing the time of departure of cars for the various parts of the city. Mayor Thompson, who had expressed a wish to talk to the committee at yesterday's meeting, failed to put in an appearance.

Meeting in Detail

Chairman Sullivan called to order at 4.20. In addition to the chairman there were present Secretary Curtin, Rev. Mr. Matthews, Mr. Hobson, Manager Lees and Supt. Leavitt. Secretary Curtin read a letter from George F. Wells, enclosing his letter of resignation to Mayor Thompson. It was voted to refer the matter to the mayor.

Mr. Sullivan said that it had been stated that the committee was to disband. He felt that the committee should continue its work until it succeeded in getting a five-cent fare. Rev. Mr. Matthews said he saw no reason why the members of the committee should resign because it was a fact that it had accomplished something. He said that the committee had always been received courteously by the management.

Mr. Hobson said that if the railroad feels that a 15-ride-for-a-$1 ticket with transfers will bring more passengers than a straight five-cent fare, that was its own business, but he believed that the company and road would benefit by the nickel fare without transfers.

Sign in the Square

However, Mr. Hobson said that he had one suggestion to make. He moved that the road be directed to place in a conspicuous place in Merrimack square a sign giving the time of departure to various parts of the city. The motion was seconded by Mr. Matthews and passed unanimously.

Manager Lees said that one difficulty with such a suggestion is the fact that on some of the routes the time of running varies according to the time of day.

Mr. Hobson said that the sign would be of greatest importance during the rush hours.

Rev. Mr. Matthews asked about the promptness of cars coming into the square. He said the management should offer some inducement to promote interest and efficiency in the employees. He believed the men should be paid good wages and the factor of efficiency should be considered. He feared that the proposed reduction in wages would not be conducive to the best work on the part of the employees.

Chairman Sullivan said that the committee has succeeded in having the fare zone in Detroit extended at the request of Mr. McManmon.

Mr. Lees said that the cash fares in April had shown a slight increase but this was offset by a decrease in ticket patronage.

Rev. Mr. Matthews asked what the average cost of running the Lowell district a month was. Mr. Lees said about $110,000 or $111,000, including the 6 per cent dividend to the stockholders.

Rev. Mr. Matthews asked if Fall River was to get cheaper fares than Lowell. Mr. Lees said that it would. It would get 15 rides for a dollar May 2. One reason is because the Fall River system is much more compact. There are between 55 and 60 miles of track in Fall River whereas in Lowell there are 90 miles. There is only one line in Fall River.

YOSEMITE PARK

New York State Leads in Visitors

YOSEMITE, Cal., April 15.—New York was first on the list of home states of the many who visited Yosemite National park during the resort's first winter season, which closed today. In all, the Yosemite visitors of the winter months registered from 37 states and 23 foreign countries.

Ohio was next to New York with Illinois, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Michigan and New Jersey following in the order named. The middle west, which sends thousands of tourists into the coast mountains during the summer, was scantily represented.

Of the foreign countries, the Englishman predominated, with the Highlander a close second, Australia, Japan, Canada and Java sent large delegations.

Park officials said the chief difficulty encountered in introducing "Yosemite in Winter" was to convince travellers that the valley was snowed in 20 feet, because of its 10,000-foot altitude. Many easterners, wintering in California, believed the valley could not be reached at this season.

NAMES 4 LEGISLATORS AT "L" HEARING

BOSTON, April 15.—A day of relentless inquiry into street railway legislation of 1918 and 1919 at the state house yesterday led the investigating committee into a labyrinth of figures, representing notes for large sums.

The committee's guide in its venture into the maze of bank and brokerage history was Edwin L. Prude, certified public accountant, who had examined the records of the old Fidelity Trust company under direction of Bank Commissioner Joseph L. Allen.

With notes and check-stubs as his evidence, Mr. Prude named four legislators as makers of notes found in the 1918 and 1919 archives of the Fidelity Trust. The men are:

Representative George M. Worrall of Attleboro, house chairman of the legislative committee in 1918, when the Elevated public control act was passed.

Ex-Senator Edwin T. McKnight, vice president of the Fidelity, senate president in 1918 and member of the street railways committee in 1918.

Ex-Representative John L. Donovan, democratic member of the committee that year.

Worrall a Witness

Mr. Worrall, whose Elevated and Massachusetts Electric stock dealings were all subsequent to the passage of the Elevated act, appeared before the committee. Every share of stock was bought after the bill became a law, said he. He had "faith" in Elevated stock as being the "life blood" of Boston, and "purposely refrained from buying until the proposed bill was through." He bought at the top of the market.

Finally, and with choking voice that choked his words, he championed his rights as a private citizen to do so.

The other three men did not respond.

to the committee's request for their appearance. A subpoena has been issued for Donovan, McKnight and Doyle, both of whom are outside the state on business, are expected to return soon and may appear when the hearing is resumed this morning at 10.

Each of them was definitely connected, in the testimony with loans made by the Fidelity Trust company in 1918 and 1919. Notes signed by Donovan and Doyle were of date prior to the approval of the Elevated act in May, 1918. The sums were in the thousands. The collateral was street railway stock.

LITTLE VISITS WITH FEATHERED FRIENDS

BY MARY SEAMAN

A young downy woodpecker decided to accept my hospitality one fall; or, rather, he decided to use an old cherry tree in my back yard. Now, I would not consider that he used good building material, for that cherry tree was very ancient, as cherry trees go, and parts of it had decayed badly. It was just right as a woodpecker's house, however, for that gentleman does not destroy live wood, preferring dead timber.

The "downy" used his only carpenter's tool, his strong beak, and wielded it with considerable strength by means of the strong muscles in his neck and shoulders. The chips flew for several days, and Downy got down farther and farther into the limbo, until he was several inches into darkness. And there he lived all the cold weather through.

We had lots of fun with him. At first he was shy and frightened when any of us went near his home; but I was determined to win his confidence, and succeeded in a measure. I took crumbs, or that choice tidbit, small pieces of suet, and left them about his doorway where he would find them upon my departure. He soon became used to me, and often his head would come up from the opening to his house when I went out with my offering. However, he never would let me come very close, without darting back to cover.

The "downy" is a good little fellow, and eats insects that his rolling tattoo on the limbs drives from their hiding place beneath the bark. Conspicuously black and white, with the red spot on the upper neck, he looks like a smaller edition of the hairy woodpecker. As he is an all-winter resident I am happy when he chooses quarters near my own domicile.

The house my "downy" so carefully hollowed out, and which he left when the winter season drew near, was used that summer by a family of wrens.

CHURCH RECREATION CENTER OF COMMUNITY

CHICAGO, April 15.—Plans whereby it is hoped to make the church the recreational center of the community as well as the religious center, were announced today by the committee on conservation and advance of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The plan contemplates creation of playgrounds, organization of athletic teams and classes in economics, housekeeping and kindred subjects.

A committee was appointed to visit all conventions of rural ministers during the next six months to give instruction in the direction of games and callisthenics. Gymnasium paraphernalia will be supplied to all churches of the denomination.

The work will be conducted from the $22,000,000 centenary fund of the church.

BITTEN BY WOUNDED DOG

While rendering first aid to a dog owned by S. Urban, of 218 Lakeview avenue, which had been run over by an automobile near the home of its master yesterday, Mrs. Mary Senor of 314 Lakeview avenue, was badly bitten on the wrist and her wounds had to be treated by a physician. The animal was later shot by Agent Richardson of the humane society. A German police dog owned by Michael Kelly, of 180 Boston street, was killed by a truck in School street Wednesday and died shortly after the accident.

U. S. COTTON SENT TO GERMANY

WASHINGTON, April 15.—More cotton was exported to Germany than to any other country during March. Census bureau reports today show 105,788 bales were sent from the United States to Germany during the month, while to the United Kingdom, the United States' best customer for raw cotton, took only 64,190 bales. Japan's imports totalled 37,030 bales, the second largest amount taken by any country during the month.

Cotton exported to Germany during the nine months ending March 31 has amounted to $30,190 bales, valued at about $55,000,000. Prior to the war, Germany took an average of 2,250,000 bales of American cotton annually.

CITY BUREAU WORKER

George Dugan of Trenton, N. J., tells of Three Greatest Troubles of Present-day American Life.

George Dugan of Trenton, N. J., a well known American city bureau worker who spoke here last year when the chamber of commerce was being organized, addressed a large audience of men and women at the Elliot Union church last evening under the auspices of the Men's club on the topic, "What's the Matter?" He said the three greatest troubles or present-day American life were too many aliens, lack of health and lack of God. He said that we have not yet solved our Americanization problem and that until we do we should allow no more aliens to come here. In discussing the physical defects of Americans, he pointed out the large number of men rejected in the draft, the poor physical condition of half the school children of the country and the menace of social diseases. He alleged that only a small per cent of the American people took Christianity seriously. He said that the president of the Men's club, introduced the speaker. After the address a buffet luncheon was served.

Rocked by Explosion

rived. Actual damage from the shock, however, was limited to an area about six miles around Randolph.

Residents of this town were not unaccustomed to such disturbances, explosions occurring frequently at one or another of the fireworks factories in the vicinity. The plant destroyed was the third to be so affected in the past two months. The first explosion merely roused sleepers without great excitement, but when it was succeeded by another and yet another in shocking succession, windows and doors being blown out of houses and stores and against other structures in which people were huddled in fear, the effect was one almost of terror.

and fathers carrying or leading the young, all in night clothing. With many gathered in the wooded places for refuge, flames broke out in the debris of the fireworks plant and the fire quickly overran the ruins and gained headway in woodlots nearby, bringing a fresh cause for alarm to the refugees. It was several hours before the firemen, augmented from nearby places, could control the flames, and it was daylight before the excited ones could be induced to return to their homes. Some of the returned refugees found their homes uninhabitable, sagging walls and cracked rafters causing danger of collapse.

Houses Nearly Wrecked

Three houses on Mills street, directly opposite the fireworks plant, which were partially wrecked, were occupied by Morris Tucker, Wm. Hurley, Samuel Hart and their families. When the first shock came a window and a bureau fell on Tucker and his wife who were sleeping in a front room. They fled to the woods with their children and on the way were hurled to the ground by a second blast. All received bruises and cuts from flying glass, which were given hasty first aid treatment in the open. Hurley and Hart with their families had somewhat similar experiences.

Church and School Damaged

The glass fronts of the post office and a store in the Masonic building in the center of the town were shattered as were almost all of the windows in St. Mary's Catholic church. The high school and the grammar schools were shaken into an almost wrecked condition.

At the Norfolk County Tuberculosis hospital in Braintree Highlands, a radio and a half away, the shock was severe. On the top of a hill it was in the direct path of the blast and swayed under the shock, but the fact that windows were open wide, was said to have saved it from great damage.

Panics Prevented

Plaster and hospital fixtures rained down upon the 50 frightened patients. There was some excitement, but panic was prevented by the hospital attendants.

Telephone wires in the town were paralyzed for an hour by the explosion and calls for assistance from other towns were sent out by motorcycle.

The plant of the fireworks company which was wiped out was composed largely of the flimsy structure and sheds that are set up in view of frequency of explosions and the minimizing of their effects in mind and the property damage did not reach great proportions. Inquiry to determine the cause of the primary explosion was still under way today.

CHICAGO, April 15. (By Associated Press).—National agreements defining working conditions for employees on all American railroads formerly under the federal railroad administration were yesterday ordered abrogated, effective July 1, 1921, by the United States railroad labor board.

The board called upon the officers and system organizations of employees of each railroad to select representatives "to confer and to decide" as much of the rules controversy as possible. "Such conference shall begin at the earliest possible date," the decision said.

Individual Conferences
While the decision did not specifically say so, members of the board said was furnished by the Normal School orchestra.

The first address of the program was by Dr. Wallace W. Atwood, president of Clark university, Worcester. He took for his subject "Teaching Geography to Children" and discussed the newest methods which have been adopted in American education in this part of the school curriculum. Dr. Atwood said:

"Our course in geography should no longer be a mere memorizing of facts. The true educator today has as his first object the growth of the individual child and its development." He called attention to the fact that nearly all learning is visual. Only four per cent, he said, is done through the ear. He declared, "If we only take the child on imaginary journeys," he suggested, "letting them, as it were, see the various places that are discussed, we will find them learning far more rapidly than they could if the lesson touched them only as something heard." He proposed that the different pupils be dressed in the costumes of distant lands, and placed on the platform of the school room as a child say, from Japan, or Czechoslovakia, prepared to answer questions relative to the geography of the countries they represent.

Dr. Atwood told of his experiences while teaching physical geography at Harvard university. "For two years," he said, "I told college students how rivers flow down hill, and how they make their deltas. But I finally began to perceive that something was lacking. This, I discovered was the visual element. The members of the class were learning by ear only." The speaker then demonstrated the method of teaching which appeals to the eye, either the actual eye or the eye of the imagination. He sketched on the black board landscapes of sundry types. With a few strokes of the chalk he created a Norwegian scene, with its towering cliffs, its fjords, its fisher settlements and fishing craft. Another sketch revealed the Cumberland mountains, with a stream making its way to the sea and with the cabins of the inhabitants. "Let us," he urged his audience, "make the facts of geography vivid and real, whether by drawings on the blackboard or by photographs, or other ways which stimulate the imagination."

He closed by declaring that if one would understand geography, one must understand the natural divisions of the world, not the divisions made by man for political purposes. "Climate and the natural conformation of the land," he told his hearers, "influence the characteristics of man, and in geography a knowledge of the divisions established by nature is fundamental." He warned the members of the institute against suppressing the child when it would seek to express its views of matters brought up in the class room. "I wonder," he said, "how often 'little Johnny' is listening to what the teacher has to say of some matter. Many times, I think, he is merely waiting for her to get through so that he may raise his hand and tell what he knows or thinks on the subject. People are not naturally good at listening. Heated arguments do us listen to what our opponent is saying, or do we merely watch his lips and hope he will soon get through, so that we may give our conception of the point at issue? Even when capital and labor get together, I am afraid they are not always ready to consider the point of view opposed to theirs. They are perhaps only waiting for a chance to expound their own profound views. Dr. Atwood called for recognition of this human trait in children, and the exercise their drama-matic instinct," he said.

A period of community singing followed Dr. Atwood's address. This was led by Inez Field Damon of the Lowell State Normal school.

Mabel C. Bragg, assistant superintendent of schools at Newton, next delivered an address on the subject, "Making Health Fashionable." The topic was illustrated by numerous drawings made by children of the Newton public schools. These bore such legends as "Milk Makes Muscle" and "Killed Health Hints." The children in the Newton schools," said the speaker, "are proud of being healthy.
They are intensely interested in having the proper weight for their age and height. They know which foods are wholesome and they eat them.
Cleanliness is also stressed." The speaker described how health is made a game, a game in which every girl and boy has come to take part enthusiastically. Each class has a graph or chart showing the average monthly weight of all the members. The children are all eager that the graph shall be near the standard as possible.
When a boy or girl is greatly over or under weight, their fellow pupils do not like it at all, because it affects the showing of the class. Nevertheless, overweight is never looked upon with disfavor unless it amounts to more than fifteen pounds. Up to that figure the children are told that their extra pounds are as valuable to them as "money in the bank." An instance of the worth of this practice was given in the case of a girl who was several pounds below the normal weight for her age and height. This fact was called to the attention of her parents, who called in the services of a physician. "That night," said the speaker,

"the child had been taken to the hospital. For examination had revealed that she was suffering from diabetes.
Without the stress laid upon correct weight, this girl's life could not have been saved, as the presence of the disease would not have been detected until too late."

One of the most novel features of the program was the "Kindergarten band," a demonstration of the teaching of rhythm to children of the primary grades. Miss Damon, who directed the exhibition, explained that "it is not aimed fundamentally at amusing adults, but may produce that reaction. However, the children are given to understand that laughter on the part of grown-ups indicates enjoyment and appreciation of good music. We are not showing off here, or pointing to some finished work that has been achieved. We are merely indicating milestones in the road. The "kindergarten band" consisted of a group of tots who played such primitive instruments as drums, triangles and bells. A child of their own age led them in accompanying several selections on the piano. It was explained that the uniforms worn by the children marked special merit.
There are two divisions in each class, those who show the greatest sense of rhythm being placed in the first and given the privilege of wearing uniforms. Members of the second division are advanced as rapidly as they display an improved capacity to keep time.

Various groups of boys and girls demonstrated the new methods of teaching vocal and instrumental music.
A remarkable feature was the playing by boys who have had only 12 lessons in violin or fello. While the latest state system of musical pedagogy was shown in the assembly hall, a demonstration of geography teaching was given in the gymnasium.

The day's program
Sectional meetings in geography opened the afternoon session, and these were followed by further addresses relative to the teaching of music. The final address by Miss Bragg was on the subject of "The Experiences of Children." As the leader in many innovations which have gained the enthusiastic interest of Newton public school children, Miss Bragg was able to give valuable information connected with the psychological reactions of children to various types of pedagogy. The complete program of the day's events was as follows:

9:30—Music by Normal School orchestra.
2:40—Address of Welcome: Frank

W. Wright, director of the division of

Correspondent Says New Martial Law Adds Fuel to
the Flames

Sinn Fein Spirit Undaunted
—203 Irish Citizens Murdered in 1920

Both Sides Give Figures—

Struggle Costs British
$150,000,000 a Year

By MILTON BRONNER
LONDON, April 14.—Ireland passes
from one year of terror into another.
The new martial law instituted by the British government instead of suppressing revolution adds fuel to the flames.

Sinn Fein's spirit is undaunted.
The government has locked up Arthur Griffith, the vice president of the Irish republic. It has put Desmond Fitzgerald, a Sinn Fein member of parliament, in solitary confinement.
But the only result has been to bring back to Ireland Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish republic, who issues a letter to all the members of the
the crown soldiers of these crimes:

Torturing prisoners.
Assassinating men and boys in their homes, on the streets and in prison.
Murdering women and children.
Plopping civilians.
Humiliating Irish citizens, for instance, by compelling them to crawl.
Forcing men to do military duty.
Burning and looting.

De Valera in his denunciation
charged 75 prisoners were tortured, 220 defenceless men and boys were assaulted, seven women, 18 children and two clergymen murdered, 119 men and boys flogged, and 25 factories, 47 creameries, 1008 shops and 595 homes either wholly or partly destroyed.

Twelve Months of Terrorism
The high spots of the last 12 months of terror may be summarized as follows:

First, passage of the restoration of order act under which any disorder in Ireland can be put under martial law.

Second, swift declaration of martial law in many countries in west and south Ireland.

Third, quick sentences to death or long imprisonment of many men who hadn't surrendered their arms.

Fourth, reprisals by crown forces on fifth Irish people.

Fifth, burning of Ballybragan, Sept.
20, and a large portion of Cork, Dec.
11, for which final responsibility has not been fixed by the crown.

Sixth, passage of the home rule act setting up separate parliaments for north and south Ireland, which, however, only the Ulsterites have accepted.

Take a recent week in Ireland as typical of the constant terrorism and strife. The week of March 11-17 will do. Many of the Royal Irish constabulary were shot. Six attacks were made on police barracks. Mail trains were stopped and robbed. Bridges were burned. Attempts were made to rescue Irish prisoners.

Crown forces were accused of shooting men who didn't halt when ordered.
Many houses were burned in reprisal.
Carlew was proclaimed in Bannry.
Markets at Ballinacorney and Athy and the fair at Carrick-on-Shannon were prohibited.

To climax it all six young Irishmen were executed in Dublin, two charged with murder, four with high treason.

Costs British $150,000,000 a Year

The most accurate estimate of damage to property during the Sinn Fein struggle is more than $40,000,000.

The war in Ireland is costing the British taxpayers heavily, too. They are supporting 100,000 men in the forces in Ireland, with the most complete military equipment. A conser-

REDUCE ACCIDENTS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 15.

Some folks may object to short skirts, but the Jacksonville Traction company is in favor of them, if the corporation's accident statistics prove anything. J. S. Harrison, of the legal department, announces that figures for 1914, when skirts were long, showed 180 accidents here that year in which women were involved while boarding or alighting from street cars. Statistics show that such accidents increased in number as the women followed "Dime" Fashion's decree and made their skirts shorter, for in 1920 when they were at the "height of fashion" the total was only 73. Mr.

Harrison declares the greater number of accidents in which women figured resulted from long skirts, in most instances the heel of the shoe catching in the hem. Few accidents of

SAYS MORE WORK NOT MORE PAY TODAY'S NEED

NEW YORK, April 15.—Depreciation of efforts to curtail production by "unduly shortening working hours, or under this guise to secure increased wages," was contained in a resolution adopted here yesterday by members of the American Paper and Pulp Association.

"We irrevocably record our belief that today's need is not more pay, but more work," said the resolution. Statistics were presented at the meeting tending to show that living costs in America increased at one time until they were 194.6 per cent. more than they were in 1914, but that since that time they had decreased until they were now not more than 65.4 more than at that time.

Within a year or so, Magnus W. Alexander, managing director of the national industrial conference board, declared, the decline would continue until cost of living would be but 25 to 30 per cent. above that of seven years ago.

Industry Economies Praised
Another resolution with respect to the railway wage controversy was adopted by the association, which commended the efforts of the American railway executives to "effect more economical operation, and to adjust salaries amicably and fairly." The resolution asked railway employees, whether union or non-union, to consider the wage question "with respect to their own best interests over a period of time rather than for the immediate present," and to remember that their decisions will "influence the length of business depressions now existent."

The executive committee at large was elected as follows: W. F. Haskell, New York city; Louis Bloch, San Francisco; and W. R. Shafter, New Haven.

Press, Sisson's Address

Denial that the open shop movement was in any sense a "conspiracy of employers" was made by George W. Sisson, president of the association, in addressing the convention.

"I believe," he said, "that the rapid spread and spontaneous support of the open shop movement is only a natural reaction to the extremes of conduct and assertion, local and national of closed shop unionists. It is not in any sense a 'conspiracy' of employers, but flows from an increasingly insistent and very significant popular demand for the recognition and restoration of principles as old as our institutions."

"A labor policy that is economically unsound cannot long endure, for it can only result in disaster to the industry which attempts to maintain it. The final test of a labor policy is its success in bringing about a higher degree of individual development in the workers and more general contentment in industry."

Mr. Sisson declared it was "time to call a halt on the tendency to government interference in industry."

Mr. Sisson criticized the proposed Canadian embargo against the export from Canada of pulpwood for American mills as "propaganda of men striving to serve personal ends."

It is certain, he continued, that "if this pulpwood question could be taken out of politics and divorced from the influence of selfish promotion interests it could be quickly adjusted by the practical men in the industry."

Agreements Abrogated

that all disputes as to rules and working conditions automatically were referred back to individual conferences between each individual road and its employees. This method of procedure had been sought by the railroads, whereas the labor side had favored a national conference between representatives of all roads and all unions.

The board's decision came unexpectedly in the middle of the hearing on the justice and reasonableness of the existing rules, and opened a way to speedy conclusion of the whole controversy.

The light over national agreements was begun immediately after the return of the railroads to private ownership, March 1, 1920, but consideration of rules was postponed by the labor board when it was formed on April 15, 1920, because of the urgency of the wage question at that time.

Employees Affected

The decision affects all railroad employees except those in train service, who are under separate agreements between the individual railroads and the four big brotherhoods.

In connection with the conference negotiations the board laid down a set of 16 principles to serve as a foundation for any rules which may be agreed to in the conference.

The present general rules hearing before the labor board, which has been in progress since Jan. 10, will continue until both sides have completed their testimony, after which the board will promulgate such rules as it determines just and reasonable as soon after July 1, 1921, as is reasonably possible and will make them effective as of July 1, 1921.

The Sixteen Principles

The 16 principles outlined by the board were drawn up by Henry T. Hunt of the public group and uphold the right of the employees to organize for lawful purposes, the right to negotiate through representatives of their own choosing, the right of seniority and the principle of the eight-hour day.

It was specified that "eight hours' work must be given for eight hours' pay." Espionage should not be practiced by either side, the decision said, and employees' representatives should have the right to make an agreement applying to all employees in the craft or class of the representatives.

The 16 principles outlined follow: "1.—An obligation rests upon management, upon each organization of employees and upon each employee to render honest, efficient and economical service."

"2.—The spirit of co-operation between management and employees being essential to efficient operation, both parties will so conduct themselves as to promote this spirit."

Necessary Discipline

"3.—Management having the responsibility for safe, efficient and economical operation, the rule will not be subversive of necessary discipline."

"4.—The right of lawful employees to organize for lawful objects shall not be denied, interfered with or obstructed."

"5.—The right of such lawful organization to act through lawful objects through representatives of its own choice, whether employees of a particular carrier or otherwise, shall be agreed to by management."

"6.—No discrimination shall be practiced by management as between members and non-members of organizations or as between members of different organizations, or shall members of organizations discriminate against non-members or use other methods than lawful persuasion to secure their membership."

"7.—Espionage by carrier on the legitimate activities of labor organizations or by labor organizations on the legitimate activities of carriers should not be practiced."

"8.—The right of employees to be consulted prior to a decision of management adversely affecting their wages or working conditions shall be agreed to by management. This right of participation shall be deemed adequately complied with, if and when, the representatives of a majority of the employees of the several classes directly affected shall have conferred with the management."

"9.—No employee should be disciplined without a fair hearing by a designated officer of the carrier. Suspension in proper cases pending a hearing which shall be prompt, shall not be deemed a violation of this principle. At a reasonable time, prior to the hearing, he is entitled to be apprised of the precise charges against him. He shall have a reasonable opportunity to secure the presence of necessary witnesses and shall have the right to be heard in person or by counsel of his choosing. If the judgment shall be in his favor he shall be compensated for the wage loss, if any, suffered by him."

"10.—Proper classification of employees and a reasonable definition of the work to be done by each class for which just and reasonable wages are to be paid is necessary, but shall not unduly impose uneconomical conditions upon the carriers."

"11.—Regularity of hours or days during which the employee is to serve or hold himself in readiness to serve is desirable."

"12.—The principle of seniority, long applied to the railroad service, is sound and should be adhered to. It should be so applied as not to cause undue impairment of the service."

Approves Eight-Hour Day

"13.—The board approves the principles of the eight-hour day, but believes it should be limited to work requiring practically continuous application during the eight hours. For eight hours' pay, eight hours' work should be performed by all railroad employees except engine and train service employees, regulated by the Adamson act, who are paid generally on a mileage basis as well as an hourly basis."

"14.—The health and safety of employees should be reasonably protected."

"15.—The carriers and the several crafts and classes of railroad employees have a substantial interest in the competency of apprentices or persons under training. Opportunity to learn any craft or occupation shall not be unduly restricted."

"16.—The majority of any craft or class of employees shall have the right to determine what organization shall represent members in craft or class. No such agreement shall infringe, however, upon the right of employee, not members of the organization representing the majority, to present grievances either in person or by representatives of their own choice."

"17.—Employees called or required to report for work, and reporting but not used, should be paid reasonable compensation therefor."

"Big Stick" Ready

When the board began to function, it divided the whole railroad controversy into a question of wages and of working conditions. The hearings on wages resulted in decision No. 2, the 1920-1921 wage award of July 20, 1920, and the rules dispute was deferred until January of this year. In decision No. 2 the board directed that the national shop craft agreements should be continued, the belittling and orders of the United States railroad administration have also been continued in force.

In setting July 1 as the date for terminating the national agreements, however, the board declared in its decision No. 2 that it reserves the right to terminate its decision of decision No. 2 at an earlier date than July 1, with regard to any class of employees, if it shall have reason to believe that such class of employees is unduly delaying the progress of the negotiations to be entered into by the conference of management and employees. It also reserves the right to stay the termination of the agreements if it believes any carrier is unduly delaying negotiations.

agreements and disagreements to the end that the board may know prior to July 1, 1921, what portion of the dispute has been decided."

While placing the chief responsibility for drawing up a new set of rules on the parties involved, the board did not say what part the rules agreed upon in conference and the rules promulgated by the board itself would play, respectively, in formulating a new national code.

Under the transportation act, provision is made for agreements between the roads and the employees and any such agreements, if they had been made, would form the backbone of a new set of rules. Such other rules as the board considered just and reasonable would then be added, it was said.

Comment on ruling
The decision of the United States group are the "Big four," the organization of the railroads, the firemen, the trainmen, the conductors, and the engineers. It also affects telegraphers, clerks, shop employees, maintenance of way employees, street car employees, and those members of the national organization of the railroads who are employed by railroads.

When the abrogation of the national agreements was proposed, several months ago by W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, it was declared that the national agreements were costing the railroads $300,000,000 a year, because certain economic conditions could not be put into effect under the old rules.

A meeting of the conference committee of the Association of Railway Executives, of which E. T. Whittier is chairman, was called for today to discuss the application of the decision to the individual roads.

WHALENS WIN SERIES IN THREE STRAIGHT GAMES GIBBS DEFEATS AVILA

NEW BEDFORD, April 15.—New Bedford made its three straight in the post-season series with Lowell here last night, winning a fast, well played game by a 4 to 3 score.

New Bedford could score but once in the first period, but they subjected Blount to a terrific bombardment. Duggan's first goal was fluky. He slammed the ball against the wall behind the Lowell cage and then it rolled over the goal and into the netting. Blount played a fine goal. He ran out of the goal once to stop Wiley and threw the latter to the floor, drawing a foul for his act.

Dufresne scored the second goal on a foul shot after Cusick was caught holding Wiley. Davies scored Lowell's first goal on a nice shot from the side of the rink, but Wiley increased the lead three minutes later. Whalers came back strong in the last period, Quigley going on the offensive. He scored on a shot that bounded in front of Jette and rolled into the cage. Quigley evened the count at three-all, only to have Duggan crash one in from the spot in three seconds. The work of both goal tenders was of high order. The New Bedford players were derided. The Lowell players were derided. The referee Graham was derided. The referee Graham was derided. The referee Graham was derided.

DISORDERS IN ITALY

Grave Incidents in Northern Central Districts—Lives Lost, Property Damaged

ROME, April 15.—Grave incidents are reported in northern central Italy, where the extreme nationalists and the socialists have clashed in a number of cities and towns. Several lives have been lost and great property damage has been done during these disorders which are a result of the bitter feeling arising from the electoral campaign.
Upwards of 100 nationalists from Leghorn and Pisa marched to the town of Cecina, 29 miles southeast of Leghorn, where they sacked a communist club and burned the furniture as reprisal for a socialist attack upon local nationalists. Returning to Leghorn, the party succeeded in wrecking the chamber of labor. As a protest, the socialists proclaimed a general strike, which the printers have joined, and there are no newspapers being published in the city.
Propagandist Killed
A widely known communist propagandist named Cammeo was shot and killed by women at Pisa last night, the women claiming that Cammeo had insulted them in a communist newspaper and had refused to print a retraction. In the melee that followed one woman was dangerously wounded, and others were injured. The chamber of labor has half-masted its flag and proclaimed a general strike.

A detachment of nationalists from Arezzo, a town about 20 miles south of Florence, went to the village of San Sepolcro, 16 miles east, and wrecked the chamber of labor. The portraits of Nikolai Lenin and Leon Trotsky were burned, but the nationalists respected the pictures of Mazzini and Garibaldi, which hung in the chamber.
Pietro Mascagni, the composer and a socialist member of the chamber of deputies, was forced to sign an undertaking that he would be personally responsible for any socialist reprisals in future.
Another affair occurred at Parma, where a socialist club was destroyed, and at Livorno, the nationalists are alleged to have killed Luigi Masini, a socialist leader.

WOMEN'S INDUSTRIAL CLUB
"Patty Makes Things Hum" is the title of the melodrama which was presented before the members of the Women's Industrial club of the Massachusetts Mills Wednesday night by the local English class of the club. The play was given under the direction of the class instructor, James G. Dowdy. He is also teacher of English at the Lowell Textile school. In addition to the comedy there were dance numbers by the English sisters, and the presentation of a tableau entitled "The Old Fashioned Family Album" with Miss Mary Payton reading the several character parts. Those who took part in the drama were Misses Gertrude Logan, Alice Ryan, Alice Paton, Alice Farley, Margaret Conroy, Helen Booth, Solie Delaney, Kate Galscher, Mrs. Sadie Bearden and Mrs. J. G. Galscher.

Efforts of American Embassy in Buenos Aires Fail—Labor Leaders Firm

BUENOS AIRES, April 15.—Efforts by the American embassy here to secure intervention by the Argentine government in the controversy which resulted in the boycott of the Munson liner Martha Washington, have been without result. The labor leaders refused to lift the boycott unless their demands were granted.
All port activities have been suspended by the Port Workers' union until 1 o'clock this afternoon as a result of the death of two stevedores on the steamer Terra Haute yesterday. The men were killed by an explosion, probably of gasoline. More than 100 vessels were affected by the union's order.

MONTEVIDEO, April 15.—Discharge of the cargo consigned to Buenos Aires on board the Munson liner Terra Haute here yesterday without opposition from the port workers. The goods will be transferred to the steamer Laurel, now in the harbor of Buenos Aires, and conveyed to their destination.
The Union will leave for New York April 19 or 21, carrying passengers from the Argentine capital.

Charge Forced Marriages in House Of David—Principals in Cult Suit

MRS. HILDA HANSEL AND HER HUSBAND, RUSSELL L. HANSEL, A LONG-HAIRED MEMBER OF THE HOUSE OF DAVID, WHO, SHE SAYS SHE MARRIED UNDER COMPELSION

CHICAGO, April 14.—"I will choose seven virgins, who shall live under one roof as in secret until a conspiracy is brought against me, which shall bring it to an end."

So prophesied Holy Benjamin Purnell in his book "The Star of Bethlehem," which outlines the beliefs of the long-haired religious cult of the House of David at Benton Harbor, Mich.

The prophecy will be fulfilled in Chicago, April 15, when charges will be made against him in the suit of Mrs. Hilda Hansel for the annulment of her marriage to Russell L. Hansel, into which she says Purnell forced her.

Mrs. Isabella Pritchard, mother of Hilda Hansel, expects to testify in court concerning her own connection with the cult.

From Australia

Fifteen years ago Mrs. Pritchard became a convert and left her home in Melbourne, Australia, with her two daughters, Hilda and Rena, then 12 and 14, to enter the colony.

Mrs. Pritchard says that she pooled all her possessions with the head of the House of David, because the colony is co-operative.

Thereafter, she says, she and her daughters endured many hardships until finally they fled.

In the colony, Mrs. Pritchard alleges, she and her daughters were subjected to arduous toil and allowed little food and scanty clothing.

"A Second Gabriel," who calls himself Purnell, she says, who calls himself "A Second Gabriel," rules the colony, punishing those who disobey his commands.

In David's House

According to the three women, children growing up in the colony are graduated from various duties to the House of David. There is, Mrs. Pritchard said, great rejoicing when the 16-year-old girls go there.

But, she alleges, Holy Benjamin swore the girls to secrecy so that no word would escape as to what took place within.

"There are some 50 to 60 girls at the House of David," said Mrs. Pritchard. "My girls thought that I approved of anything that Holy Benjamin did, but I did not know what was taking place at his house."

"When Benjamin was warned that officials were to make investigations, some girls were immediately married off to men they hadn't even spoken to."

Mrs. Pritchard left the colony in September, 1919, with her daughters. Rena's husband also came with them, but Hilda's husband remained.

Hilda states that she never lived with Hansel as his wife, for men and women have separate quarters at the colony, and it is because of this that she hopes to win an annulment.

Whether Hansel will contest the suit is in doubt. However, every charge made against Purnell and his associates is denied in full at the colony.

GIVE OUT TRUE FACTS ON BUILDING INDUSTRY

CHICAGO, April 15.—The restoration of the public's confidence in the building and construction industries, is the chief aim of the National Federation of Construction Industries, according to letters sent out by the national organization to more than 1900 members who are arranging meetings in almost all parts of the country.

"Bring the public into your meetings; let them know of the rise and fall of prices and the actual facts concerning the building industry," says the letter.

A definite program was outlined here last month and within the next thirty days, according to President Ernest T. Trigg of Philadelphia, more than 1600 meetings will have been held in almost every state in the Union.

While the National Federation of Construction Industries do not, at the present time, contemplate a general gathering of that body, yet the executive committee of this organization has held numerous meetings in Philadelphia and Chicago, and at the present time has appointed a sub-committee to take up the question of government aid for the industries with Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

The federation members holding the meetings throughout the country have called upon the executive committee for aid in the conduct of these meetings, either by suggestions relative to interesting the public in becoming acquainted with the true facts of the situation or in having a representative of the committee deliver an address.

The activities of the National Federation for the holding of general meetings under the auspices of local chambers of commerce, of the principal construction material producers, manufacturers, architects, bankers, transportation, fuel, labor, real estate, and other interests associated with or distinctly affecting the construction industries of the locality.

A public invitation would be extended and the public invited to attend and auditors. The program would include presentation of the situation from the viewpoint of public officials having to do with public work, and the construction, financial and transportation interests. Each of the elements in the construction industries should not only deal with the discussion of the situation in general, but should come down to actual statements of costs of materials and other specific facts which must be considered in effecting a proper renewal of construction activities. In addition to the above subjects that of labor should be dealt with thoroughly both as regards to labor costs and restriction of output efficiency.

The executive committee advises that the general committee should arrange for meetings of contractors, with or without their labor, for the purpose of going into the subject of reducing labor costs on a just basis. The primary elements of the meeting, subject to modifications as the local situation may indicate, are as follows:

(1) Development of wage basis in accordance with existing conditions.

(2) Retention of standards of production which will at least equal those of previous years.

(3) Taking steps which will have in view the elimination of jurisdictional and sympathetic strikes and other stoppages of work.

(4) The development of better relationships between employers and employees, primarily for making efficient work less difficult of accomplishment.

(5) A statement of profits, overhead and methods of doing business in a way to conform with present business conditions and improved efficiency.

Eyes Inflamed?

If your eyes are inflamed, weak, tired or overworked; if they ache; if picture shows make them feel dry and strained, get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets from your druggist, dissolve one in a fourth of a glass of water and use as an eye bath from two to four times a day. Bon-Opto allays inflammation, invigorates, tones up the eyes.

Note: Doctors say Bon-Opto strengthens eye sight 30% in a week's time in many instances.

IGNORE WILL OF PEOPLE

No. Dakota Prevented by Reactionaries From Carrying Out Program

WASHINGTON, April 15.—North Dakota was prevented by a "reactionary group in the legislature" from carrying out her agricultural and industrial program, which had been approved seven times by the people, Senator E. F. Ladd of that state declared today before the People's Reconstruction League conference.

"Can the sovereign rights of a great state," he asked, "be destroyed by outside antagonistic interests that seek to boycott her and to destroy the industries the farmers have sought to develop after a quarter of a century's abuse on the part of special privilege?"

The senator asserted that "speculators and gamblers" in the necessities of life had grown rich through a system of marketing "so devised as to profit from the toil of the farmer." Had it not been for the continued rise in the value of land, he added, the farmer would have gone bankrupt. The farmer now, he added, is taking steps that "should and will, I believe, enable him within the next two years to pay for his products under conditions that will insure for him a reasonable price, a fair return for his labors, and at the same time, furnish the articles to the consumer at a lower price."

The turnover sales tax was denounced by Representative Fear, republican, Wisconsin, as "especially vicious at the present time when corporations are seeking to escape the tax they are now paying on part of their profits over the 5 per cent exempt by law."

"Sugar-coated strychnine pills," he declared, "are being offered to persuade the people that the sales tax poison is for their interest. But it will result, he said, in a 'frenzied increase in prices because the turnover tax which is proposed will tax every turnover of the articles consumed from the time wheat is produced on the farm through its different sales to the mill, the bakery and down to the purchase of bread."

Mr. Fear charged that a few business men and large corporations "have raised a large sum of money for the support of a lobby and high priced writers in Washington for propaganda purposes." They are demanding, he added, "the repeal of the excess profits tax, a reduction of the personal income tax and that Congress enact a sales tax as a substitute."

ORDERS A VERDICT FOR TWO DEFENDANTS

A verdict in favor of two of the defendants, Marcos Matallotti and Geo. Mellotti, was ordered by Judge Franklin T. Hammond in the superior court today in the case of Clarence Dickinson Glazier, of Cambridge, against Mrs. Tillie Fish Stever Whitley, of 319 Audubon road, Boston, and George Marcosglantz, Marcos, Matallotti and George Mellotti, proprietors of a restaurant on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. The plaintiff sought to recover $50,000 damages from the defendants for the alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, Mrs. Althea Louise Glazier. The judge decided that sufficient evidence had not been produced connecting the two defendants named with the acts set forth in the declaration of the plaintiff to warrant submitting the case to the consideration of the jury.

The court decided that it should be left to the jury to determine whether Mrs. Nellie Fish Stever Whitley and George Marcosglantz, frequently referred to as the "cook" during the trial of the suit, were responsible for the alleged alienation of Mrs. Glazier's affections.

The defense rested its case without calling witnesses.

Closing addresses to the jury were made by J. E. Peaks of Dunbar, Nutter and McClellan of Boston representing George Marcosglantz; Lloyd Makepeace of Boston, representing Mrs. Nellie Fish Stever Whitley and Edgar L. Byerson of Boston, representing the plaintiff.

The case was given to the jury early this afternoon.

When the court adjourned, it was announced that no further sessions will be held until next Wednesday.

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Alexander Duprez, of 230 Cheever st., is in a serious condition at the Lowell Corporation hospital as a result of injuries he received yesterday afternoon in an automobile accident, which occurred in Broadway at a point near Wilson's coal yard. Duprez was crossing the street when an automobile owned by Howard R. Northrop, of 49 Wilder street, struck him after skidding. "The injured man was taken to the hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from severe abrasions about the body and a probable fracture of the skull. His name was placed on the dangerous list."

Defends Bank Against Bandits—Kills 1

CHICAGO, April 15.—S. B. Witowski, cashier of the State Bank of Cicero, a suburb, successfully defended the bank against six automobile bandits today, killing one and wounding two and capturing two others. Only the driver of the car, who remained outside the bank, escaped.

D'Annunzio Declines Nominations

ROME, April 15.—Many constituencies have offered nominations to the chamber of deputies to Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio, but he has decided not to accept, says a statement issued by the commander of his original expeditionary battalion.

Says Big Business Influenced R. R. Board

NEW YORK, April 15.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor declared today that the railroad labor board evidently had been influenced by big business in ordering abrogation of existing national working agreements between the carriers and their employees. "The whole railway act, once pronounced a perfect piece of legislation, now is denounced as an utter failure," he said. "The board evidently was influenced by big business."

For those who want the best.

Do You Realize What Page Quality Really Means?

PAGE'S CARAMELS, for example are made from 40% butter fat cream—cream that comes to us every morning from Poland, Sic., from one of the cleanest, most sanitary creameries in New England, not from some manufactured substitute which could be used—from the best grade Meadowbrook print butter, fresh every day from Vermont—not from Western tub butter which could be used—from fancy selected almonds, walnuts and pecans—not from small pieces, the refuse left in sorting out the best—from the very best flavoring it is possible to buy.

This is true of all other PAGE'S candy and bakery products.

Page's Ice Cream

Is made the same way, that is of the best materials obtainable. At a recent test at Lowell City Hall our ice cream tested nearly 20 per cent in rich butter fat—in quality and purity. The Massachusetts State law only requires 7 per cent butter fat. That means PAGE'S ice cream is three times as good as the State Law requires.

We could make all PAGE'S products for about half the present cost if we were willing to use substitutes. However, we believe there are enough people in Lowell and vicinity willing to pay a little more for sational split in the ranks of the powerful triple alliance on labor this afternoon completely changed the complexion of the blackest industrial crisis Great Britain had ever faced and averted the projected strike of the railwaymen and transport workers in sympathy with the striking miners, set for 10 o'clock tonight.

Events developed with such sudden and startling changes as to leave the public in a maze. Simultaneously with the announcement in the house of commons by Prime Minister Lloyd George that the miners had declined to accept his invitation to reopen negotiations with the mine owners on the terms advanced last evening by Frank Hodges, the miners' secretary, came the announcement that the railwaymen and the transport workers had cancelled the strike called for tonight.

The reason for this action by the railway and transport unions, which with the miners' union make up the triple alliance, was quickly developed. It appeared that the conferences throughout the day among the members of the alliance had developed a heated controversy revolving about the Hodges proposals. The miners condemned these with the assertion that Secretary Hodges had conceded too much in offering to discuss the question of wages without raising immediately the issue of a national pool, while the railroad men and the transport workers declared the proposition was reasonable and that the miners should renew the negotiations. The miners remained obstinate and the open breach resulted.

Existence Threatened

LONDON, April 15.—A letter was sent by Prime Minister Lloyd George today to the local authorities throughout the country for their guidance if the strike for tonight should occur.

"The country," he wrote, "is face to face with a situation which threatens not only its security, but also the very existence of ordered government in our land. The maintenance of the essential services, without which the people cannot live, is the first duty of the government and of the municipal authorities of the country. "Such services can only be maintained by the voluntary and energetic efforts of the country as a whole. To make this effort cannot be regarded as taking sides in an industrial struggle. It is a primary duty which every citizen owes to himself, to his family and to his country."

City Council Meeting

was elected following receipt of confirmation of the choice from the state authorities.

Following the proper advertising, the council adopted an order confirming the passage of an order on March 22, fixing the times of payment of bonds for the new high school. This was at the request of the attorneys of the First National bank of Boston.

William Ashworth was granted a garage license at 72 Blossom street, and Cameron Bros., a gasoline license in Hamilton street.

The petition of Brent Johnson for a gasoline license at 25 West Jackson street was referred to Commissioner Salmon.

The petition of D. J. Murphy for an electric light in Hoyt avenue was referred to Commissioner Murphy.

Maurice Mulcahy was granted a license to conduct a lunch cart in Jackson street.

The council adjourned at 10:20 to Wednesday next at 10 o'clock, thus doing away with the necessity of meeting next Tuesday, a holiday, as had been voted at a previous meeting. All members were present at today's meeting.

Nollet, City of Lowell, as required by section 37, chapter 643 of the acts of 1911, the City Charter, that the following vote has been proposed in Municipal Council, to wit:

That the Purchasing Agent be and he is hereby authorized and empowered to enter into contracts with the following named firms and corporations, in behalf of the City of Lowell, at the prices set forth in their respective bids, said firms and corporations having been the lowest bidders for the following named commodities to be used in the department of Streets and Highways:

Doherty Bros., sewer castings.

E. A. Wilson & Co., vitrified sewer pipe.

Standard Oil company of New York, furnishing and applying road oil.

That the commissioner of streets and highways be and hereby is authorized and empowered to join with the Purchasing Agent in executing or, should the City of Lowell said contract with the said Standard Oil company of New York.

That all payments of said commodities shall be charged as follows:

Sewer Castings and vitrified sewer pipe to the appropriation for sewer construction and furnishing and applying oil to the appropriation for street sprinkling.

OPENING DAY OF THE TROUT SEASON

The trout season got under way in Lowell and other parts of Massachusetts today and from now on until the first of August disciples of the celebrated Mr. Walton will be in their glory. The first day of the season was perfectly adapted, as far as atmospheric conditions are concerned, for this popular outdoor sport. There was no sunshine except very early this morning and the beauties of the local and neighboring brooks had little reason to be bashful about swimming within reaching distance of early season anglers.

There are 33 brooks within a radius of ten miles of Lowell which should be productive of trout this season. The Lowell Fish and Game association has stocked these brooks abundantly, in accordance with its usual custom. Therefore, the one remaining requisite is skill on the part of the fisherman.

The Lowell sportsman who intends to troll the elusive trout to its lair—off fish boat of such a place—must remember that there's nothing doing unless he carries in his inside pocket a neat little license which says that he has the right to fish in Massachusetts and that he has paid for that right.

For a few days City Clerk Stephen Flynn was without fishing license blanks owing to the great demand for them this year, but a new supply has been received and there are now plenty for all who want them.

Ordinarily, the opening of the trout season would find the water in the brooks too cold for any comfort-loving trout to come near the surface, but this spring has been so mild that the trout family has advanced its calendar and believes it is now the middle of May.

Many a fishing rod has been vanished during the last few days and more than one reel has been taken apart and copiously oiled. Keen anticipation has been the keynote of the Lowell fisherman's life but now the ban is off, everything is ready and the doom of the trout is at hand.

An electric lamp attached to the collar helps the hunting dog pursue his game into their burrows.

STRIKING AT STATE RIGHTS

Still there is an ill-advised support for the Smith-Towner bill in Lowell and some other cities in the northern states, maintained chiefly by college professors and clergymen who apparently see only the purpose of the bill to aid education in the south or wherever it is backward, and this at the expense of the states where it is progressive. They forget that the means to be adopted is distinctly Prussian and un-American, inasmuch as it is contrary to the spirit of our constitution to direct such activities from Washington. It is in line with the recent tendency to centralize power in the federal government to an extent never before attempted. This is a direct result of the war. Because the federal government did certain things during the war, some people believe it should continue to do so even by overriding and disregarding state rights.

The boasted sovereignty of the states will soon be a memory if this tendency be allowed to go unchecked. It is time to grapple with it before it be allowed to do any further harm. Already there has been an unwarranted encroachment on state rights by various laws enacted as a result of congressional lobbying and forced upon the states. Congressman Rogers and many other republicans are opposed to this centralization of authority, whether it be shown in the Smith-Towner bill or any other measure.

The other ground on which this bill should be opposed is that of expense. It proposes to raise $100,000,000 by taxation at a time when the nation is far more heavily burdened with taxation than ever before. This money would be collected mainly from the northern states and spent mainly in the south.

Massachusetts would have to pay $7,000,000 under the provisions of this bill to be spent in promoting education in Georgia and other southern states that refuse to appropriate a reasonable amount themselves. If this bill became law, the states that wanted to benefit most by its provisions would let their school systems run down and then call for aid from the federal government. Thus, the law would be a continual drag upon the progressive states, by compelling them to pay for educating the lazy, the indifferent and the dishonest.

The college professors who advocate this bill as a patriotic measure are opposing the interests of this commonwealth in two ways, first by striking at the sovereign rights of the state, and second, by favoring an addition to the present oppressive tax burdens at a time when the whole country is crying out for relief from the oppressive system resulting from the war.

EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

Mr. James A. Moyer, in his address at the closing exercises at the Textile school gave a very comprehensive outline of the wonderful proportions attained by the college extension work of the state department of education. Mr. Moyer is the head of this system of instruction and its great success is largely due to his personal supervision. The fact that there are 40,000 students enrolled in the college extension courses, indicates what an important educational institution this department has developed. The courses are so varied that any student can find among them practically everything he needs, and the teachers are men of experience, who understand thoroughly the best method of helping ambitious young men and women onward to success.

It is a fact that today thousands of young people occupy respectable positions that they could never have reached but for the help of the college extension courses. This department offers opportunities to ambitious young people that should be availed of, even to a greater extent than at present. There are thousands of young people, who by taking special courses could improve their position in life, but who through their own shiftness continue to go along on the old beaten path without any hope of advancement. With facilities for education brought to the very doors of those who need it, is there any excuse for the young men who remain in obscure positions simply because they lack the ambition and the determination to master a few technical branches?

THE CHARTER

The new city charter has been held so long in the various stages in the legislature that it will surely be a perfect instrument when it finally emerges. Nevertheless, the essential features of the charter remain, with the exception of the sweeping power which had originally been granted to the mayor. That has been properly modified and the only other amendments of any great importance provide that members of boards and commissions now in office, will be allowed to serve out their terms before being superseded under the new charter. The amendments provide that the superintendent of municipalities and the seal of weights and measures shall be placed under civil service rules seem to be out of place in the charter, although they are of no special importance. It is hoped that we shall not always need a superintendent of municipalities, but as for the seal of weights and measures, his services will always be needed and if he performs his duty as faithfully as the present incumbent he will be in no danger of removal.

CAR STRIKE THREATENED

It is to be hoped that this talk of a strike by the carmen on the Eastern Massachusetts will not be allowed to go unheeded until it culminates in a tie-up of the service. The public is not usually considered in such controversies and any newspaper that speaks a word for the rights of the people is accused of being opposed to one side or the other, or perhaps to both. Nothing, however, is regarded as fair by such critics except what favors their side. There can be no one-sided "agreement"; so that if the proposed agreement given out by the company is not acceptable to the men, the difference should be ironed out in conference or else submitted to arbitration. Refusal to follow this rule results in strikes that do more harm than good even to the winning side.

PEACE BY RESOLUTION

Senator Knox has introduced in congress his resolution to terminate the war with Germany. This is a temporary expedient, the object of which is to repair as far as possible the damage done by delay in the failure of the senate to ratify the Versailles treaty in any form. It is difficult to see just where this proceeding will land the United States. It is proposed to "engage," as the president puts it, under the treaty already adopted with certain reservations that will safeguard the United States in all its essential interests. The fact remains, however, that inasmuch as the adopted treaty is now in effect, and Germany no longer a free agent, it would appear that the compact will have to be revamped, renegotiated and reaffirmed by all the signatory powers. This will be a tedious proceeding and one of the most unusual and difficult.

THE BRITISH CRISIS

We are still confident that at the last moment, the threatened strike in England will be averted. True, the situation has got rather beyond the control of the premier, who at the outset rather scoffed at the attitude of the unions in the triple alliance. That combination representing 4,000,000 men, however, has apparently decided to assert its power and to force concessions despite the threats of government authority backed by the military force mustered for the emergency. It looks now as if Lloyd George is not so sure of enacting a coup that would bring him out of this national crisis with a new halo of political glory.

PRICE OF GAS

The federal district court in New York city has fixed the price of gas at $1.20 per 1000 cubic feet for state, county and city officials. The companies are now charging $1.50 per 1000 and the cut is regarded as material. It is 40 cents per 1000 cubic feet less than the rate now in force in Lowell.

"Next Sunday, they say, will be even drier in New York, and the tendency after that will be from the comparative to the superlative," says the Boston Globe. When the superlative has been reached the New Yorkers can imagine it to Lowell where we have an unchanging degree of "wetness."

Senator Moses, saying that the president has "pronounced a fitting benediction over the dead body of the league" might also take credit to himself for having been largely instrumental in providing the principal requisite for the funeral.

The Sun and its readers have become so accustomed to getting things done that it seems almost superfluous to call attention to the fact that the Ladd and Whitney monument is at last being cleaned as a result of their team work.

Some of the members of the Lawrence city council started out to reduce the pay of city employees and they got just as far as our own municipal fathers who did not make any such start at all.

Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy says that there is no better paying work done anywhere in the country than in Lowell. There is no fault found with the quality. Why we can't have more of it is what bothers the public.

Harding pronounced them "ee-ther" and "nee-ther" while Wilson called them "l-ther" and "ut-ther." Does this prove that the former president was dominated by English influences while his successor is not?

One nail was hit squarely on the head when President Harding said that people are not so much interested in shifting the burden of taxes as they are in "wiping out the necessity for imposing them."

Members of the New York Women's league say that they are going to find a good man to run for mayor of New York and then elect him. Faith like that ought to be able to remove a mountain of corrupt government.

A news item says that the president cannot leave the White House without being followed by a squad of secret service detectives. We had not supposed that Mr. Harding was quite such a suspicious character.

The wife of the governor of Nebraska, who does all the housework in a 21-room home, probably is content to let her husband look after the politics for the family.

The railroads are reported to be losing $105,000,000 a month, and perhaps are about beginning to learn that increasing rates is not a sure way of adding to income.

Manchester, N. H., Lowell's younger sister in the Merrimack valley family of cities, is to have a new art gallery. When shall we catch up with our progressive relative up the river?

If we may judge from the cool, even tenor of Mr. Harding's message there will at least be a noticeable lack of fire and fireworks during his administration.

Mayor Thompson, as the guest of the rubber shoe city, may bring home a supply of footwear for a "rum-shoo" campaign for re-election.

SEEN AND HEARD

"Investigations" will have another lining. Congress is back on the job.

Smoke is a nuisance but these days we'd all like to see more of it coming out of factory chimneys.

For slow speed, the peace conference wasn't in it with that world's championship chess match in Havana.

The Joplin (Mo.) Globe wants to know if Henry Ford's new tin cow will have a self-starter or shall we have to twist her tail. Tell 'em, 'emry!

Shells said to be 15,000,000 years old are dug up near Marlton, N. J. Mother Nature, constantly destroying, manages to keep a record of "most everything."

A Milwaukee woman who died at 118 smoked a pipe, cigars and cigarettes. So far as we can learn she never shivered, toddled, covered her ears with her hair, shaved off her eyebrows or wore hairnet stockings.—Cleveland Press.

The Quaker's Horse

After an absence of more than thirty years a New York multimillionaire made a flying visit to his native town on the occasion of its old home week celebration. Since he had become a mighty merchant prince his townfolk had constantly missed him as an example for imitation. At the banquet given him by his schoolmates and boyhood associates he was congratulated and belauded to the skies. When he arose to speak they listened with closest attention, for they thought they might obtain a glimpse of the method which had enabled him to reach the high peaks of finance. "You tell me," he began, "that I am the most successful man that ever left the town, that I ought to be the happiest man in the known world. Well, to be honest with you, I am neither the one nor the other. I am far less successful and happy than the poorest among you. When a man deliberately puts his whole life into a business, into anything, and gets nothing out of it but cash, cold cash, as they call it, he is not getting the full value of his investment. Ever heard the story of the Quaker's horse? No! Well, I will tell it to you, for it explains my position exactly. A certain Quaker brought a rather fine looking horse to the fair for sale. A farmer took a fancy to the animal, it being the kind he needed, but suspected that something was amiss else the owner would not be so eager to dispose of him. Knowing that Quakers had the reputation for truthfulness, he asked, 'Hasn't the horse some faults?' 'Two,' replied the Quaker. 'What are they?' 'I'll tell thee one of the faults before thee buy him; the other when I get the money.' 'Very well,' assented the farmer, 'I'll wait a gain. What is his first fault?' 'He is very, very hard to catch.' 'Oh, that's nothing,' laughed the farmer, 'I can remedy that. What is the second fault?' he asked, as he paid over the purchase money. The Quaker carefully counted the money, then he leaned toward the farmer and said in a confidential tone, 'With caught he is no good.' Now that is my identical case. I strove and strove for years and years to catch up with Wealth. In doing so I lost sight of everything else. It took me a provokingly long time pursuing and awaiting and waiting and musing before I succeeded, and at the end of my tether I find the Quaker's horse. Has I given but a few dollars to charity in my struggling days it would have saved my face today, for none would doubt my sincerity. It is a bad business for all concerned where one takes all in and gives nothing. The gist of my experience is no man or woman can be really happy or successful unless by doing good to others."

To a Lost Love

When I go back to Chateaugay and see The old accustomed shores, my journey seems An aimless prowl among deserted dreams of you. Then suddenly Abandoned fancies show their goal to me.

My new awareness of old hopes I keep Is like a sinking into blissful sleep That I can never wake from memory. But I return upon an idle questing In gathering the elements of dream. For, though I can recover clouds and blue To hush the later sky, though south and west Offer their winds and stars will lend Their gleam.

The storm night will not contribute you.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

There can be no greater arraignment of a city than to find that dogs and cats flee from you as you walk peacefully along the streets. Every dog cringes away when you whistle to him, every cat who maddly beats it for refuge when you call "Here, puss," means that some low-down, narrow contracted soul parading in human form has administered at one time a wanted kick to the dog, has hurled an uncalled-for brickbat at the cat. Cats are naturally neutral in the matter of men. They neither like nor dislike the human species. Let the thousands of them will spend their days basking in the sunlight. They won't bother you or come near you, although if you scratch their sensitive necks, they will sing a little song for you and arch their furry backs pleasantly. Dogs not only are harmless; they are positively devoted to man, woman and child. Give a dog half a chance and he is your friend for life. He will give you as much affection as though you were a god. He will gladly learn amusing tricks, he will play with you, pretending to be ferocious, biting and growling but with the most marvelous care not to hurt; he will be a companion to you, a merry-eyed, lively, tireless companion. But neither dog nor cat will go out of their way to harm you. Why cannot we be as decent as these animals? Why must some of us forever ruin their dispositions, pester their repose, tease, torment, and assault them until they become "vicious" and have to be muzzled, leashed, or even killed?

When I step across the boundaries into the perfect town, what I know it by the dogs and cats, which with few exceptions, are as decent as a few fanes and fellows who are naturally mean of temper—like some men that you and I are acquainted with. But take them all in all, these domestic animals exemplify in a way that some of us humans have unfortunately not yet learned, the noble art of living and letting live. It is to the credit of American cities that they usually have humane societies devoted to the rights of themselves. In Lowell there is the Lowell Humane society, headed by Agent Richardson. The activities of this organization do honor to the citizenry of Lowell. But the man who harms without cause an inoffensive animal, an animal who has imbibed the lesson so hard for some humans to

IN AUSTRIA

VIENNA, April 15.—The master tailors and milliners of Vienna are having difficulty trying to maintain the influence of Paris fashions and styles in women's attire which they established in war time. While they established in progress they declared an act of emancipation from the rule of the Rue de la Paix and conducted a vigorous campaign all over the then enemy and neutral states to make Vienna, instead of Paris, the arbiter of women's fashions.

Now the tailors and milliners charge their own members with treason in yielding to feminine demand and bringing model costumes from Paris.

The tailors and milliners complain also of the competition in their trades which comes from the wives or widows of former Austrian army officers of industrial social standing who are signing of costumes for the newly rich as a means of livelihood. One of these new competitors is the wife of an Austrian general and many of them have their shops in their own palaces or apartments.

The master tailors are trying to have the labor laws amended so that no one may do such business without having served an apprenticeship of two and one-half years.

The extinct volcano Pablos, overlooking Honolulu, now furnishes 2,000,000 gallons of drinking water daily to the city.

Understand that of minding his own business, such a man needs watching. If he doesn't respect the rights of the helpless, he won't respect the rights of anyone unless he is forced to it.

John Kendrick Bangs' recent remarks in this city regarding the reasons why news editors "play-up" stories about "crime, pestilence, famine and sudden death" have started people talking about what they think is the sense or lack of sense that governs the papers in selecting the news to which they shall give prominence. In the first place the public can feel pretty well assured that the newspaper men know what they are about in performing their work. "News," Mr. Bangs is quoted as having said, "is the record of the unusual." It is something more than that; it is the record of the striking and the dramatic in the daily happenings of the world. Old newspaper men will tell you that the most valuable qualification for a good reporter is a "nose for news." It is a faculty that is born and not made. Some persons have it and some have not, and those who have it not may as well make up their minds that it can never be acquired. The possessor of a "nose for news" sees instinctively the things that are most certain to interest the public. The public, too, has very clearly defined ideas of what it wants to read. A clerkship, it may be remembered, a few years ago was given permission to take over a daily paper in Nebraska for a month and run it as he thought it should be run. The job had lasted more than a month, the ground would have been the place into which he would have ultimately "run" the publication. A news editor must furnish what his readers demand and not what some people think they ought to demand, other than newspapers. And remember that most newspapers were never brighter, cleaner, or as well edited as they are today.

ALTITUDE HAS MUCH TO DO WITH SPEED

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The value to an aviator of knowledge of air conditions is pointed out by C. LeRoy Meisinger, government meteorologist, in a paper analyzing the results of data gathered by the weather bureau and the air mail service.

Mr. Meisinger explains that information of upper air conditions has enabled a saving of as high as two hours in the time taken for certain air mail trips, of 450 miles, and he looks upon the general lack of knowledge of air currents as the most serious present obstacle to immediate commercial aviation on a large scale in this country. Europe's vaunted superiority over the United States in commercial aviation is discounted by Mr. Meisinger, who says that "every day United States mail planes are flying over laps of such length that the famous European routes seem to diminish in importance."

To "keep the eagle in the air," however, the confidence of the American public must be maintained, according to Mr. Meisinger. He declares that expert knowledge of air conditions and application of the value which may be obtained from this knowledge, will reduce accidents, increase the safety of flying and create public support of commercial aviation.

Through scientific study of the air, commercial aviation can be given such an impetus that America will be supreme in this work. Mr. Meisinger says, adding that European aviation companies realize the value of the air factor and have created departments of aeronautical meteorology.

On journeys westward, the air mail service has found that generally an altitude of one kilometer (about 3300 feet) results in the most speed, the winds being most favorable there. On the return journey, however, three kilometers have been found to be the most favorable altitude, the winds varying at different heights.

By flying at the one kilometer altitude, planes could travel from New York to Omaha at an average of three hours and forty minutes less than similar planes could make at three kilometers, according to the figures cited by Mr. Meisinger, all being on the basis of a plane which had a still air speed of 100 miles an hour.

One hour and 55 minutes of this saving is made on the Chicago-Omaha leg (50 miles); 54 minutes on the lay from New York to Cleveland, 410 miles, and 45 minutes from Cleveland to Chicago, 527 miles. In returning from Omaha to New York, a plane flying at an altitude of three kilometers would make the trip in 1 hour and 15 minutes less on the average than one flying at one kilometer high, according to Mr. Meisinger's figures.

On the New York to Washington mail trip, about 200 miles, it has been

MOTHER DOG BEGS FOOD FOR PUPPIES

CLEAR LAKE, Minn., April 15.—When the owner of a dog and nine puppies turned them out without food and refused to feed them any longer, the mother dog did just what a human mother would have done in similar circumstances. She went from door to door begging food for her little ones.

The dog would scratch at the back doors of Clear Lake houses and when opened she would look into the faces of the person who came and then at her half-starved puppies, telling as eloquently as she knew how that they were in need.

Her appeal was always heeded and food was provided for the wanderers. But in every instance the mother dog, hungry as she must have been, refused to touch any of the food until her little ones had had all they wanted.

The case was reported at length to Sam F. Fullerton, executive agent of the Minnesota Society for the Prevention of Cruelty, who investigated the story and found it true in every particular. Mr. Fullerton compelled the dog's owner to take her and her puppies back to provide enough food for them.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT
IN PRINCETON COLLEGE

PRINCETON, N. J., April 15.—University faculties throughout the United States are watching with keen interest the experiment put in effect at Princeton to have the undergraduates handle the situation with regard to the morale of the student body. The ruling marks the beginning of an epoch in student government in American universities. The professors of Old Nassau have decided the time has come when the undergraduate is better able to handle the question of his morals than the discipline committee of the faculty itself. Accordingly, they have placed in the senior council the power to recommend the punishment "for acts tending to injure the good name or the moral tone of the university" without giving reasons for evidence to the faculty.

Princeton has an efficient proctorial system under the guidance of Henry Boyle, known to Princetonians in song and story as "Hank the Cop." The duty of the university proctor has dated from the days before the American Revolution when all the Princeton students lived in Nassau hall, and, as the old records show, indulged in smuggling roast fowl and beer into their rooms through the medium of the negro-slaves residing in "Prinetown." But with the introduction of the honor system into university life in the nineties, much of the duty and importance of the proctor was absorbed by the various undergraduate bodies, chief of which is the honor committee itself. Almost all phases of undergraduate activity come under this system, from cheating in examinations to the use of "plants" in the seats of absentees in lecture rooms.

came to the conclusion that at frequent intervals acts occur on the campus that need punishment, and which escape the notice of the proctor, but not of the undergraduates themselves. The mental state of an undergraduate is such that his conscience does not allow him to report his fellows to anyone even remotely connected with the faculty, but he is willing to report such proceedings to the senior council with the proviso that it shall go no farther. It was to deal with this situation that the new ruling at Princeton was passed.

The council, an elective body of seniors, usually including the class officers, the major sport captains and the heads of the important campus activities, meets every Monday night in the council chamber of Murray Dodge hall to consider the affairs of the university. In case charges of a serious nature are brought against any student by his fellows the proceedings are in secret, and the council sits as a jury on the case. The offender is brought into the room and seated at the head of a long table and informed of the accusations. He has the right of stating his case and he may bring in witnesses—and while the defendant is at liberty to call upon anyone he desires in his defense, the testimony of the faculty, or of the proctor's force would not be admitted against him.

Witnesses "for the state" are then questioned, and while their testimony may cause anguish to his friends, they have never been known to refuse it, though the council has no means of forcing students to appear in the witness box.

The whole proceeding is carried on under the honor system, and the word of the defendant carries more weight than circumstantial evidence. After the testimony is completed, the council goes into deliberation. Points of law do not exist and the purpose is to reach a decision in equity. A three-quarter vote is necessary to convict, and any smaller majority amounts to acquittal. A similar majority is necessary in fixing the penalty. The president of the council then reports to the faculty that his colleagues have recommended certain penalties to be inflicted upon the defendant a recommendation which is accepted without question.

A student has the right to appeal to the discipline committee of the faculty, in which case all the evidence is presented.

RED TRIANGLE
VILLAGE OFFICERS

Results of the election held last Saturday and Sunday for the officers of Red Triangle village at the Y.M.C.A. were announced last evening at the regular dormitory meeting. The following men were elected: L. P. Conley, mayor; Gerald Thompson, clerk; councilman: Ward 1, H. E. Boyle; ward 2, S. Shannon; ward 3, J. J. Southern; ward 4, A. Livingstone; ward 5, K. Dumesnil. This is the outgrowth of the effort to start an organization of self-government of the dormitory men made a week or two ago. This organization is being carried on very successfully in many of the large associations throughout the country. At the meeting last evening the following appointments were made by the mayor: For commissioner of social welfare, L. Simard; for commissioner of welcome, E. G. Hopkins. Also a constitution was elected to frame a constitution, composed of the following: J. E. Wilson, Geo. Cobb, Chas. Morse, J. T. Gearon, Wm. Rhodes. It was also voted to have a weekly village sheet called "The Dorm," in which will be put items of interest, suggestions, knock-out, etc. Supper was served by the ladies before the meeting was held. Forty of the dormitory men were present.

RAILROAD LABOR BOARD

Terms of Three Members of Federal Body Established in 1920 Expire

CHICAGO, April 15.—The terms of three members of the United States railroad labor board expire today, marking the first birthday of the federal body as established under the transportation act of 1920. One member from each of the public, railway and labor groups terminates his one-year appointment.

The one-year members were Henry T. Hunt of Cincinnati, for the public; W. L. Park of Chicago, railway member, and J. J. Forrester of Washington, D. C., representing labor. They may be reappointed or successors appointed by the president, with the confirmation of congress.

The railroad labor board consists of nine members, three in each of the public, railway and labor groups. When the first appointments were made on April 15, 1920, one member of each group was appointed for one year, one from each group for two years and the third from each group, for three years. Appointments as vacancies occur are to be for five years.

The outgoing public member, Henry Thomas Hunt, is a lawyer and former mayor of Cincinnati. During the war, he attended the first officers' training camp at Fort Ben Harrison, being commissioned first lieutenant, and subsequently being promoted to major in May, 1918. Maj. Hunt served with the A.E.F. from September of that year until the following January and was a member of the war department board of contract adjustment in Washington when appointed to the labor board. Mr. Hunt was born in 1878 and was graduated from Yale and Cincinnati Law school, being admitted to the Ohio bar in 1902. He practiced law in Cincinnati, being elected to the state legislature in 1906 for two years and serving as mayor of the city from 1912 to 1914.

William Leo Park, railway member, has been a railroad man since 1878, when he entered the service of the Union Pacific as a brakeman, after studying at Seagrave's academy, Omaha, Neb. Two years later, at the age of 18, he was promoted to freight conductor. He continued with the Union Pacific for 25 years, acting as superintendent of several western divisions.

In March, 1910, Mr. Park became vice president of the Illinois Central and the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley railroads, in charge of operation, maintenance of way construction and hospital departments. In November, 1918, he was appointed vice president of the Chicago Great Western railroad in charge of all departments, except traffic and accounting, and continued with this road as federal manager under the U. S. railroad administration.

The labor member, John J. Forrester, was born on a farm in Ohio in 1867 and has been a railroad man since 1882. He began on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern (now the New York Central) as a messenger and extra ticket clerk, meanwhile teaching school and studying law in his spare hours. After a varied experience on the Wabash and Clover Leaf he returned to the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern in 1902 at Toledo.

In 1904, Mr. Forrester became assistant chief clerk for the general superintendent of the Hocking Valley railroad at Columbus, O., and three years later resigned to accept a position as organizer for the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. He held various executive positions in the organization until his election in 1915 as grand president. He was re-elected president in 1919. Mr. Forrester first became a member of the clerks' organization in 1899 and remained active in their affairs through the consolidation which grouped all organizations under the present Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees.

Under the transportation act, members of the board may be nominated upon the occurrence of a vacancy, but no provision is made for continuing present members on the boards until they are reappointed or until successors are named.

CITY MUST PAY BILL LIST OF DRAFT EVADERS FOUR IDENTIFY LOUD

Decision by Court That the Kimball Company Shall Receive $6097.61

A jury in the Suffolk county superior court yesterday returned a verdict of $6097.61 for the plaintiff in the case of the Kimball Co. of Boston vs. the city of Lowell. In an action to recover $6000 alleged to have been owed the company for the redrafting of plans in connection with the erection of the new high school in this city. The $7.61 additional awarded today is for interest. Later on, the city will be called upon to pay the costs of the case, which will probably be $50 additional.

CALLS TRANSPORTATION ACT A MENACE

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The transportation act has reached "a place where it is a menace to our institutions," William H. Johnston, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, declared in an address at the opening session here today of the people's reconstruction league conference.

Reiterating charges that "the steel trust and Mr. Gary" were "behind the fight to destroy the unions and cripple labor," Mr. Johnston added:

"The predatory financial interests and selfish business interests and monopoly interests want to saddle not only the cost of the war but the current costs of government upon the working people, farmers, workers in mines and transportation by a retail sales tax and other consumption taxes from which they hope to raise about two billion dollars."

MIDDLESEX, Vt., April 14.—Burglars visited this village at some time during the night making raids on the postoffice, the Central Vermont railway station and the store of F. E. Mills. It is thought the work was done by an automobile party. Several hundred dollars were secured in money and booty.

Publication Held up for Opinion From Attorney General Daugherty

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The opinion of the department of justice as to the possible liability of the government, the secretary of war and newspapers for the publication of the names of persons which may be erroneously included in the lists of draft evaders prepared by the war department, will be sent to Secretary Weeks early next week, Attorney General Daugherty said today. Publication of the lists has been held up by Secretary Weeks pending receipt of the opinion.

GERMAN GOLD $5,000,000 Shipment Arrives at New York

NEW YORK, April 14.—Nearly $5,000,000 in German gold coin, the first such shipment since the war, arrived today on the steamer Stockholm from Copenhagen, consigned to Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

The gold, mostly in marks, came from Swedish banking houses, which had accumulated it through payments for goods sent into Germany over a period of years. The bullion, it was explained, was neither a direct nor indirect shipment from Germany to America.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 14.—A resolution calling on President Harding to recognize the "Republic of Ireland" was passed by the Illinois house of representatives today by a vote of 101 to 10. Little argument preceded the roll call.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 14.—Notices were sent out today by the N. Y. N. H. & H. that conferences are desired with representatives of a number of classes of employees in regard to a reduction of wages to be effective May 20.

Declare He is Man Seen Near Spot Where Policeman Was Murdered

WAKEFIELD, April 14.—Four persons, two men and two women, visited the East Cambridge jail today and, according to District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts picked out Clarence W. Loud of Melrose from among 10 prisoners as a man they had seen near the spot in Wakefield where Policeman James A. Preston was murdered Saturday night.

TO PLACE DRY AGENTS UNDER CIVIL SERVICE

BALTIMORE, April 14.—Activities of the National Civil Service Reform league in combating appointment of "loose and inefficient" prohibition enforcement agents are reviewed in the report of the council of the league, read at the annual meeting here today.

Reiterating charges that the enforcement personnel includes many dishonest men and women, some with criminal records, the report urges support of a bill before congress requiring that all dry agents be placed under civil service regulation and subjected to the customary examinations. It also takes sharp issue with provisions in the measure insisted upon by the Anti-Saloon league which would permit appointment of persons without previous experience in criminal investigation.

The Anti-Saloon league, the report says, "prefers to let these places continue as political spoils rather than agree to a normal method of providing for their competitive classification under the civil service law." Until the latter method is undertaken, it continues, the enforcement of the prohibition law will not be freed from the odium in which it is now held.

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT WIRE DESPATCHES

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Reports from London that Lord Chalmers, permanent secretary of the British treasury, would sail Saturday to begin negotiations here for the funding of the British war debt to the United States, although substantially denied, drew from Secretary Mellon today a statement that the treasury department was expecting early resumption of the negotiations.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Basing its action on the recent reduction in prices announced by the United States Steel Corp., the International Harvester Co. today announced a straight 10 per cent reduction, effective next year, on products in which steel is the principal raw material.

SALEM, April 14.—Two barrels of alcohol were uncovered by revenue officers today soon after they began search of a carload of potatoes which arrived here a few days ago from Quebec. The shipment was consigned to a firm which so far as the authorities have been able to learn, does not exist.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Cotton manufacturers utilized more raw cotton during March than in any month since last September, a total of 437,333 bales having been consumed, according to the monthly report today of the census bureau. This was 20,325 more bales than in February.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Liabilities of more than $1,000,000 are listed in a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against the Rubber Corporation of America, filed in the federal court. Claims include the Equitable Trust Co., $70,042, and the National Park bank, $72,500.

HAVERHILL, April 14.—The Shoe Manufacturers' association today submitted to the Shoe Workers' Protective union a request that the union submit price lists calling for wage reductions ranging from 20 to 35 per cent.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Street corner oratory of radical nature is becoming extinct since the war, a report made public today by the American Civil Liberties union said.

MAN DROPS DEAD IN HURD STREET

George Sheppard, aged 37 years, of 155 Market street, dropped dead in Hurd street about 9 o'clock last evening.

Mr. Sheppard went to the Crescent A.A. to attend the boxing bouts and witness one of his sons, Johnny, box. The boy was unable to perform owing to an injured hand, but the father remained during the first contest. He suddenly arose to leave the hall, apparently feeling ill and desiring to get into the air. Upon reaching the street he collapsed. He was carried into the Crescent alleys, and Dr. William Collins, who was upstairs was hastily summoned. The doctor arrived just as the man was passing away.

Mr. Sheppard was employed at the Massachusetts mill. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Catherine, two sons, John and Patrick and two daughters, Misses Mary and Margaret Sheppard. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons.

CASE OF GEN. EDWARDS

(Special to The Sun.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 13.—"Why was the name of General Edwards put by you at the head of the list for promotions to major generals was the question put this afternoon to Sec. of War Weeks by The Sun correspondent. "Because he is the senior in rank of all the other brigadier generals on the list for promotions," replied Secretary Weeks. "General Edwards is entitled to head the list and I have given him that position, because it belongs to him." There is very general approval of the course taken by Secretary Weeks on this subject. General Edwards' place of honor on the list of promotions, a list from which the former secretary of war eliminated him, Gen. Edwards' future duties have not been assigned nor will they be until after he has been confirmed as major general by the senate, but it is rumored here that he will be given command over the eastern division and thus be returned to the locality of his beloved 25th Division. Rumor that he might be made chief of staff are apparently without foundation.

MISS OSGOOD FURNISHES EVENING'S PLEASURE

Miss Helen Osgood was the sole performer in a pleasant evening's entertainment in Colonial hall last night. Not only did she present all of the numbers on a long program of recitations, but she was the author of all of the different selections. The original monologues and poems were of unusual merit. There was a charm of literary skill in her written lines that showed the touch of the artist who feels and understands. In her selections were blended the grave and gay, the light and shadow, with a deft appeal to sentiment and emotions.

Miss Osgood has a pleasing stage presence and last night she won a sure place in the hearts of her audience from the opening number. She managed her voice well, her enunciation was good, and she gave her tones a carrying power that made them distinct in the farthest corners of the hall. In her opening number, "A Patina of the Arts," Miss Osgood gave a picture of the bored and fickle society dame that is familiar to those who have set in it horseshoe at grand opera.

Not the least beautiful of the numbers of the program was the recitation of original French dialect poems. Her Italian dialect sketches were also charming in the insight they gave into the characters and ways of thinking of the sons and daughters of sunny Italy. "My Sister's Head" furnished delightful humor as did also "The Chorus Lady at the Breakfast Table."

The program was as follows:
A Patron of the Arts.
French Dialect Poems:
A Bit of Strategy.
Babette and the Doughboy.
The Conquiste.
My Sister's Head.
Awakening.
A Golden Butterfly.
Fairies.
The Chorus Lady at the Breakfast Table.

Understanding.
From a Mother's Heart.
Mrs. Nagg Goes Automobiling, or the Trials of a Nervous Woman.
Italian Dialect Sketches:
At the Movies.
A Changed Romeo.
The Conquest.
The Gay Immigrant.
At the Beauty Parlor.
Calvary of the Street.
The ushers were: Harriet Morse, Gladys Jewel, Anna Kelley and Estelle Drury.
Miss Osgood was presented with many flowers during the evening. It is understood that she is soon to make her debut in St. Louis, Mo., in an entertainment similar to that which she gave last night.
The United States or are now in production.

ENTERTAINMENT IN HIGH SCHOOL HALL

Members of the faculty of the high school enjoyed an informal luncheon and program of entertainment and sports in high school hall last evening. The second annual affair of this kind. At 6 o'clock luncheon was served by a committee of teachers composed of Miss Ruth Eaton, Miss Edith Eskimo, Miss Helen E. M. Chouteau and Miss Mary Tobin. Headmaster Henry H. Harlow was toastmaster and there were remarks by Miss Mary A. Webster, a special guest of the occasion, and children. Miss Frances J. H. Forest entertained with songs and a program of games and sports which was carried out under the direction of Donald MacIntyre, physical director at the school. The affair ended with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

CLERKS HOLD ANNUAL DANCING PARTY

The Gannon Co. Employees' Mutual Benefit association held its annual dancing party in Associate hall last evening with Mayor and Mrs. Perry D. Thompson among the special guests of the occasion. Associate hall never looked more inviting. The decorative scheme was pale yellow and blue with hanging lanterns as an added attraction. The stage was banked in a background of appropriate color and the general effect was most pleasing. Following a brief concert, general dancing was enjoyed until early morning. In addition to the mayor and Mrs. Thompson, guests of the evening included Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gannon, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Desrosiers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Treague and Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Sullivan.

The officers in charge of the affair were: General manager, Henry F. Sullivan; assistant general manager, Mrs. Mary Murphy; floor director, Thomas Treague; assistant floor director, Miss Lillian Akers; chief aid, Leonard Goldman; reception committee, Michael McInerney, chairman, Miss Gilligan, Miss Foley, Miss Roselle, Miss Robbins, Miss Vigneault and Miss Brunelle.

"GOOD SAMARITAN" HELD IN $500

NEW YORK, April 15.—Leo Busch, porter, who essayed the role of "good samaritan" and placed whiskey to the lips of a plain clothes policeman who fainted before the doors of a saloon, was held in $500 bond today for the grand jury, charged with violation of the new state prohibition laws.

Busch told Magistrate Simpson he thought the policeman was dying until the latter sprang to his feet and arrested him.

The magistrate said he appreciated Busch's good intentions, but that even "good samaritans" were forbidden by the new law from having liquor in their possession on the street.

Police activity in Greater New York since enforcement of the new laws has resulted in about 650 arrests and seizure of thousands of gallons of liquor. Forty-one indictments have been returned and plans are being made for summoning two extra grand juries.

SEVEN ORPHAN BOYS IN VIRTUAL SLAVERY

WICHITA, Kas., April 15.—Seven orphan boys, from 13 to 17 years of age, former wards of the juvenile authorities at Louisville, Ky., are victims of virtual slavery on a farm near Blackwell, according to a story told by Henry Varble, aged 15, of Owensboro, Ky., to the secretary of the Wichita Social League. The lad alleges he and the other boys were badly mistreated being forced to work from early morning until late at night.

DEATHS

DOYLE—Adeline Doyle, infant daughter of Morris J. and Alberta Marquis Doyle, died last evening at the Lowell General Hospital, aged 12 days. The body was removed to the home of her parents, 158 Ford street by Undertakers Amodeo Archambault & Sons.

CAYANAUGH—John Cavanaugh, a well known resident of this city, died today at St. John's hospital. Deceased is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Mary Flynn, of Providence, R. I., and one son, Thomas P. Cavanaugh. The body was removed to the home of his son, Thomas P. Cavanaugh, 457 Lawrence street, by Undertaker Peter H. Savage.

FUNERALS

McDANIELS—The funeral of Margaret J. McDaniels took place from the home of her sister, Miss Charlotte McDaniels, 405 East Merrimack street, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Appleton Grannis, pastor of St. Anne's Episcopal church. Burial was in the family lot in the Lowell cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Walter H. MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Frank E. Charlton and Miss Ruby A. Gagnon, both residents of Grantville, were married Wednesday afternoon at St. John's rectory, North Chelmsford, the ceremony being performed by the pastor, Rev. Charles P. Heaney. The bridesmaid was a sister of the bride, Miss Nora Gagnon, while the best man was Mr. Thomas Gower. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The couple will make their home in Grantville.

for until Monday. Meanwhile he said many applications for work and from employees for workmen were being received.

Union leaders on the other hand said they expected the men, of whom 16,000 have been in idleness for three months to hold firm. A meeting of the United Building Trades Council was called for tonight and at that time Secretary E. A. Johnson said he expected to have a large number of men from the various jobs which have been tied up since the employers announced a wage reduction in January. Until these reports were received and the council had had an opportunity to study yesterday's announcement of the employers' association, he would have no statement to make, he said.

In their announcement the employers said a 50-cent hourly rate of wages would be paid, 10 cents below the former scale, and that they would make no agreement with the unions at least for the remainder of this year. Some who applied for work today expressed a wish for a nine hour day at the 50-cent rate. Mr. Walsh said, and the proposition would be considered by the association council within the next day or two.

Reports reaching him today indicated Mr. Walsh said, that building trades employers in other sections of the state where wage controversies exist, would follow the lead of the Boston men in suspending negotiations with the unions.

CAKE SALE

The ladies of St. Michael's parish will hold a cake sale at Gagnon's on Friday, April 22, for the benefit of the Boston college building fund. Those in charge are Mrs. Geo. Keefe, Mrs. M. 1918 body would be asked to appear. His announcement was made after Edwin T. McKnight, former president of the senate, Representative Andrew P. Doyle and former Representative John L. Donovan, who had been asked to appear, had failed to attend.

Several legislators who were in the hearing room offered to testify immediately in response to the chairman's announcement that all 1918 members would be called and others appeared later.

All of those who had been examined previous to the noon recess answered in the negative on all three points, except Representative Charles H. Harrington of Gardner. He testified that Harrison H. Atwood of Boston, who served with him on the ways and means committee of the house in 1918, had told him that he had bought Elevated stock.

HELD SOCIAL EVENING
Last evening between 50 and 60 members of the evening school vocational classes for Police women gathered for a social evening at the International Institute rooms. The guests of honor were Misses Esther Downing, Anna O'Day, Pauline and Mrs. Byrne, who were in charge of some of the winter vocational classes.

An interesting musical program was given, which included compositions of Tchaikovsky played by Miss Esther Nicholson, folk music by the Institute mandolin club, Polish and American songs by Miss Mary Urbanek and group community singing by the guests of Polish and American songs. It was decided at the meeting to hold similar gatherings throughout the summer. Miss Josephine Sroczynska was in charge of the affair.

MUST NOT CHANGE BILL

Fordney Insists Tariff Measure Be Passed Without Amendments

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The emergency tariff bill must pass the house in the form in which it was introduced, Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee declared today as the house resumed consideration of the combined tariff and anti-dumping measure. Democratic leaders had half a dozen amendments ready to offer, but Republican leaders hoped to have them voted down.

Provisions of the bill were taken up section by section in today's discussion under an arrangement limiting speeches to five minutes. Leaders pressed for a final vote before adjournment, but opponents of the measure were said to be prepared to delay final action as long as possible.

Unexpected and Sensational Break on Eve of Great Industrial Crisis

To Act on Decision of R. R. Men and Transport Workers Not to Quit

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, April 15.—The calling of a conference of representatives of the miners from all the coal fields, at a date to be fixed tomorrow, was decided upon by the executive of the miners' federation this evening. It took this action after hearing the decision of the railwaymen and transport workers to cancel their sympathetic strike.

Frank Hodges, the miners' secretary, when questioned regarding this decision, said it meant that the miners' strike would continue.

"If I had resigned (as he was reported to have done) I should not be giving you this report," he added.

Council Votes to Borrow

$20,000 for Sidewalks—

Animal Inspector Elected

The municipal council at a special meeting this morning adopted an order to borrow $20,000 for sidewalk construction, introduced by Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy. The order had previously been advertised.

The council also instructed the city clerk to advertise a vote that the purchasing agent be empowered to enter into a contract with the following firms for supplies needed by the street and sewer departments for the current year. In each instance, the firms are the lowest bidders: Doherty Brothers, sewer castings; E. A. Wilson & Co., vitrified sewer pipe; Standard Oil company of New York, furnishings and supplies; and the cost of the sewer castings and sewer pipe will be charged to the sewer department appropriation and the oil to the street sprinkling appropriation.

Dr. Walter A. Sherman, who was recently nominated for the position of animal inspector for the ensuing year.

CAMPAIGN PROGRESSING

Meeting Tonight in Elks' Hall to Further Irish Relief Drive

The local campaign to raise $45,000 for the relief of the sufferers in Ireland is now on in full swing and organization after organization is making known its intention of staging an entertainment or some other activity to add to the money which is being raised by various individuals.

Tonight in Elks' hall at 7:30 o'clock there will be a meeting of representatives of a large number of social and fraternal organizations who will make known their detailed plans for assisting the cause. The Knights of Columbus, Elks, Broadway club and many other organizations have plans under consideration and there will also come up for discussion this evening the advisability of a house-to-house canvass. It will be recalled that when the drive opened emphasis was laid on the fact that the campaign is purely one of relief for the people of Ireland regardless of creed. It is non-sectarian and non-partisan and the money is being spent under the direction of an American commission.

Fred H. Bourke, supervisor of the drive in northern Middlesex county, is at work lining up the towns for their part in the campaign and reports considerable success thus far.

Fireworks Plants Wiped Out Early Today—Sleeping People Hurled From Beds

Families Attired in Night Clothes Flee to Woods—Score Injured

RANDOLPH, April 15.—Randolph was rocked early today by a series of explosions in the plant of the United States Fireworks company, which with subsequent fires, wiped out that plant, shivered houses for miles around and tossed people from their beds. In a shower of falling glass, overturned furniture and pictures and plaster that were shaken down, a score or more of persons suffered minor hurts, but none was seriously injured. The property damage was estimated at about $40,000. The blast was felt within a radius of 25 miles. In Boston on the edge of a circle with that radius, buildings were shaken severely at an hour that sent sleepers from their beds to the telephones with inquiries as to the cause. In such numbers as to cause telephone operators to believe that the peak-load hours of the day had arrived.

WANTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Police Seek Driver of Automobile That Injured Hugh McGrogan

Well Known Truckman Caught Between Cars Yesterday, Dies at Hospital

Hugh McGrogan, the well known truckman who was injured in an automobile accident in Green street yesterday morning, died at St. John's hospital last evening as a result of his injuries, and Samuel Inman, who, it is alleged, operated the automobile that figured in the accident and for whom a warrant for manslaughter has been issued, is at large and the police have been unable to locate him.

The accident occurred in Green street shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning, when McGrogan was pinned against his own automobile truck by a car operated by Inman. While the victim of the accident was being taken to the hospital, Inman was placed under arrest by Traffic Officer Frank Moloney on charges of operating an automobile without a license and also of not having registration plates on his machine. He was bailed out by Robert F. Carr, bail being fixed at $400.

When the police were informed of McGrogan's death last night a warrant was issued for the arrest of Inman on a charge of manslaughter, but the police failed to locate him and this morning when his case was called in police court he again failed to put in an appearance and he was ordered defaulted.

Mr. McGrogan had been in the trucking business in this city a great many years, during which time he maintained a stand in Green street. His home is at 27 Church street. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Sarah Convery McGrogan; two daughters, Miss Margaret McGrogan and Mrs. James W. Murphy; a son, Hugh V. McGrogan; a sister, Mrs. John Duffy of Lowell and two brothers, John and David McGrogan, both in Ireland.

ANNOUNCE NEW TREE

PLANTING POLICY

The board of park commissioners today announced a new policy relative to the planting of trees in Lowell whereby by abutters will be called upon to pay the cost of trees planted in front of their premises. The park department will continue to bear the expense of the actual planting. This is in accordance with a policy adopted in other cities. Up to now, the park department has borne the entire expense of tree planting. Under the new arrangement abutters will be charged $1.50 for each tree planted, which will represent the actual cost of the tree. The park department will bear the labor expense.

However, when the department deems it advisable to plant trees on a street which is practically made of them, it will bear the entire expense. The park commissioners next have 15 or 20 applicants desiring trees and they will be attended to at once providing they pay the necessary cost.

Lowell Men Called as Witnesses Before Special Committee in Elevated Probe at State House

Rep. Corbett Testifies That He Had No Knowledge of Irregularity in 1918 and 1919 Street Railway Legislation—Rep. Slowey Excused Because of War Service

(Special to The Sun.)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 15.—Representative Thomas J. Corbett, of Lowell, was one of the witnesses called today before the special committee which is investigating charges of improper acts in connection with the passage of street railway legislation in the sessions of 1918 and 1919.

Representative Corbett was asked if anyone had at any time offered him an inducement of any sort to vote for the street railway legislation, whether he owned or bought any railway stocks in either of those years or if he knew of any member of the legislature who made such purchases, and finally he was asked if he knew of any irregularity or questionable conduct on the part of members or improper influence of any kind in connection with the legislatures of those years.

To each of these questions Mr. Corbett answered in the negative. Representative Charles H. Slowey was also called as a witness but was immediately excused after he had stated that although he was elected to the 1918 legislature, he entered the army before the session began and, accordingly, did not take his seat.

BAR SHIPMENT OF ARMS

State Department Asks Congress for Blanket Prohibition

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Blanket prohibition against the shipment of arms and munitions to any country where they might be used for revolutionary purposes has been asked of congress by the state department.

Specifically, the department requests an amendment to the act of 1912, which prohibits such shipments to American countries. The senate foreign relations committee considered today the department's request, designed primarily, it was said, to stop munitions shipments to China. Early enactment of an amendment is proposed.

Some of the foreign powers, it was explained, have requested the United States to join in the effort to prevent munitions shipments to all countries where revolutions are in progress. Members of the foreign relations committee said, however, that it was not indicated that conditions in Ireland were a factor in the proposed revision.

Strikers Enjoined From Using Threats

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 15.—The superior court here today enjoined the strikers and all members of the Amalgamated Textile Workers of America from using threats or violence in the strike now on at the Stillwater Worsted mills in Harrisville. The strike at the mill began March 4 and the mills remained closed a month. When the plant reopened 150 or 200 strikers engaged in picketing.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton.

"THE MAN-IN-THE-MOON"

"I'M THE MAN-IN-THE-MOON," SAID FLIPPETY-FLAP.

The two circus monkeys up in the coconut tree stopped clinging about the moon and bled rice and things, and started to chatter to each other like two magpies. Flippety-Flap, Nancy and Nick listened and heard it all, as they had asked their Magical Shoes to make them as tall as Jack's beanstalk and the rest was easy. "This was what the monkeys were saying."

"The moon knows everything."

"Let's ask him where we can find some delicious rice, then."

"It's too far away."

"Let's jump and see if we can reach it."

"All right. Let's."

So the monkeys uncured their tails from around the branch and jumped. But goodness! All they did was to land on their heads.

"Ouch!" cried the first monkey. "Is this the moon?"

"No!" said the second monkey rubbing his head. "It's only the earth, but I can see stars."

"That's just your bump," said the first one. "Let's climb up again."

So they climbed up.

"The fairyman, tall as all get-out, leaned over close, only the leaves hid him."

"St! St!" he whispered cautiously.

"Who is it?" asked Mrs. Monkey in surprise. "I can't see you."

"I'm the Man-in-the-Moon," answered Flippety-Flap. "I've come to tell you a secret."

"Oh, did you hear our song?" exclaimed Mr. Monkey. The twins, too, wondered what the secret was, but being pretty wise they kept still and said nary a word.

"What is the secret?" asked Mrs. Monkey eagerly. Being a woman she was even more curious than her husband.

"I've brought the moon down," said Flippety-Flap.

"The moon! Why it's still up there!"

"Oh, no, that must be the sun," answered Flippety-Flap. "I've got the moon all right. It's leaning against an old stump over there on the ground. Better slide down and see."

BLACKEST TRAGEDY OF VIVIANI LAYS WREATH ON BOLSHIEVNIK NIGHTMARE ROOSEVELT'S GRAVE

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 15.—The Baroness Wrangel, wife of the general who commanded the anti-Bolshevik army in Southern Russia until its defeat and collapse, declares that the "demoralization of our boys and girls, the next generation of Russians, is one of the blackest tragedies of the Bolshevnik nightmare. They have stolen the minds of our children."

Abundant evidence from trustworthy sources among the vast Russian refugee colony here is available on this subject.

"Our girls are dead, morally," is a phrase in a letter dated a month ago, received here from Moscow, smuggled out by way of Reval, written by a woman to her nephew in Wrangel's army. "I am kept alive only by the hope of seeing you again. Never return here with your children. If they survive famine and disease, the Bolsheviki will make animals of them."

One of the demands of the revolting workmen in Moscow and other cities has been that the communist education of children be abandoned.

Bela Kun, who in Budapest attempted to give the children of the city special playgrounds and introduce in a measure methods well known to the United States, has tried to organize the villas and palaces of the Czars into rest houses and hospitals for children. Recently a Crimean wireless requested help from the American Red Cross for this purpose.

SCORE FOUR RUNS ON FOUR PITCHED BALLS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 15.—Members of the Charlotte club of the South Atlantic league believe they established a record in the game yesterday with Winston-Salem of the Piedmont league when they scored four runs on four pitched balls. After three batters had all safely on the base, the fourth batter smashed the first ball served up to him for a home run.

The swiftest tidal current in the world is that between the islands of Jura and Scarpa, off the Scottish coast.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The grave of Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay was visited yesterday by Rene Viviani, special envoy from France in company with Ambassador and Mrs. Jules Jusserand and Stephanie Lauzanne, editor of Le Matin.

The party stood with bowed heads while M. Viviani placed a large floral wreath on the grave. Then Mme. Jusserand knelt and the visitors offered a silent prayer. Leaving the grave, members of the party were luncheon guests of Mrs. Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill. Then they returned to this city for a reception yesterday in honor of M. Viviani.

M. Viviani will go to Washington today, where he will be the guest of Secretary and Mrs. Hughes at dinner tonight. He will return to New York later to keep several engagements before sailing for France next Wednesday.

M. Viviani last night attended a reception given by all French societies in New York that make up what is known as the French colony. Ambassador Jusserand, who presided, paid a compliment to Americans of French ancestry here, stating in part: "This is a colony of brave men who loved their country and served it. I have visited these colonies everywhere throughout America and I have found them all the same."

German propaganda in America before the war and since was touched upon by M. Viviani, who said there was no such thing as French to carry out any such propaganda. "People will judge France," he said, "by your dignity, your behavior and your seriousness. The real propaganda is in the right manner of living."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents

OPERA HOUSE

One of the greatest emotional dramas of the age, "Arrah-Na-Pogah," which is being presented at the Opera House by the Lowell Players, is creating no end of favorable comment among local playgoers. In connection with the production, the management introduces a real, old-fashioned Irish jig, or dancing contest between Jennie Conway and James O'Dara, with James O'Dara as the winner. Don't miss it. And besides the Irish songs by Miss Florence Hill and Miss Fields are also most enjoyable. Order your tickets early. "The Girl in the Limousine," the big New York comedy success of recent date will be next week's offering. Member. You'll like them both, as well as your tickets well in advance.

THE STRAND

Tom Mix has some new hair-raising stunts to introduce in "Prairie Trails," which is being shown at The Strand. This recognized cowboy star of the film has been shown to special advantage in the past, but in his latest offering he is more entertaining and thrilling than before. "Frank Mayo in 'Tiger Blue'" is the other attraction, and this too, is a real, two-act story of a young, two-tailed millionaire. You'll like them both, as well as the comedy and weekly.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Fatty Arbuckle's latest photocomedy, "The Dollar a Year Man," now being shown to crowd houses at the Merrimack Square theatre, is one of the cleverest productions in which Mr. Arbuckle has thus far starred. The comedy situations are plentiful and the story is well told. "The Dollar a Year Man" is a story of a man who is so poor that he is forced to live on a dollar a year. The other big feature of the current program introduces Elliott Dexter in a dramatic story of modern life, "The Winning Hour," the production of "Dry," and the International News round out the bill.

RIALTO THEATRE

Not for many months has the Rialto theatre had such a varied and well-balanced program as that which presents itself the latter three days of this week. It embraces "Somewhat Different," "Marah," "Blansfeld" in "His Brother's Keeper," a ripping comedy, "High and Dry" an episode of "Eighteen Fats" and the Fox News. Constance Binney's charming personality is well applied to the feature picture of the program and there is ample room for her ability in the versatile leading role. Miss Mandel also has a charming role in "His Brother's Keeper" and the carrier in the respect of who see her in the title role. Don't fail to see the program.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"Peg for Short," the delightful one-act play which Elma Ryan is playing at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, has a charm which is undeniable, and not the least it is due to the thorough going acting of Miss Ryan. Schooled in bigger productions, she is fully capable of giving all of the light and shade to the leading character. Inimitable, Rodney Haines, who supports Miss Ryan, is fully competent. A real, lively singing and comedy turn is that of Gordon and Ford, who keep their audiences at top notch throughout. Rome and Galt also are good eccentric dancers, in fact among the best seen here in a long time. Other acts of the week are: William Ebs, in a surprise act; The Sterlings, skaters; Thornton Sisters, singers; and Peak's educated Blackheads.

SALEM MAN SPEAKS ON BLUNDERS OF EXPERTS

"Some of the most serious blunders ever made have been made by men who knew all about it," declared Wm. Henry Spence, of Salem, last night at the monthly banquet of Grace Universalist church men's club, in an address taking for its theme "The Blunders of Experts." The speaker intimated that modern methods of education, which place in the background "the old-fashioned college which gives culture alone," do not always prove lawless in their results. He cited instances of those who have had expert training in special lines, and yet who have pooh-poohed notable discoveries which have marked epochs in the progress of the world. He gave an example of the case of Columbus, who was an expert, and those who derided his theory of the world being a sphere, and yet were experts. So-called experts in the "art of poetry," he reminded his hearers, abused the unparalleled work of Keats when it first was presented to the world. When John Wanamaker and his partner inaugurated a new system of business, all expert business men handed them the laugh. Nevertheless, the Wanamaker innovations are now the accepted manner of trade. Harvey, when he announced his discovery of the circulation of the blood, was subjected to the ridicule of his fellow medics. Edison's proclamation of the discovery of the electric light was met with the scorn of many scientists. Westinghouse was characterized as a fool when he went to Vanderbilt with his air-brake invention. Another feature of the gathering was the showing of motion pictures, demonstrating the uses to which automatic conveyers can be put, by F. R. Tansey, engineer for the Lanson company of this city. Peking's streets, unlike those of most Chinese cities, are wide and

PARIS, April 15.—Warning has been given the Austrian government by the French minister to that country that if the government is unable to render efficacious plans looking to the fusion of Austria and Germany, France will suspend any contemplated assistance to Austria, it is said in a message received here from Vienna. In addition, the minister is said to have declared that in such case the allied reparations commission would receive restored authority in the republic. The British and Italian ministers are declared to have associated themselves in this declaration and to have added that the withdrawal of France from any movements for giving aid to Austria would mean a complete abandonment of efforts to assist that country on the part of the allies.

OPPOSE BALL GAME WITH "BLACK SOX"

CHICAGO, April 15.—Directors of the Chicago Baseball league here called to meet in an emergency session today to take action against a team said to have booked a game with the "Black Sox," as the barnstorming team formed from discharged members of the Chicago White Sox have termed themselves. No official ruling had been made in the case of the Black Sox by President Edward I. Tinsler of the Chicago league, but it was understood that the league members were not to meet the team on which the men under indictment in the 1919 world's series scandal are playing. The manager of the Black Sox declared no additional games besides the one now scheduled for next Sunday with the Aristo Giants are planned for Chicago, but the team is scheduling dates through Kentucky and Indiana. Joe Jackson, Claude Williams, Rapsy Felsch, Swede Risberg and Fred McMullin are the former White Sox players forming the nucleus of the Black Sox.

IN HOUSE AND SENATE

G. O. P. Proponents Hope to Shut Off Debate and Reach Vote on Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Republican proponents of the consolidated emergency tariff and anti-dumping bill were all set today for an effort to shut off debate and bring the measure to a vote in the house before adjournment tonight. Whether the democratic opposition planned an attempt to upset the program by a stand for further discussion, however, remained in doubt. Although several changes in the lineup on emergency tariff legislation were revealed in the opening debate yesterday, prospects that the bill would pull an ample majority in the house remained unaffected.

While the house was considering emergency tariff, the senate planned to resume debate on the $25,000,000 Colombian treaty, with republican opponents of ratification—Senators Johnson, California; Lenroot, Wisconsin and Poindestor, Washington—expected to hold the floor during the discussion.

CARPET PLANT TO REOPEN MONDAY

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., April 15.—The Bigelow-Hartford Carpet company yesterday announced that its plant here would be reopened next Monday. It has been closed since Feb. 23, as a result of a strike of the organized employees in three departments of the factory.

The company's statement said that it expected all its unorganized employees, numbering about 1200, to return to work, as well as many of the organized men, who numbered about 1200. The wage scale will be the same as when the strike started, which was 20 per cent. lower than previously. Assurance of police protection for all employees is given by the company.

UNEARTH SKELETONS

Mute Evidence of Tragedy
Probably Enacted Years Ago Brought to Light

THE DALLES, Ore., April 15.—Mute evidence of a long forgotten tragedy probably enacted in the days of early settlement of The Dalles, was brought to light yesterday when workmen engaged in the construction of the Columbia river highway near the Deschutes river unearthed six skeletons, each with the skull crushed in.

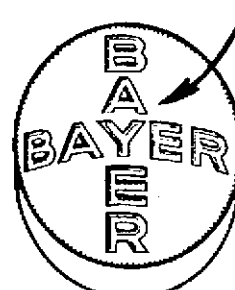

With the skeletons was found an old-fashioned watch chain, a rotted army saddle, such as was used by soldiers stationed at Old Fort Dalles and a small copper campaign kettle, such as was used by soldiers for cooking purposes while in the field. The bones crumbled to dust when handled.

Local pioneers are of the opinion that the findings are the remains of a skirmishing party of soldiers ambushed by Indians.

A scientist of Hamburg, Germany, has succeeded in drawing electrical energy from the air by means of metal surfaced balloons.

To Increase Size of House

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Representatives who made an unsuccessful attempt last session to increase the size of the house to 483 members have begun a compromise movement to boost the membership to 460. Chairman Siegel of the census committee said today there was growing sentiment in favor of an increase and predicted that a membership of 460 would meet with approval. A number of representatives from states that would lose seats if no increase were authorized and who voted for maintaining the present size of the house now favor a compromise, he added.

HOUSE PASSES BILL OVER LABOR PROTEST

BOSTON, April 15.—By a rollcall vote of 116 to 58 the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday passed the bill to allow voluntary associations of five or more persons to sue or be sued. A motion to refer it to the next annual session was defeated by a standing vote of 117 to 45. The measure now goes to the senate.

The figures show that there was practically no change on the part of house members since Tuesday afternoon when the bill was ordered to a third reading by a rollcall vote of 117 to 103, although many friends of organized labor worked diligently to bring about the defeat of the measure on the engrossment stage.

Mr. Sutherland of Boston, in opening the debate, said: "Power should be accompanied by responsibility. Labor unions should not be favored by this law. The bill is founded on sound legal principles."

James B. Brown of Everett declared the bill does not enlarge the liability of labor unions, but merely makes it easier to sue voluntary associations who are violating the law. The majority of his constituents, he said, carry a union card, but do not share the fear of this bill "revealed by a few labor leaders or agitators."

Mr. Harrington of Fall River challenged those in favor of the bill to show where voluntary associations in Massachusetts have violated the law or have been guilty of a breach of contract. "The bill strikes at the only weapon labor has," said Mr. Harrington.

Mr. Kelly of Boston strongly opposed the measure.

Mr. Graves of Springfield spoke in favor.

Mr. Casey of South Boston declared:

"Organized labor is a bulwark against Bolshevism and anarchy and should not be antagonized."

Samuel Brown of Springfield said that he had received a telegram to vote against the bill from a socialist—a man who was hanging around the corners talking for Eugene V. Debs. Continuing Mr. Brown said, "That is the kind of labor leaders behind this bill."

Mr. Bates of Salem moved reference to the next annual session. He then declared that what had been said about the character of the opposition of organized labor to the bill was a "deliberate lie."

Bandits Took $630,000 in Cancelled Checks

CHICAGO, April 15.—Six armed bandits who held up two bank messengers on an Illinois Central train, early today, captured two satchels containing $630,000 worth of cancelled checks. The robbery was elaborately planned, two of the bandits following the messengers when they boarded the train at a downtown station and the other four joining them half a mile south. The robbers left the train at 22nd street and escaped in a taxicab.

Three Murderers Hanged in Chicago

CHICAGO, April 15.—Sam Cardinella, leader of a band of thieves and murderers and Joseph Costanzo and Salvatore Ferrara, convicted of murdering a fellow countryman, were hanged here today. The drop fell for Cardinella at 10:26 a. m. and the other two were hanged at 10:45 a. m. From his prison room Cardinella is said to have directed crimes which included 20 murders and scores of robberies and shootings.

Ford Liquidates $24,500,000 Loans

NEW YORK, April 15.—Recent reports that Henry Ford contemplated extensive financing in Wall street were discredited today by bankers, who announced that, instead of being in the market for money he had liquidated his loans here, aggregating $24,500,000. One bank announced that a note due April 15 had been paid two weeks ago.

Russia to Maintain Military Strength

RIGA, Latvia, April 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Russia must maintain her military strength in spite of the fact that fighting has ceased on all fronts, as the period of transition from war to peace is one filled with danger, says a resolution adopted at a conference of army commissaries and commanders at Moscow.

Discovery of Nine Foot Silver Vein

DAWSON, Y. T., April 15.—Recent arrivals from Keno Hill, in the Mayor district confirm the report of the discovery of a nine foot silver vein in the Rio claim there. The strike was made in a tunnel which pierces a 1000-foot bluff and the center of the vein is said to be two feet of solid galena, assaying more than $200 to the ton. It is to be the richest vein ever struck in the Yukon or Alaska.

Unique Counterfeiting Scheme

WASHINGTON, April 15.—A unique counterfeiting scheme was brought to light today in the arrest here of six negroes, the oldest 21 and the others boys ranging from 17 to 14 years, who have been held for the grand jury after a preliminary examination. They are charged with having used the corners of $20 and $10 notes turned into the treasury to be destroyed for raising one dollar bills to the former denominations. The process consisted of a simple operation of sticking the corners on the smaller bills. Secret service agents say the youths passed several hundred dollars in the spurious notes and they are now on the trail of the man who they declare has been furnishing the necessary condemned bank note corners after they were turned into the treasury.

AFRAID TO STAY IN THE HOUSE ALONE

Lynn Woman Was in Terrible State of Health But Tanlac Entirely Overcomes Her Troubles

"I wouldn't take anything on earth for the good Tanlac has done me," said Mrs. Mabel Lavalie, 22 Stewart street, Lynn, recently.

"After an attack of pneumonia two years ago I was left in a very nervous condition. I dreaded to be alone in the house, for every little noise upset me, and even the sound of music at my neighbor's would almost drive me distracted. I had awful headaches, when I thought my head would split open, and nights I just rolled and tossed for hours, and sometimes just got up and walked the floor. I was down to 95 pounds in weight, and couldn't eat anything but a little cereal or drink milk."

"One of my neighbors took Tanlac with such good results that I decided to try it myself, and by the time I had taken my second bottle I noticed I was getting better. I'm now on my seventh bottle, and the change it has brought about in my condition certainly is remarkable. I eat most anything I want now and digest it perfectly. I sleep well, never feel nervous any more, and I've picked up 12 lbs. in weight. I'm so strong and well I can be on my feet at my housework all day long and still feel fine when night comes. Tanlac certainly is the best medicine I ever saw or heard of, and I'm always glad to tell others about it."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass.; and by the leading druggist in every town.

his feet. Speaker Young banged his gavel and warned Mr. Bates to keep within parliamentary limits.

Mr. Shuebruk of Colossus said, "The question is whether or not the labor union leaders will be offended and whether or not we are afraid to pass the bill on that account."

Mr. Hull of Leominster was the last speaker. He said the democrats had adopted opposition to the bill as a party measure. He urged the republicans to "stand by and accept the challenge." Mr. Hull said he hoped the republicans "would not listen to anyone, however high in office," with regard to changing their votes on this question.

The committee on banks and banking reported a bill providing that no person shall be a director in any trust company unless he is a stockholder of record holding not less than 10 shares of unpledged stock therein.

CITY MARSHAL REFUSES TO RESIGN

DOVER, N. H., April 15.—It became known yesterday that the Dover police commissioners Wednesday night called City Marshal Thomas W. Wilkinson before them and demanded his resignation to take effect May 1, next.

Information as to this action of the board was withheld by chairman Fred N. Beckwith after Wednesday night's meeting, he stating that only routine business was transacted.

In a statement yesterday, Marshal Wilkinson said: "I told the police board that I would not resign and that if they were determined to get rid of me, they would have to fire me. That would be the most fitting ending. I said, of the career of one who had given 15 years of his life to faithful service in the Dover police department."

The marshal added that he was given until April 27 by Chairman Beckwith to consider the matter of resigning.

CONFESSES PART IN RAILROAD THEFTS

WORCESTER, April 15.—John Cannon of Springfield, who was held in $5000 bonds last Tuesday for a continued hearing on April 15, in the Uxbridge court for alleged railroad thefts, has signed a four-page document in which he confesses his part to railroad thefts in Worcester county, including Charlton, Farnumsville and the Blackstone valley, involving approximately $50,000, according to Railroad Detective LeRoy R. Chant of the Boston & Albany railroad.

With the arrest of one more individual, railroad police believe they will have rounded up the gang responsible for the recent railroad thefts in Worcester county which totalled close to $200,000. Most of the loot was sold to Worcester woolen dealers, it is stated.

SELF-SERVICE Grocery Store

A little over a year ago, we opened our Self-Service Grocery Store on Prescott street. In that short time this has turned out to be one of the most successful departments of the store.

Perhaps one of the biggest reasons for the success of this department is the elimination of all service features usually found in the regular groceries, thus effecting a saving of 12 per cent on every dollar.

Customers have taken to this method of selling, just as a duck takes to water, because they are not bothered, they can take their time in making selections. If you have never visited this busy little store, do so today or tomorrow.

choir and has now under consideration an offer from a Boston concert company.

Mr. McCarthy's retirement from St. Margaret's choir will cause considerable regret among the parishioners. His playing at all services and particularly at Easter time had an important part in the success of the musical programs. He is an accomplished musician and has attained a place of prominence in local musical circles. While an expert on the piano and organ he also plays several other instruments well. During the war he served in one of the big military bands and while overseas participated in a number of big concert programs.

Says Pile Remedy Worth $100.00 a Box

"I have had itching piles ever since my earliest recollection. I am 32 years old and have suffered terribly. I have tried many remedies and doctors, but no cure. About 3 weeks ago I saw your ad. for a Pile Remedy. I bought a box and it stopped all itching and in three days all was over. I have only used one box and consider I am cured. You have my grateful thanks, and may everyone who has this trouble see this and give your opinion, that it is worth a hundred dollars or more a box. Truly, sincerely yours, A. HOME RULE COMMITTEE

Four Members State Emphatically That They Will Not Resign

Four members of the local street railway home rule committee gave very emphatic expression of their intention not to resign for the present, at least, when the committee assembled for its regular meeting late yesterday afternoon in city hall. Messrs. Sullivan, Curtin, Matthews and Hobson pledged faithfulness to their duties. Messrs. Molloy, Carney and Durfee were absent.

The committee voted to request the management of the road to place a conspicuous sign in Merrimack square announcing the time of departure of cars for the various parts of the city. Mayor Thompson, who had expressed a wish to talk to the committee at yesterday's meeting, failed to put in an appearance.

Chairman Sullivan called to order at 4:20. In addition to the chairman there were present Secretary Curtin, Rev. Mr. Matthews, Mr. Hobson, Manager Lees and Sam. Leavitt. Secretary Curtin read a letter from George F. Wells, enclosing his letter of resignation to Mayor Thompson. It was voted to refer the matter to the mayor.

Mr. Sullivan said that it had been stated that the committee was to disband. He felt that the committee should continue its work until it succeeded in getting a five-cent fare. Rev. Mr. Matthews said he saw no reason why the members of the committee should resign because it was a fact that it had accomplished something. He said that the committee had always been received courteously by the management.

Mr. Hobson said that if the railroad feels that a 10-rides-for-a-51 ticket with transfers will bring more passengers than a straight five-cent fare, that was its own business, but he believed that the company and road would benefit by the nickel fare without transfers.

Sign in the Square

However, Mr. Hobson said that he had one suggestion to make. He moved that the road be directed to place in a conspicuous place in Merrimack square a sign giving the time of departure to various parts of the city. The motion was seconded by Mr. Matthews and passed unanimously.

Manager Lees said that one difficulty with such a suggestion is the fact that on some of the routes the time of running varies according to the time of day.

Mr. Hobson said that the sign would be of greatest importance during the rush hours.

Rev. Mr. Matthews asked about the promptness of cars coming into the square. He said the management should offer some inducement to promote interest and efficiency in the employees. He believed the men should be paid good wages and the factor of efficiency should be considered. He feared that the proposed reduction in wages would not be conducive to the best work on the part of the employees.

Chairman Sullivan said that the committee has succeeded in having the fare zone in Detroit extended at the request of Mr. McMahon.

Mr. Lees said that the cash fares in April had shown a slight increase but this was offset by a decrease in ticket patronage.

Rev. Mr. Matthews asked what the average cost of running the Lowell district a month was. Mr. Lees said about $110,000 or $111,000, including the 6 per cent dividend to the stockholders.

Rev. Mr. Matthews asked if Fall River was to get cheaper fares than Lowell. Mr. Lees said that it would. It would get 18 rides for a dollar May 2. One reason is because the Fall River system is much more compact. There are between 55 and 60 miles of track in Fall River, whereas in Lowell there are 95 miles. There is only one lone line in Fall River.

YOSEMITE PARK

New York State Leads in Visitors

YOSEMITE, Cal., April 15.—New York was first on the list of home states of the many who visited Yosemite National park during the winter's first winter season, which closed today. In all, the Yosemite visitors of the winter months registered from 37 states and 23 foreign countries.

Ohio was next to New York with Illinois, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Michigan and New Jersey following in the order named. The middle west, which sends thousands of tourists into the coast mountains during the summer, was scantily represented.

Of the foreign countries, the Englishman predominated, with the Hollanders a close second. Australia, Japan, Canada and Java sent large delegations.

Park officials said the chief difficulty encountered in introducing "Yosemite in Winter" was to convince travellers that the valley was not snowed in 20 feet, because of its 4000-foot altitude. Many easterners, wintering in California, believed the valley could not be reached at this season.

NAMES 4 LEGISLATORS AT "L" HEARING

BOSTON, April 15.—A day of relentless inquiry into street railway legislation of 1915 and 1919 at the state house yesterday led the investigating committee to a labyrinth of figures, representing notes for large sums.

The committee's guide in its venture into the mazes of bank and brokerage history was Edwin L. Price, certified public accountant, who had examined the records of the old Fidelity Trust company under direction of Bank Commissioner Joseph L. Allen.

With notes and check-stubs as his evidence, Mr. Price named four legislators as makers of notes found in the 1915 and 1919 archives of the Fidelity Trust. The makers are:

Ex-Senator Edwin T. McKnight, vice president of the Fidelity, state president in 1915 and member of the street railway committee in 1919.

Ex-Representative John L. Donovan, democratic member of the committee that year.

Worrall a Witness

Mr. Worrall, whose Elevated and Massachusetts Electric stock dealings were all subsequent to the passage of the elevated act, appeared before the committee. Every share of stock was bought after the bill became a law, said he. He had "funds" in Elevated stock as being the "life blood" of Boston, and "purposely" refrained from buying until the proposed bill was through. He bought at the top of the market.

Tearfully, and with choking voice, that checked his words, he pleaded his rights as a private citizen to do so.

The other three men did not respond.

to the committee's request for their appearance. A summons has been issued for Donovan, McKnight and Doyle, both of whom are outside the state on business, are expected to return soon and may appear when the hearing is resumed this morning at 10.

LITTLE VISITS WITH FEATHERED FRIENDS

BY MARY SEAMAN

A young downy woodpecker decided to accept my hospitality one fall; or, rather, he decided to use an old cherry tree in my back yard. Now and then I would not consider that he used good building material, for that cherry tree was very ancient, and its cherry trees go, and parts of it had decayed badly. It was just right as a woodpecker's house, however, for that gentleman does not destroy live wood, preferring dead timber.

The "downy" used his only carpenter's tool, his strong beak, and wielded it with considerable strength by means of the strong muscles in his neck and shoulders. The chips flew for several days, and Downy got down farther and farther into the limb, until he was several inches into darkness. And there he lived all the cold weather through.

We had lots of fun with him. At first he was shy and frightened when any of us went near his home; but I was determined to win his confidence, and succeeded in a measure. I took crumbs, or that choice tidbit, small pieces of suet, and left them about his doorway where he would find them upon my departure. He soon became used to me, and often his head would come up from the opening of his house when I went out with my offering. However, he never would let me come very close, without darting back to cover.

The "downy" is a good little fellow, and eats insects that his rolling tattoo on the limbs drives from their hiding place beneath the bark. Conspicuously black and white, with the red spot on the upper neck, he looks like a smaller edition of the hairy woodpecker. As he is an all-winter resident I am happy when he chooses quarters near my own domicile.

The house my "downy" so carefully hollowed out, and which he left when the nesting season drew near, was used that summer by a family of wrens.

CHURCH RECREATION CENTER OF COMMUNITY

CHICAGO, April 15.—Plans whereby it is hoped to make the church the recreational center of the community as well as the religious center, were announced today by the committee on conservation and advance of the Methodist Episcopal church. The plans contemplate erection of playgrounds, organization of athletic teams and classes in economics, housekeeping and kindred subjects.

A committee was appointed to visit all conventions of rural ministers during the next six months to give instruction in the direction of games and calisthenics. Gymnasium paraphernalia will be supplied to all churches of the denomination. The work will be conducted from the $22,000,000 centenary fund of the church.

BITTEN BY WOUNDED DOG

While rendering first aid to a dog owned by S. Urban, of 213 Lakeview avenue, which had been run over by an automobile near the home of his master yesterday, Mrs. Mary Senior of 214 Lakeview avenue, was badly bitten on the wrist and her wounds had to be treated by a physician. The animal was later shot by Agent Richardson of the humane society. A German police dog owned by Michael Kelly, of 560 Broadway, was run over by a truck in School street Wednesday and died shortly after the accident.

U. S. COTTON SENT TO GERMANY

WASHINGTON, April 15.—More cotton was exported to Germany than to any other country during March. Census bureau reports today show 105,733 bales were sent from the United States to Germany during the month, while the United Kingdom, the United States' best customer for raw cotton, took only 61,430 bales. Japan's imports totalled 87,030 bales, the second largest amount taken by any country during the month.

Cotton exported to Germany during the nine months ending March 31 has amounted to $39,190 bales valued at about $55,000,000. Prior to the war, Germany took an average of 2,250,000 bales of American cotton annually.

CITY BUREAU WORKER

George Dugan of Trenton, N. J., tells of Three Greatest Troubles of Present-day American Life.

George Dugan of Trenton, N. J., a well known American city bureau worker who spoke here last year when the chamber of commerce was being organized, addressed a large audience of men and women at the Elliot Union church last evening under the auspices of the Men's club on the topic, "What's the Matter?" He said the three greatest troubles of present-day American life were too many aliens, lack of health and lack of God. He said that we have not yet solved our Americanization problem and that until we do we should allow no more aliens to come here. In discussing the physical defects of Americans, he pointed out the large number of men rejected in the draft, the poor physical condition of half the school children of the country and the menace of social diseases. He alleged that only a small per cent. of the American people took Christianity seriously. Ralph Rannels, president of the Men's club, introduced the speaker. After the address a buffet luncheon was served.

river. Actual damage from the shock, however, was limited to an area about six miles around Randolph.

Residents of this town were not unaccustomed to such disturbances, explosions occurring frequently at one or another of the fireworks factories in the vicinity. The plant destroyed was the third to be so affected in the past two months. The first explosion merely roused sleepers without great excitement, but when it was succeeded by another and yet another in quick succession, windows and doors being blown out of houses and stores and against other structures in which people were huddled in fear, the effect was one almost of terror.

and on the way were hurried to the hospital by a second blast. All received bruises and cuts from flying glass which were given hasty first aid treatment in the open. Hurley and Hart with their families had somewhat similar experiences.

Church and School Damaged

The glass fronts of the post office and a store in the Masonic building in the center of the town were shattered as were almost all of the windows in St. Mary's Catholic church. The high school and the grammar schools were shaken into an almost wrecked condition.

Houses Nearly Wrecked

Three houses on Mills street, directly opposite the fireworks plant, which were partially wrecked, were occupied by Nigris Tucker, Vin. Hurley, Samuel Hart and their families. When the first shock came a window and a bureau fell on Tucker and his wife who were sleeping in a front room. They fled to the woods with their children down upon the 50 frightened patients. There was some excitement, but panic was prevented by the hospital attendants.

Telephone wires in the town were paralyzed for an hour by the explosion and calls for assistance from other towns were sent out by motorcycle.

The plant of the fireworks company which was wiped out was composed largely of the flimsy structure and sheds that are set up in view of frequency of explosions and the minimization of their effects in mind and the property damage did not reach great proportions. Inquiry to determine the cause of the primary explosion was still under way today.

as Basis for New Agreements

CHICAGO, April 15. (By Associated Press.)—National agreements defining working conditions for employees on all American railroads formerly under the federal railroad administration were yesterday ordered annulled, effective July 1, 1921, by the United States railroad labor board.

The board called upon the officers and system organizations of employees of each railroad to select representatives "to confer and to decide" as much of the rules controversy as possible. "Such conferences shall begin at the earliest possible date," the decision said.

Individual Conferences While the decision did not specifically say so, members of the board said was furnished by the Normal School orchestra.

The first address of the program was by Dr. Wallace W. Atwood, president of Clarke university, Worcester. He took for his subject "Teaching Geography to Children" and discussed the newest methods which have been adopted in American education in this part of the school curriculum. Dr. Atwood said:

"Our courses in geography should no longer be a mere memorizing of facts. The true educator today has as his first object the growth of the individual child and its development." He called attention to the fact that nearly all learning is visual. Only four per cent, is done through the ear, he declared. "If we only take the child on imaginary journeys," he suggested, "letting them, as it were, see the various places that are discussed, we will find them learning far more rapidly than they could if the lesson touched them only as something heard." He proposed that different pupils be dressed in the costumes of distant lands, and placed on the platform of the school room as a child, say, from Japan, or Czechoslovakia, prepared to answer questions relative to the geography of the countries they represent.

Dr. Atwood told of his experiences while teaching physical geography at Harvard university. "For two years," he said, "I told college students how rivers flow down hill, and how they make their deltas. But I finally began to perceive that something was lacking. This, I discovered, was the visual element. The members of the class were learning by ear only." The speaker then demonstrated the method of teaching which appeals to the eye, either the actual eye or the eye of the imagination. He sketched on the black board landscapes of sundry types. With a few strokes of the chalk he created a Norwegian scene, with its towering cliffs, its fjords, its fisher settlements and fishing craft. Another sketch revealed the Cumberland mountains, with a stream making its way to the sea and with the cabins

DAILY NEWS RECORD OF APRIL 4

A demand in the clothing stores for two-trouser suits, in many quarters, is taken to indicate curtailed buying in the future. The merchants are not making light of this growing disposition to make one suit serve the purposes of two, and while such ideas are hardly to be encouraged, it is agreed that the clothiers should have their buying on a basis to conform with this new economic stride. People will be in the markets less frequently and the retailers safest course, it is said, will be to sell good clothing at a good price.

The odd trouser business necessarily does not call for material to match the coat and vest, although as a rule men seem to prefer trousers with harmony. Striped trousers in gray are being sold in the $12 and $13 range and there is no apparent evidence that these prices are too high in consumer estimation. It is believed that the average man's wardrobe contains at least several pairs of trousers that can be drafted for duty to relieve the pressure.

Office workers, particularly, are partial to two-trouser suits, for the reason that their clothes wear out all too soon for the average chair warmer's income, and as an economic measure, the idea carries a strong appeal. But this class of customers by no means constitutes the entire constituency of this trade. Many fastidious dressers have ascertained that they can make a better appearance by owning four pairs of trousers to two suits of clothes. For the man who wears a light jacket around an office or store the advantages of the odd trouser combination are too obvious to mention, and the same may be said for the thousands of men who are partial to house coats and smoking jackets.

Figuring also on the growing clientele who wear a natural sports jacket with any and all sorts of trousers, the aggregate strength of those a bit indifferent to set rules in dress is regarded as worthy of earnest consideration in developing business.

Clothiers feel that there is no immediate prospect of this demand diminishing. As a means of being better dressed at a minimum outlay the odd trouser customer undoubtedly works on a basis of reasoning quite logical.

of the inhabitants. "Let us," he urged the audience, "make the facts of geography vital and real, whether by drawings on the blackboard or by photographs, or other ways which stimulate the imagination."

He closed by declaring that if one would understand geography, one must understand the natural divisions of the world, not the divisions made by man for political purposes. "Climate and the natural conformation of the land," he told his hearers, "influence the characteristics of man and in geography a knowledge of the divisions established by nature is fundamental." He warned the members of the institute against suppressing the child when it would seek to express its views of matters brought up in the class room. "I wonder," he said, "how often little Johnnie is listening to what the teacher has to say of some matter. Many times, I think, he is merely waiting for her to get through so that he may raise his hand and tell what he knows or thinks on the subject. People are not naturally good listeners. In heated arguments, do we listen to what our opponent is saying, or do we merely wait for him to finish so that we may give our conception of the point at issue? Even when capital and labor get together, I am afraid they are not always ready to consider the point of view opposed to their own. They are perhaps only watching for a chance to expound their own profound views. Dr. Atwood called for recognition of this human trait in children. "Let them exercise their diametric instinct," he said.

A period of community singing followed Dr. Atwood's address. This was led by Miss Field, of the Lowell State Normal school.

Miss C. B. Rogers, assistant superintendent of schools at Newton, next delivered an address on the subject, "Making Health Fashionable." The topic was illustrated by numerous drawings made by children of the Newton public schools. These bore such titles as "Miss Makes Me Healthy" and "Kindred Health Hints." The children in the Newton schools," said the speaker, "are proud of being healthy. They are intensely interested in having the proper weight for their age and height. They know which foods are wholesome, and they eat their cleanliness is also stressed. The speaker described how health is made a game, a game in which every child and boy has a part. The part is played statistically. Each class has a graph or chart showing the average monthly weight of all the members. The children are all eager that this graph should be as near the standard as possible. When a boy or girl is greatly over or under weight, then, the pupils do not like it at all, but they are given the cheering of the class. No child is ever put to sleep or is ever put to bed with disfavor unless it amounts to more than fifteen pounds. On this that extra the children are told that their extra pounds are as valuable to them as "money in the bank." An instance of the worth of this practice was given in the case of a girl who was several pounds below the normal weight for her age and height. This fact was called to the attention of her parents, who called in the services of a physician. "That night," said the speaker, "the child had been taken to the hospital. For examination had revealed that she was suffering from diabetes. Without the stress laid upon correct weight, this girl's life could have been saved, as the presence of the disease would not have been detected until too late."

One of the most novel features of the program was the "kindergarten band," a demonstration of the teaching of rhythm to children of the primary grades. Miss Damon, who directed the exhibition, explained that "it is not aimed fundamentally at amusing adults, but may produce that reaction. However, the children are given to understand that laughter on the part of grown-ups indicates enjoyment and appreciation of content. We are not showing off here, or pointing to some finished work that has been achieved. We are simply indicating milestones in the road." The "kindergarten band" consisted of a group of tots who played such primitive instruments as drums, triangles and bells. A child of their own age led them in accompanying several selections on the piano. It was explained that the uniforms worn by the children marked special music. There are two divisions in each class, one of which the greatest care of rhythm being placed in the first and given the privilege of wearing uniforms. Members of the second division are advanced as rapidly as they display an improved capacity to keep time.

Various groups of boys and girls demonstrated the new methods of teaching vocal and instrumental music. A remarkable feature was the playing of a four-part composition for strings by boys who have had only 12 lessons in violin or "fiddle. With the latest state system of efficient pedagogy was shown in the assembly hall. A demonstration of geography teaching was given in the gymnasium.

The Day's Program

Sectional meetings in geography opened the afternoon session and these were followed by further addresses relative to the teaching of music. The final address by Miss Rogers was on the subject of "The Day's Program of Children." As the hour drew near, the interest of Newton public school children, Miss Rogers was able to give valuable information connected with the psychological reactions of youngsters to various types of pedagogy. The complete program of the day's events was as follows:

W. Wright, director of the division of elementary and secondary education and Normal schools.

2:30—Teaching Geography to Children: Dr. Wallace W. Atwood, president of Clarke university, Worcester.

3:00—Community singing, led by Miss Inez Field, of Lowell Normal school.

Correspondent Says New Martial Law Adds Fuel to
the Flames

Sinn Fein Spirit Undaunted
—203 Irish Citizens Murdered in 1920

Both Sides Give Figures—Struggle Costs British

By MILTON BRONNELL
LONDON, April 14.—Ireland passes
from one year of terror into another.
The new martial law instituted by
the British government instead of suppressing revolution adds fuel to the flames.

Sinn Fein's spirit is undaunted.
The government has locked up Arthur Griffith, the vice president of the Irish republic. It has put Desmond Fitzgerald, a Sinn Fein member of parliament, in solitary confinement.
But the only result has been to bring back to Ireland Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish republic, who issues a letter to all the members of the
the crown soldiers of these crimes:

Torturing prisoners.
Assassinating men and boys in their homes, on the streets and in prison.
Murdering women and children.
Hanging civilians.
Humiliating Irish citizens, for instance, by compelling them to crawl.
Forcing men to do military duty.
Burning and looting.

De Valera in his denunciation
charged 75 prisoners were tortured, 220 defenceless men and boys were assaulted, seven women, 18 children and two workmen murdered, 119 men and boys hanged, and 25 factories, 43 crafteries, 100 shops and 354 homes
either wholly or partly destroyed.

Twelve Months of Terrorism
The high spots of the last 12 months
of terror may be summarized as follows:

First, passage of the restoration of order act under which any district in Ireland can be put under martial law.
Second, swift declaration of martial law in many counties in west and south Ireland.

Third, quick sentences to death or long imprisonment of many men who hadn't surrendered their arms.

Fourth, reprisals by crown forces on guiltless Irish people.
Fifth, burning of Balbriggan, Sept.
20, and a large portion of Cork, Dec.
11, for which final responsibility has not been fixed by the crown.

Sixth, passage of the home rule act
setting up separate parliaments for north and south Ireland, which, however, only the Ulsterites have accepted.
Take a recent week in Ireland as typical of the constant terrorism and suffering. The week of March 11-17 will do. Many of the Royal Irish constabulary were shot. Six attacks were made on police barracks. Mail trains were stopped and robbed. Bridges were burned. Attempts were made to rescue Irish prisoners.

Crown forces were accused of shooting men who didn't halt when ordered.
Many houses were burned in reprisal.
Curfew was proclaimed in Bantry, markets at Ballinrobe and Athy and the fair at Carrick-on-Shannon were prohibited.

To climax it all six young Irishmen
were executed in Dublin, two charged with murder, four with high treason.

Costs British $150,000,000 a Year
The most accurate estimate of damage to property during the Sinn Fein
struggle is more than $10,000,000.

The war in Ireland is costing the British taxpayers heavily, too. They are supporting 100,000 men in the forces in Ireland, with the most complete military equipment. A conservative estimate of the cost is $150,000,000
a year.

The Irish policy of the government is meeting increasing disapproval in England. In a recent debate in parliament men like W. A. Acland, an independent liberal; Sir H. Cavendish-Bentinck, a conservative, and MacCal-

SAYS MORE WORK NOT MORE PAY TODAY'S NEED

NEW YORK, April 15.—Deprecation of efforts to curtail production by "unduly shortening working hours, or under this guise to secure increased wages," was contained in a resolution adopted here yesterday by members of the American Paper and Pulp Association.

"We irrevocably record our belief that today's need is not more pay, but more work," said the resolution. Statistics were presented at the meeting tending to show that living costs in America increased at one time until they were 104.6 per cent. more than they were in 1914, but that since that time they had decreased until they were now not more than 68.4 more than at that time.

Within a year or so, Magnus W. Alexander, managing director of the national industrial conference board, declared, the decline would continue until cost of living would be but 25 to 30 per cent. above that of seven years ago.

Railway Economies Praised.
Another resolution with respect to the railway wage controversy was adopted by the association, which commended the efforts of the American railway executives to "effect more economical operation and to adjust salaries equitably and fairly." The resolution asked railway employees, whether union or non-union, to consider the wage question "with respect to their own best interests over a period of time rather than for the immediate present," and to remember that their decisions will "influence the length of business depressions now existent."

The executive committee at large was elected as follows: W. E. Hasbrell, New York city; Louis Bloch, San Francisco, and W. R. Shafter, New Haven.

Pres. Stimson's Address

Denial that the open shop movement was in any sense a "conspiracy of employers" was made by George W. Stimson, president of the association, in addressing the convention.

"I believe," he said, "that the rapid spread and spontaneous support of the open shop movement is only a natural reaction to the extremes of conduct and assertion, local and national of closed shop unionists. It is not in any sense a 'conspiracy' of employers, but flows from an increasingly insistent and very significant popular demand for the recognition and restoration of principles as old as our institutions."

"A labor policy that is economically unsound cannot long endure, for it can only result in disaster to the industry which attempts to maintain it. The final test of a labor policy is its success in bringing about a higher degree of individual development in the workers and more general contentment in industry."

Mr. Stimson declared it was "time to end a halt on the tendency to government interference in industry." He criticized the proposed Canadian embargo against the export from Canada of pulpwood for American mills as "propaganda of men striving to serve personal ends."

It is certain, he continued, that "if this purposeful question could be taken out of politics and divorced from the influence of selfish promotion interests it could be quickly adjusted by the practical men in the industry."

Agreements Abrogated

that all disputes as to rules and working conditions automatically were referred back to individual conferences between each individual road and its employees. This method of procedure had been sought by the railroads, whereas the labor side had favored a national conference between representatives of all roads and all unions.

The board's decision came unexpectedly in the middle of the hearing on the justice and reasonableness of the existing rules, and opened a way to speedy conclusion of the whole controversy.

The fight over national agreements was begun immediately after the return of the railroads to private ownership, March 1, 1920, but consideration of rules was postponed by the labor board when it was formed on April 15, 1920, because of the urgency of the wage question at that time.

Employees Affected

The decision affects all railroad employees except those in train service, who are under separate agreements between the individual railroads and the four big brotherhoods.

In connection with the conference negotiations the board laid down a set of 16 principles to serve as a foundation for any rules which may be agreed to in the conference.

The present general rules hearing before the labor board, which has been in progress since last July, will continue until both sides have completed their testimony, after which the board will promulgate such rules as it determines just and reasonable as soon after July 1, 1921, as is reasonably possible and will make them effective as of July 1, 1921.

The Sixteen Principles

The 16 principles outlined by the board were drawn up by Henry H. Hunt of the public group and uphold the right of the employees to organize for lawful purposes, the right to negotiate through representatives of their own choosing, the right of seniority and the principle of the eight-hour day.

It was specified that eight hours' work must be given for eight hours' pay. Espionage should not be practiced by either side, the decision said, and employees' representatives should apply to all employees in the craft or class of the representatives.

The 16 principles outlined follow: "1.—An obligation rests upon management, upon each organization of employees and upon each employee to render honest, efficient and economical service."

"2.—The spirit of co-operation between management and employees being essential to efficient operation, both parties will so conduct themselves as to promote this spirit."

Necessary Discipline

"3.—Management, having the responsibility for safe, efficient and economical operation, the rules of the road, and the necessary discipline."

"4.—The right of railway employees to organize for lawful objects shall not be denied, interfered with or obstructed."

"5.—The right of such lawful organization to act toward lawful objects through representatives of its own choice, whether employees of a particular carrier or otherwise, shall be agreed to by management."

"6.—No discrimination shall be practiced by management as between members and non-members of organizations or as between members of different organizations, or shall members of organizations discriminate against non-members or use other methods than lawful persuasion to secure their membership. Espionage by carrier on the legitimate activities of carriers shall not be practiced."

"7.—The right of employees to be consulted prior to a decision of management adversely affecting their wages or working conditions shall be agreed to by management. This right of participation shall be deemed adequately complied with, if and when, the representatives of a majority of the employees of the several classes directly affected shall have conferred with the management."

"8.—No employee should be disciplined without a fair hearing by a designated officer of the carrier. Suspension in proper cases pending a hearing which shall be prompt, shall not be deemed a violation of this principle. At a reasonable time, prior to the hearing, he is entitled to be apprised of the precise charge against him. He shall have a reasonable opportunity to secure the presence of necessary witnesses and shall have the right to be heard in his defense. If the judgment shall be in his favor he shall be compensated for the wage loss, if any, suffered by him."

"9.—Proper classification of employees and a reasonable definition of the work to be done by each class for which just and reasonable wages are to be paid is necessary, but shall not unduly impose uneconomical conditions upon the carriers."

"10.—Regularity of hours or days during which the employee is to serve or hold himself in readiness to serve is desirable."

Approves Eight-Hour Day
"12.—The board approves the principles of the eight-hour day, but believes it should be limited to work requiring practically continuous application during the eight hours. For eight hours' pay, eight hours' work should be performed by all railroad employees except engine and train service employees, regulated by the Adamson act, who are paid generally on a mileage basis as well as an hourly basis."

"13.—The health and safety of employees should be reasonably protected."

"14.—The carriers and the several crafts and classes of railroad employees have a substantial interest in the competency of apprentices or persons under training. Opportunity to learn any craft or occupation shall not be unduly restricted."

"15.—The majority of any craft or class of employees shall have the right to determine what organization shall represent members in craft or class. No such agreement shall infringe, however, upon the right of employees, not members of the organization representing the majority, to present grievances either in person or by representatives of their own choice."

"16.—Employees called or required to report for work and reporting but not used, should be paid reasonable compensation therefor."

"Big Stick" Ready

When the board began to function, it divided the whole railroad controversy into a question of wages and of working conditions. The hearings on wages resulted in decision No. 2, the $30.60 wage award of July 20, 1920, and the rules dispute was deferred until January of this year. In decision No. 2 the board decided that the national shop crafts agreements should be continued, and the bulletins and orders of the United States railroad administration have also been continuing in force.

In October, July 1, was the date for terminating the national agreements, however, the board declared, in its decision yesterday that it reserves the right to terminate its decision of decision No. 2 at any earlier date than July 1, with regard to any class of employees, if it shall have reason to believe that such class of employees is unduly delaying negotiations by the conference of management and employees. It also reserves the right to stay the termination of the agreements if it believes any carrier is unduly delaying negotiations.

While placing the chief responsibility for drawing up a new set of working rules on the parties involved, the board did not say what part the rules agreed upon in conference and the rules promulgated by the board itself would play, respectively, in forming a new national code.

Under the transportation act, provision made for agreements between the roads and the employees and any such agreements, it was said, probably would form the backbone of a new set of rules. Such other rules as the board considered just and reasonable would then be added, it was said.

Comment on Ruling
CHICAGO, April 15.—Both railroad executives and labor leaders today degroup are the "Big four," the organization of engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors. It also affects telegraphers, clerks, shop employees, maintenance men, switchmen and those members of the national organization of master mechanics and pilots of America, who are employed by railroads.

When the abrogation of the national agreements was proposed several months ago by W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, it was declared that the national agreements were costing the railroads $30,000,000 a year, because certain economic conditions in shop conditions could not be put into effect under the old rules.

A meeting of the conference committee of the Association of Railway Executives, of which E. T. Whittier is chairman, was called for today to discuss the application of the decision to the individual roads.

WHALERS WIN SERIES IN THREE STRAIGHT GAMES

NEW BEDFORD, April 15.—New Bedford made its three straight in the post-season series with Lowell here last night, winning a fast, well played game by a 4 to 3 score.

New Bedford could score but once in the first period, but they subjected Blount to a terrific bombardment. Duggan's first goal was fluky. He slammed the ball against the wall behind the Lowell cage and then it rolled over the goal and into the netting.

Blount played a fine game. He ran out of the goal once to stop Wiley and threw the latter to the floor, drawing a foul for his act.

Dufresne scored the second goal on a foul shot after Cusick was caught holding Wiley. Dufresne scored Lowell's first goal on a nice shot from the blue of the rink, but Wiley increased the lead three minutes later. Quigley, Lowell's star, scored on a shot that bounced in front of Jette and rolled into the cage. Quigley evened the count at three apiece when he scored on a shot in from only to have Duggan crash one in from the goal in three seconds. The work of both goal tenders was of high order. The New Bedford players were presented 110 gold pieces by the fans and Referee Graham was the recipient of a necklace. Bonus checks for $120 were also given the league champions.

Summary:
 NEW BEDFORD: 1r, Alexander; 2r, Duggan; 3r, Davies; 4r, Dufresne; 5r, C. Quigley; 6r, Gardner; 7r, Cusick; 8r, Jette; 9r, Blount.

GIBBS DEFEATS AVILA

Wins Decision After Ten Rounds of Thrilling Battle—Other Bouts

Woonsocket Joe Gibbs won the decision over Johnny (Young) Avila of Lowell after 10 rounds of virile fighting in the final and feature event of the Crescent A.A. show last night. Scarcely in the history of local boxing has such a thrilling ring battle been witnessed here. It was a hurricane of action from bell to bell, and the boys must have been in remarkable physical condition, to stand the terrific pace maintained over the entire journey. Time and time again the pair stood together, fighting furiously and swapping terrific punches. Fans were on their feet half of the time, yelling and applauding in appreciation of the wonderful work of the boxers. While all rounds were replete with nerve changes and whirlwind endeavors, the 6th and 10th rounds will not soon be forgotten by those who were at the ringside. Rarely has such work been seen in the local or any other ring. The pair went at each other like a couple of tigers, and they never let up a second until the bell. In fact when the gong changed the referee had to rush out and pry them apart. Gibbs proved a great surprise to all. Many figured that Avila's weight advantage and well known hitting abilities would prove too much of a handicap. But this theory was soon dispelled, after the tap of the first gong. Gibbs bounced in and out, hit fast and often, and always returned for more. Once when he missed his objective, the momentum caused him to drop to the floor. He was up in a flash. Later in the bout Avila missed one and fell. These were the only times that either went to the canvas, but many marveled at how they stood on their feet under the barrage of blows. Avila was in fine form and demonstrated conclusively that he is a game and classy fighter. The only criticism of his efforts was his lack of aggressiveness. He let his opponent do most of the leading, and several times, when he had Gibbs on the run, he backed away instead of following up his advantage. But with all Avila made a creditable showing, and though clearly defeated he gained friends by his wonderful showing under such terrific fire. It was a great fight by two great fighters. The decision to Gibbs was a proper one.

In the first bout of the evening Joe Wellanson of Boston was awarded the decision over K. O. Kelley of Erie, Pa. after ten fast and well contested rounds. It was a battle all the way, with the winner in doubt up until the final few rounds.

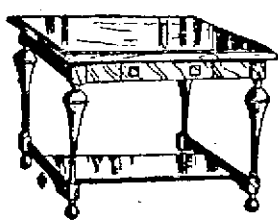

In the other bout Young George Gardner of Lowell defeated Larry Malia of Boston in ten rounds. This number was tame in comparison to the others. The Lowell boy easily outclassed his opponent and won practically all the way.

Grave Incidents in Northern Central Districts — Lives Lost, Property Damaged

ROME, April 15.—Grave incidents are reported in northern central Italy, where the extreme nationalists and the socialists have clashed in a number of cities and towns. Several lives have been lost and great property damage has been done during these disorders which are a result of the bitter feeling arising from the electoral campaign.

Upwards of 100 nationalists from Leghorn and Pisa marched to the town of Cecina, 20 miles southeast of Leghorn, where they sacked a communist club and burned the furniture as reparation for a socialist attack upon local nationalists. Returning to Leghorn, the party succeeded in wrecking the chamber of labor. As a protest, the socialists proclaimed a general strike, which the printers have joined, and there are no newspapers being published in the city.

Propagandist Killed

A widely known communist propagandist named Cammeo was shot and killed by women at Pisa last night. The women claiming that Cammeo had insulted them in a communist newspaper and had refused to print a retraction. In the melee that followed one woman was dangerously wounded, and others were injured. The chamber of labor has half-masted its flag and proclaimed a general strike.

A detachment of nationalists from Alessio, a town about 30 miles south of Florence, went to the village of San Sepolcro, 16 miles east, and wrecked the chamber of labor. The portraits of Nikolai Lenin and Leon Trotsky were burned, but the nationalists respected the pictures of Mazzini and Garibaldi, which hung in the chamber. Pietro Mascagni, the composer and a socialist member of the chamber of deputies, was forced to sign an undertaking that he would be personally responsible for any socialist reprisals in future.

Another affray occurred at Parma, where a socialist club was destroyed, and at Ravenna, the nationalists are alleged to have killed Luigi Masini, a socialist leader.

WOMEN'S INDUSTRIAL CLUB

"Patty Makes Things Hum" is the title of the melodrama which was presented before the members of the Women's Industrial club of the Massachusetts millia Wednesday night by the Great English class of the club. The play was given under the direction of the class instructor, James G. Dow, who is also teacher of English at the Lowell Textile school. In addition to the comedy there were dance numbers by the Dewey sisters, and the presentation of a tableau entitled "The Old-fashioned Family Album," with Miss Mary Purton reading the several character parts. Those who took part in the drama were Misses Gertrude Leggett, Alice Ryan, Alice Patonauite, Alice Farley, Margaret Conroy, Helen Booth, Edith Delaney, Kate Gallagher, Mrs. Sadie Beardon and Mrs. J. G. Dow.

WILL NOT LIFT BOYCOTT

Efforts of American Embassy in Buenos Aires Fail—Labor Leaders Firm

BUENOS AIRES, April 15.—Efforts by the American embassy here to secure intervention by the Argentine government in the controversy which resulted in the boycott of the Munson liner Martha Washington, have been without result. The labor leaders refused to lift the boycott unless their demands were granted.

All port activities have been suspended by the Port Workers' union until 1 o'clock this afternoon as a result of the death of two stevedores on the steamer Terre Haute yesterday. The men were killed by an explosion, probably of gasoline. More than 100 vessels were affected by the union's order.

MONTVIDEO, April 15.—Discharge of the cargo consigned to Buenos Aires on board the Munson liner Huron began here yesterday without opposition from the port workers. The goods will be transferred to the steamer Laurel, now in the harbor of Buenos Aires, and conveyed to their destination.

The Huron will leave for New York April 19 or 21, carrying passengers from the Argentine capital.

Charge Forced Marriages in House Of David—Principals in Cult Suit

MRS. HILDA HANSEL AND HER HUSBAND, RUSSELL L. HANSEL. A LONG-HAIRED MEMBER OF THE HOUSE OF DAVID, WHO, SHE SAYS SHE MARRIED UNDER COMPELSION

CHICAGO, April 14.—"I will choose seven virgins, who shall live under one roof as a secret until a conspiracy is brought against me, which shall bring it into vogue."

So prophesied Holy Benjamin Purnell in his book "The Star of Bethlehem," which outlines the beliefs of the long-haired religious cult of the House of David at Benton Harbor, Mich.

The prophecy will be fulfilled in Chicago, April 18, when charges will be made against him in the suit of Mrs. Hilda Hansel for the annulment of her marriage to Russell L. Hansel, into which she says Purnell forced her.

Mrs. Isabella Pritchard, mother of Hilda Hansel, expects to testify in court concerning her own connection with the cult.

From Australia

Fifteen years ago Mrs. Pritchard became a convert and left her home in Melbourne, Australia, with her two daughters, Hilda and Rena, then 12 and 14, to enter the colony.

Mrs. Pritchard says that she pooled all her possessions with the head of the House of David, because the colony is co-operative.

Thereafter, she says, she and her daughters endured many hardships until finally they fled.

In the colony, Mrs. Pritchard alleges, she and her daughters were subjected to arduous toil and allowed little food and scanty clothing.

Purnell, she says, who calls himself "A Second Gabriel," rules the colony, punishing those who disobey his commands.

In David's House

According to the three women, children growing up in the colony are graduated from various duties to the House of David. There is, Mrs. Pritchard said, great rejoicing when the 16-year-old girls go there.

But, she alleges, Holy Benjamin swore the girls to secrecy so that no word would escape as to what took place within.

"There are some 50 to 60 girls at the House of David," said Mrs. Pritchard. "My girls thought that I approved of anything that Holy Benjamin did, but I did not know what was taking place at his house."

"When Benjamin was warned that officials were to make investigations, some girls were immediately married off to men they hadn't even spoken to."

Mrs. Pritchard left the colony in September, 1919, with her daughters Rena's husband also came with them, but Hilda's husband remained.

Hilda states that she never lived with Hansel as his wife, for men and women have separate quarters at the colony, and it is because of this that she hopes to win an annulment.

Whether Hansel will contest the suit is in doubt. However, every charge made against Purnell and his associates is denied in full at the colony.

GIVE OUT TRUE FACTS ON BUILDING INDUSTRY

CHICAGO, April 15.—The restoration of the public's confidence in the building and construction industries is the chief aim of the National Federation of Construction Industries, according to letters sent out by the national organization to more than 1900 members who are arranging meetings in almost all parts of the country.

"Bring the public into your meetings; let them know of the rise and fall of prices and the actual facts concerning the building industry," says the letter.

A definite program was outlined here last month and within the next thirty days, according to President Ernest T. Trigg of Philadelphia, more than 1000 meetings will have been held in almost every state in the Union.

While the National Federation of Construction Industries do not, at the present time, contemplate a general gathering of that body, yet the executive committee of this organization has held numerous meetings in Philadelphia and Chicago, and at the present time has appointed a sub-committee to take up the question of government aid for the industries with Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

The federation members holding the meetings throughout the country have called upon the executive committee for aid in the conduct of these meetings, either by suggestions relative to interesting the public in becoming acquainted with the true facts of the situation or in having a representative of the committee deliver an address.

The activities of the National Federation calls for "the holding of general meetings under the auspices of local chambers of commerce, of the principal construction material producers, manufacturers, dealers, contractors, engineers, architects, bankers, transportation, fuel, labor, real estate, and other interests associated with or distinctly affecting the construction industries of the locality."

"A public invitation would be extended and the public invited to attend as auditors. The program would include presentations of the situation from the viewpoint of public officials having to do with public work, and the construction, financial and transportation interests. Each of the elements in the construction industries should not only deal with the discussion of the situation in general, but should come down to actual statements of costs of materials and other specific facts which must be considered in effecting a proper renewal of construction activities. In addition to the above subjects that of labor should be dealt with thoroughly, both as regards to labor costs and restriction of output."

The executive committee advises that the directors committees should arrange for the public invited to attend with or without their labor, for the purpose of going into the subject of reducing labor costs on a just basis. The primary elements of the meeting, subject to modifications as the local situation may indicate, are as follows:

(1) Development of wage bases in accordance with existing conditions.

(2) Selling of standards of production which will at least equal those of previous time.

(3) Taking steps which will have to view the elimination of jurisdictional and syndicate strikes and other stoppages of work.

(4) The development of better relationships between employers and employees primarily for making efficient work free of doubt of accomplishment.

(5) Adjustment of profits, increased and methods of doing business in a way to conform with present business conditions and improved efficiency."

Eyes Inflamed?

If your eyes are inflamed, weak, tired or overworked; if they ache; if picture shows make them feel dry and strained, get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets from your druggist. Dissolve one in a fourth of a glass of water and use as an eye bath from two to four times a day. Bon-Opto allays inflammation, invigorates, tones up the eyes.

Note: Doctors say Bon-Opto strengthens eye sight in a week's time in many instances.

No. Dakota Prevented by Reactionaries From Carrying Out Program

WASHINGTON, April 15.—North Dakota was prevented by a "reactionary group in the legislature" from carrying out her agricultural and industrial program, which had been approved seven times by the people, Senator E. F. Lund of that state declared today before the People's Reconstruction League conference.

"Can the sovereign rights of a great state," he asked, "be destroyed by outside antagonistic interests that seek to boycott her and to destroy the industries the farmers have sought to develop after a quarter of a century abuse on the part of special privilege?"

The senator asserted that "speculators and gamblers in the necessities of life had even rich through a system of marketing devised as to profit from the toil of the farmer." Had it not been for the continued rise in the value of land, he added, the farmer would have gone bankrupt. The farmer now, he added, is taking steps that "should and will, I believe, enable him within the next two years to market his products under conditions that will insure for him a reasonable price, a fair return for his labors, and at the same time furnish the articles to the consumer at a lower price."

The turnover sales tax was denounced by Representative Fear, republican, Wisconsin, as "especially vicious at the present time when corporations are seeking to escape the tax they are now paying on part of their profits over the 8 per cent exempt by law."

"Sugar-coated strychnine pills," he declared, "the dealer offered to persuade the people that the sales tax poison is for their interest. But it will result, he said, in a 'tremendous increase in prices because the turnover tax which is proposed will tax every turnover of the articles consumed from the time when it is produced on the farm through its different sales to the mill, the bakery and down to the purchase of bread.'"

Mr. Fear charged that a few business men and large corporations "have raised a large sum of money for the support of a lobby and high priced writers in Washington for propaganda purposes." They are demanding, he added, "the repeal of the excess profits

ORDERS A VERDICT FOR TWO DEFENDANTS

A verdict in favor of two of the defendants, Marcos Matallotis and Geo. Mellett, was ordered by Judge Franklin T. Hammond in the superior court today in the case of Clarence Dickinson, owner of Cambridge, against Mrs. Nellie Fish Stever Whitley, of 619 Audubon road, Boston, and George Marcosciantis, Marcos, Matallotis and George Mellett, proprietors of a restaurant on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. The plaintiff sought to recover $50,000 damages from the defendants for the alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, Alice Louise Chazler. The judge decided that sufficient evidence had not been produced connecting the two defendants named with the acts set forth in the declaration of the plaintiff to warrant submitting the case to the consideration of the jury.

The court decided that it should be left to the jury to determine whether Mrs. Nellie Fish Stever Whitley and George Marcosciantis, frequently referred to as the "cook" during the trial of the suit, were responsible for the alleged alienation of Mrs. Chazler's affections.

The defense rested its case without calling witnesses.

Closing addresses to the jury were made by J. H. Weeks of Dunbar, Nutter and McClellan of Boston representing George Marcosciantis; Lloyd Makepeace of Boston, representing Mrs. Nellie Fish Stever Whitley and Edgar L. Ryerson of Boston, representing the plaintiff.

The case was given to the jury early this afternoon.

When the court adjourned, it was announced that no further sessions will be held until next Wednesday.

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Alexandre Duprez, of 230 Cheever st., is in a serious condition at the Lowell Corporation hospital as a result of injuries he received yesterday afternoon in an automobile accident, which occurred in Broadway at a point near Wilson's corner. Duprez was crossing the street when an automobile operated by Howard R. Northrop of 49 Wilder street, struck him after skidding. The injured man was taken to the hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from severe abrasions about the body and a probable fracture of the skull. His name was placed on the dangerous list.

Defends Bank Against Bandits—Kills 1

Says Big Business Influenced R. R. Board

NEW YORK, April 15.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor declared today that the railroad labor board evidently had been influenced by big business in ordering abrogation of existing national working agreements between the carriers and their employees. "The whole railway act, once pronounced a perfect piece of legislation, now is denounced as an utter failure," he said. "The board evidently was influenced by big business."

Do You Realize What Page Quality Really Means?

PAGE'S CARAMELS, for example are made from 40% butter fat cream—cream that comes to us every morning from Poland, Me. from one of the cleanest, most sanitary creameries in New England, not from some manufactured substitute which could be used—from the best grade Meadowbrook print butter, fresh every day from Vermont—not from Western tub butter which could be used—from fancy selected almonds, walnuts and pecans—not from small pieces, the refuse left in sorting out the best—from the very best flavoring it is possible to buy.

This is true of all other PAGE'S candy and bakery products.

Page's Ice Cream

Is made the same way, that is of the best materials obtainable. At a recent test at Lowell City Hall our ice cream tested nearly 20 per cent. in rich butter fats—in quality and purity. The Massachusetts State Law only requires 7 per cent. butter fats. That means PAGE'S ice cream is three times as good as the State Law requires.

We could make all PAGE'S products for about half the present cost if we were willing to use substitutes. However, we believe there are enough people in Lowell and vicinity willing to pay a little more for sational split in the ranks of the powerful triple alliance on labor this afternoon completely changed the complexion of the blackest industrial crisis Great Britain had ever faced and averted the projected strike of the railwaymen and transport workers in sympathy with the striking miners, set for 10 o'clock tonight.

Events developed with such sudden and startling changes as to leave the public in a maze. Simultaneously with the announcement in the house of commons by Prime Minister Lloyd George that the miners had declined to accept his invitation to reopen negotiations with the mine owners on the terms advanced last evening by Frank Hodges, the miners' secretary, came the announcement that the railwaymen and the transport workers had cancelled the strike called for tonight.

The reason for this action by the railway and transport unions, which with the miners' union make up the triple alliance, was quickly developed. It appeared that the conferences throughout the day among the members of the alliance had developed a heated controversy revolving about the Hodges' proposals. The miners condemned these with the assertion that Secretary Hodges had conceded too much in offering to discuss the question of wages without raising immediately the issue of a national pool, while the railroad men and the transport workers declared the proposition

LONDON, April 15.—A letter was sent by Prime Minister Lloyd George today to the local authorities throughout the country for their guidance if the strike set for tonight should occur.

"The country," he wrote, "is face to face with a situation which threatens not only its security, but also the very existence of ordered government in our land. The maintenance of the essential services without which the people cannot live, is the first duty of the government and of the municipal authorities of the country."

"Such services can only be maintained by the voluntary and energetic efforts of the country as a whole. To make this effort cannot be regarded as taking sides in an industrial struggle. It is a primary duty which every citizen owes to himself, to his family and to his country."

OPENING DAY OF THE TROUT SEASON

The trout season got under way in Lowell and other parts of Massachusetts today and from now on until the first of August disciples of the celebrated Mr. Walton will be in their glory. The first day of the season was perfectly auspicious as far as atmospheric conditions are concerned, for this popular outdoor sport. There was no sunshine except very early this morning and the beauties of the local and neighboring brooks had little reason to be bashful about swimming within reaching distance of early season anglers.

There are 33 brooks within a radius of ten miles of Lowell which should be productive of trout this season. The Lowell Fish and Game association has stocked these brooks abundantly, in accordance with its usual custom. Therefore, the one remaining requisite is skill on the part of the fisherman. The Lowell sportsman who intends to trail the elusive trout to its lair must remember that there's nothing doing unless he carries in his inside pocket a neat little license which says that he has the right to fish in Massachusetts and that he has paid for that right.

For a few days City Clerk Stephen Flynn was without fishing license blanks owing to the great demand for them this year, but a new supply has been received and there are now plenty for all who want them. Ordinarily, the opening of the trout season would find the water in the brooks too cold for any comfort-loving trout to come near the surface, but this spring has been so mild that the trout family has advanced its calendar and believes it is now the middle of May.

Many a fishing rod has been vanned during the last few days and more than one reel has been taken apart and copiously oiled. Keen anticipation has been the keynote of the Lowell fisherman's life but now the bait is off, everything is ready and the doom of the trout is at hand.

STRIKING AT STATE RIGHTS

Still there is an ill-advised support for the Smith-Towner bill in Lowell and some other cities in the northern states, maintained chiefly by college professors and clergymen who apparently see only the purpose of the bill to aid education in the south or wherever it is backward, and this at the expense of the states where it is progressive. They forget that the means to be adopted is distinctly Prussian and un-American, inasmuch as it is contrary to the spirit of our constitution to direct such activities from Washington. It is in line with the recent tendency to centralize power in the federal government to an extent never before attempted. This is a direct result of the war. Because the federal government did certain things during the war, some people believe it should continue to do so even by overruling and disregarding state rights.

The boasted sovereignty of the states will soon be a memory if this tendency be allowed to go unchecked. It is time to grapple with it before it is allowed to do any further harm. Already there has been an unwarranted encroachment on state rights by various laws enacted as a result of congressional lobbying and forced upon the states. Congressman Rogers and many other republicans are opposed to this centralization of authority, whether it be shown in the Smith-Towner bill or any other measure.

The other ground on which this bill should be opposed is that of expense. It proposes to raise $100,000,000 by taxation at a time when the nation is far more heavily burdened with taxation than ever before. This money would be collected mainly from the northern states and spent mainly in the south.

Massachusetts would have to pay $7,000,000 under the provisions of this bill, to be spent in promoting education in Georgia and other southern states that refuse to appropriate a reasonable amount themselves. If this bill became law, the states that wanted to benefit most by its provisions would let their school systems run down and then call for aid from the federal government. Thus, the law would be a continual drag upon the progressive states, by compelling them to pay for educating the lazy, the indifferent and the dishonest.

EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

Mr. James A. Moyer, in his address at the closing exercises at the Textile school gave a very comprehensive outline of the wonderful proportions attained by the college extension work of the state department of education. Mr. Moyer is the head of this system of instruction and his great success is largely due to his personal supervision. The fact that there are 40,000 students enrolled in the college extension courses, indicates what an important educational institution this department has developed. The courses are so varied that any student can find among them practically everything he needs; and the teachers are men of experience, who understand thoroughly the best method of helping ambitious young men and women onward to success.

It is a fact that today thousands of young people occupy respectable positions that they could never have reached but for the help of the college extension courses. This department offers opportunities to ambitious young people that should be availed of, even to a greater extent than at present. There are thousands of young people, who by taking special courses could improve their position in life, but who through their own shiftness continue to go along on the old beaten path without any hope of advancement. With facilities for education brought to the very doors of those who need it, is there any excuse for the young men who remain in obscure positions simply because they lack the ambition and the determination to master a few technical branches?

THE CHARTER

The new city charter has been held no long in the various stages in the legislature that it will surely be a perfect instrument when it finally emerges. Nevertheless, the essential features of the charter remain, with the exception of the sweeping power which had originally been granted to the mayor. That has been properly modified and the only other amendments of any great importance are that members of boards and commissions now in office, will be allowed to serve out their terms before being superseded under the new charter. The amendments providing that the superintendent of streets and the sewerage and water department shall be placed under civil service rules seem to be out of place in the charter, although they are of no special importance. It is hoped that we shall not always need a superintendent of streets, but as for the sewerage and water measures, his services will always be needed and if he performs his duty as faithfully as the present incumbent he will be in no danger of removal.

CAR STRIKE THREATENED

It is to be hoped that this talk of a strike by the carmen on the Eastern Massachusetts will not be allowed to go unchecked until it culminates in a tie-up of the service. The public is not usually considered in such controversies and any newspaper that speaks a word for the rights of the people is accused of being opposed to one side or the other, or perhaps to both. Nothing, however, is regarded as fair by such critics except what favors their side. There can be no one-sided "agreement"; so that if the proposed agreement given out by the company is not acceptable to the men, the difference should be ironed out in conference or else submitted to arbitration. Refusal to follow this rule results in strikes that do more harm than good even to the winning side.

PEACE BY RESOLUTION

Senator Knox has introduced in congress his resolution to terminate the war with Germany. This is a temporary expedient, the object of which is to repair as far as possible the damage done by delay in the failure of the senate to ratify the Versailles treaty in any form. It is difficult to see just where this proceeding will land the United States. It is proposed to "engage" as the president puts it, under the treaty already adopted with certain reservations that will safeguard the United States in all its essential interests. The fact remains, however, that inasmuch as the adopted treaty is now in effect, and Germany no longer a free agent, it would appear that the compact will have to be revamped, renegotiated and reaffirmed by all the signatory powers. This will be a tedious proceeding and one of the most unusual and difficult.

THE BRITISH CRISIS

We are still confident that at the last moment, the threatened strike in England will be averted. True, the situation has got rather beyond the control of the premier, who at the outset rather scoffed at the attitude of the unions in the triple alliance. That combination representing 4,000,000 men, however, has apparently decided to assert its power and to force concessions despite the threats of government authority backed by the military force mustered for the emergency. It looks now as if Lloyd George is not so sure of enacting a coup that would bring him out of this national crisis with a new halo of political glory.

PRICE OF GAS

The federal district court in New York city has fixed the price of gas at $1.20 per 1000 cubic feet for state, county and city officials. The companies are now charging $1.60 per 1000 and the cut is regarded as material. It is 40 cents per 1000 cubic feet less than the rate now in force in Lowell.

"Next Sunday, they say, will be even drier in New York, and the tendency after that will be from the company to the superintendent," says the Boston Globe. When the superlative has been reached the New Yorkers can immigrate to Lowell where we have an unchanging degree of "wetness."

Senator Moses, saying that the president has "pronounced a fitting benediction over the best body of the league," also took credit to himself for having been largely instrumental in providing the principal requisite for the funeral.

The Sun and its readers have become so accustomed to getting things done that it seems almost superfluous to call attention to the fact that the Ladd and Whitney monument is at last being cleaned as a result of their team work.

Some of the members of the Lawrence city council started out to reduce the pay of city employees and they got just as far as our own municipal fathers who did not make any such start at all.

Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy says that there is no better paying work done anywhere in the country than in Lowell. There is no fault found with the quality. Why can't we have more of it is what bothers the public.

Harding pronounces them "ee-ther" and "tre-ther" while Wilson called them "i-ther" and "ni-ther." Does this prove that the former president was dominated by English influences while his successor is not?

One nail was hit squarely on the head when President Harding said that people are not so much interested in shifting the burden of taxes as they are in "shifting out the necessity for imposing them."

Members of the New York Women's League say that they are going to find a "good man" to run for mayor of New York and then elect him. Faith like that ought to be able to remove a mountain of corrupt government.

A news item says that the president cannot leave the White House without being followed by a squad of secret service detectives. We had not supposed that Mr. Harding was quite such a suspicious character.

The wife of the governor of Nebraska, who does all the housework in a 21-room home, probably is content to let her husband look after the politics for the family.

The railroads are reported to be losing $100,000,000 a month, and perhaps are also beginning to learn that increasing rates is not a sure way of adding to income.

Manchester, N. H., Lowell's younger sister in the Merrimack valley family of cities, is to have a new art gallery. When shall we catch up with our progressive relative up the river?

If we may judge from the cash even Senator of Mr. Harding's message there will at least be a noticeable lack of fizz and fireworks during his administration.

Mayor Thompson, as the guest of Malvern, the rubber-shoe city, may bring home a supply of footwear for a "gum-shoe" campaign for re-election.

The Quaker's Horse

After an absence of more than thirty years a New York multimillionaire made a flying visit to his native town on the occasion of its old home week celebration. Since he had become a mighty merchant prince his townfolk had constantly quoted him as an example for imitation. At the banquet given him by his schoolmates and boyhood associates he was congratulated and belauded to the skies. When he arose to speak they listened with closest attention, for they thought they might obtain a glimpse of the method which had enabled him to reach the high peaks of finance. "You tell me," he began, "that I am the most successful man that ever left the town, that I ought to be the happiest man in the known world. Well, to be honest with you, I am neither the one nor the other. I am far less successful and happy than the poorest among you. When a man deliberately puts his whole life into a business, into one thing, and gets nothing out of it but cash, cold cash, as they call it, he is not getting the full value of his investment. Ever heard the story of the Quaker's horse? No? Well, I will tell it to you, for it explains my position exactly. A certain Quaker brought a rather fine looking horse to the fair for sale. A farmer took a fancy to the animal, it being the kind he needed, but suspected that something was amiss else the owner would not be so eager to dispose of him. Knowing that Quakers had the reputation for truthfulness, he asked, 'Hasn't the horse some faults?' 'Two,' replied the Quaker. 'What are they?' 'I'll tell thee one of the faults before thee buy him; the other when I get the money.' 'Very well,' assented the farmer. 'It is a bargain. What is the first fault?' 'He is very, very hard to catch.' 'Oh, that's nothing,' laughed the farmer, 'I can remedy that. What is the second fault?' he asked, as he paid over the purchase money. The Quaker carefully counted the money, then he leaned toward the farmer and said in a confidential tone. 'When caught he is no good.' Now that is my identical case. I strove and strove for years and years to catch up with wealth. In doing so I lost sight of everything else. It took me a proverbially long time pursuing and awaiting and waiting and pursuing before I succeeded, and at the end of my tether I find the Quaker's horse. Had I given but a few dollars to charity in my struggling days it would have saved my face today, for none would doubt my sincerity. It is a bad business for any concerned where one takes all in and gives nothing. The gist of my experience is no man or woman can be really happy or successful unless by doing good to others."

To a Lost Love

When I go back to Chateaugay and see The old accustomed shores, my journey seems An aimless prowling among deserted dreams. Until I think of you. Then suddenly Abandoned fancies show their goal to me. My new awareness of old hopes I keep Is like a sinking into wistful sleep That recreates the stuff of memory. But I return upon an idle quest, Gaining the elements of dream. For, though I can recover clouds and blue To build a later sky, though south and west Offer its winds, and stars will lend their gleam, The stubborn night will not contribute you.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

There can be no greater arrangement of a city than to find that dogs and cats flee from you as you walk peacefully along the streets. Every dog whines away when you whistle to him, every cat who nuzzles beats it for refuge when you call "Here, puss," means that some low-down, narrow contracted soul parading in human form has administered at one time a wanton kick to the dog, or a hurried, uncalculated brickbat at the cat. Cats are naturally neutral in the matter of men. They neither like nor dislike the human species. Left to themselves they will spend their days basking in the sunlight. They won't bother you or come near you, although if you scratch their sensitive necks, they will wag a little sogg for you and arch their furry backs pleasantly. Dogs not only are harmless; they are positively devoted to man, woman and child. Give a dog half a chance and he is your friend for life. He will give you as much affection as though you were a god. He will gladly learn amusing tricks; he will play with you, pretending to be fierce, biting in assumed rage but with the most marvelous care not to hurt; he will be a companion to you, a merry-eyed, lively, tireless companion. But neither dog nor cat will go out of their way to harm you. Why cannot we be as decent as these animals? Why must some of us forever ruin their dispositions, poster their noses, tease, torment, and assault them until they become "vicious" and have to be muzzled, leashed, or even killed? When I step across the boundaries into the perfect town, I shall know it by the dogs and cats, which will not fear me. Of course the dog and cat cannot be perfect, for they are natural men of temper—like some men that you and I are acquainted with. But take them all in all, these domestic animals exemplify in a way that some of us humans have unfortunately not yet learned, the noble art of living and letting live. It is to the credit of American cities that they usually have humane societies devoted to the rights of the dumb beasts who cannot plead for themselves. In Lowell there is the Lowell Humane society, headed by Agent Richardson. The activities of this organization do honor to the city, and they are a credit to the man who heads it. But the man who heads it without cause an inoffensive animal, an animal who has imbibed the lesson so hard for some humans to

PARIS STYLES IN AUSTRIA

VIENNA, April 15.—The master tailors and milliners of Vienna are having difficulty trying to maintain the independence of Paris modes and styles in women's attire which they established in war time. While the war was in progress they declared an act of emancipation from the rule of the Rue de la Paix and conducted a vigorous campaign all over the then enemy and neutral states to make Vienna, instead of Paris, the arbiter of women's fashions.

Now the tailors and milliners charge their own members with treason in yielding to feminine demand and bringing model costumes from Paris. The tailors and milliners complain also of the competition in their trades which comes from the wives or widows of former Austrian army officers of influential social standing who have taken to military or to the designing of costumes for the newly rich as a means of livelihood. One of these new competitors is the wife of an Austrian general and many of them have their shops in their own palaces or apartments.

The master tailors are trying to have the labor laws amended so that no one may do such business without having served an apprenticeship of two and one-half years.

The extinct volcano, Patate, overlooking Honolulu, now furnishes 2,000,000 gallons of drinking water daily to the city.

Understand, that of minding his own business, such a man needs watching. If he doesn't respect the rights of the helpless, he won't respect the rights of anyone unless he is forced to it.

John Kendrick Bangs' recent remarks in this city regarding the reasons why news editors "play-up" stories about crime, pestilence, famine and sudden death have started people talking about what they think is the sense or lack of sense that governs the papers in selecting the news to which they shall give prominence. In the first place the public can feel pretty well assured that the newspapermen know what they are about in performing their work. "News," Mr. Bangs is quoted as having said, "is the record of the unusual." It is something more than that; it is the record of the striking and the dramatic in the daily happenings of the world. The newspaper men will tell you that the most valuable qualification for a good reporter is a "nose for news." It is a faculty that is born and not made. Some persons have it and some have not, and those who have it not may as well make up their minds that it can never be acquired. The possessor of a "nose for news" sees instinctively the things that are most certain to interest the public. The public, too, has very clearly defined ideas of what it wants to read. A storyman, it may be remembered, told once a day, given permission to take over a daily paper in Nebraska for a month and said as he thought it should be run. If the job had lasted more than a month the ground would have been hit, the place into which he would have hit, namely "run." The publication, a newspaper must furnish what its readers demand, and not what some people think they ought to demand, other wise no newspaper would survive. That most newspapers were never brighter, cleaner, or as well edited as they are today.

ALTITUDE HAS MUCH TO DO WITH SPEED

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The value to an aviator of knowledge of air conditions is pointed out by C. LeRoy Meisinger, government meteorologist, in a paper analyzing the results of data gathered by the weather bureau and the air mail service.

Mr. Meisinger explains that information of upper air conditions has enabled a saving of as high as two hours in the time taken for certain air mail trips, of 150 miles, and he looks upon the general lack of knowledge of air conditions as the most serious present obstacle to immediate commercial aviation on a large scale in this country.

Europe's vaunted superiority over the United States in commercial aviation is discounted by Mr. Meisinger, who says that "every day United States mail planes are flying over laps of such length that the famous European routes seem to diminish in importance."

To "keep the eagle in the air," however, the confidence of the American public must be maintained, according to Mr. Meisinger. He declares that expert knowledge of air conditions and application of the value which may be obtained from this knowledge, will reduce accidents, increase the safety of flying, and create a public support of commercial aviation.

Through scientific study of the air, commercial aviation can be given such an impetus that America will be supreme in this work. Mr. Meisinger says, adding that European aviation companies realize the value of the air factor and have created departments of aeronautical meteorology.

On journeys westward, the air mail service has found that generally an altitude of one kilometer (about 3300 feet) results in the most speed, the winds being most favorable there. On the return journey, however, three kilometers have been found to be the most favorable altitude, the winds varying at different heights.

By flying at the one kilometer altitude, planes could travel from New York to Omaha at an average of three hours and forty minutes less than similar planes could make at three kilometers, according to the figures cited by Mr. Meisinger, all being on the basis of a plane which had a still air speed of 100 miles an hour.

One hour and 35 minutes of this saving is made on the Chicago-Omaha leg, 400 miles; 14 minutes on the lap from New York to Cleveland, 410 miles; and 35 minutes from Cleveland to Chicago, 220 miles. In returning from Omaha to New York, a plane flying at an altitude of three kilometers would make the trip in 1 hour and 41 minutes less than the average time on flying at one kilometer high, according to Mr. Meisinger's figures.

On the New York to Washington mail trip about 200 miles, it has been

MOTHER DOG BEGS FOOD FOR PUPPIES

CLEAR LAKE, Minn., April 15.—When the owner of a dog and nine puppies turned them out without food and refused to feed them any longer, the mother dog did just what a human mother would have done in similar circumstances. She went from door to door begging food for her little ones. The dog would scratch at the back doors of Clear Lake houses and when opened she would look into the faces of the person who came and then at her half-starved puppies, telling as eloquently as she knew how that they were in need.

Her appeal was always heeded and food was provided for the wanderers, but in every instance the mother dog, hungry as she must have been, refused to touch any of the food until her little ones had had all they wanted.

The case was reported at length to Sam P. Fullerton, executive agent of the Minnesota Society for the Protection of Cruelty, who investigated the story and found it true in every particular. Mr. Fullerton compelled the dog's owner to take her and her puppies back to provide enough food for them.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

PRINCETON, N. J., April 15.—University faculties throughout the United States are watching with keen interest the experiment put in effect at Princeton to have the undergraduates handle the situation with regard to the morals of the student body. The ruling marks the beginning of an epoch in student government in American universities. The professors of Old Nassau have decided the time has come when the undergraduates, better able to handle the question of their morals than the discipline committee of the faculty itself. Accordingly, they have placed in the senior council the power to recommend the punishment "for acts tending to injure the good name or the moral tone of the university" without giving reasons for evidence to the faculty.

Princeton has an efficient preceptorial system under the guidance of Henry Boyle, known to Princetonians in song and story as "Hank the Cop." The duty of the university preceptor has dated from the days before the American Revolution when all the Princeton students lived in Nassau hall, and as the old records show, indulged in smuggling roast fowl and beer into their rooms through the medium of the negro slaves residing in "Princeton." But with the introduction of the honor system into university life in the nineties, much of the duty and importance of the preceptor was absorbed by the various undergraduate bodies, chief of which is the honor committee itself. Almost all phases of undergraduate activity come under this system, from cheating in examinations to the use of "plants" in the seats of absentees in lecture rooms.

came to the conclusion that at frequent intervals acts occur on the campus that need punishment, and which escape the notice of the preceptor, but not of the undergraduates themselves. The moral state of an undergraduate is such that his conscience does not allow him to report his fellows to anyone even remotely connected with the faculty, but he is willing to report such proceedings to the senior council with the proviso that it shall go no farther. It was to deal with this situation that the new ruling at Princeton was passed.

The council, an elective body of seniors, usually including the class officers, the major sport captains and the heads of the important campus activities, meets every Monday night in the council chamber of Murray Dodge hall to consider the affairs of the university. In case charges of a serious nature are brought against any student by his fellows the proceedings are in secret, and the council sits as a jury on the case. The offender is brought into the room and seated at the head of a long table and informed of the accusations. He has the right of stating his case and he may bring in witnesses—and while the defendant is at liberty to call upon anyone he desires in his defense, the testimony of the faculty or of the preceptor's force would not be admitted against him.

Witnesses "for the state" are then questioned, and while their testimony may cause anguish to his friends, they have never been known to refuse it, though the council has no means of forcing students to appear in the witness box.

The whole proceeding is carried on under the honor system, and the word of the defendant carries more weight than circumstantial evidence. After the testimony is completed, the council goes into deliberation. Points of law do not enter and the purpose is to reach a decision in equity. A three-quarter vote is necessary to conviction, any smaller majority amounting to acquittal. A similar majority is necessary in fixing the penalty. The president of the council then reports to the faculty that his colleagues have recommended certain penalties to be inflicted upon the defendant a recommendation which is accepted without question.

RED TRIANGLE
VILLAGE OFFICERS

Results of the election held last Saturday and Sunday for the officers of Red Triangle Village at the Y.M.C.A. were announced last evening at the regular dormitory meeting. The following men were elected: J. E. Conner, mayor; Gerald Thompson, clerk; councilmen: Ward 1, H. E. Beale; ward 2, S. Shannon; ward 3, J. J. Southern; ward 4, A. Livingston; ward 5, H. Dumesnil. This is the organization of the effort to start an organization of self-government of the dormitory men made a week or two ago. This organization is being carried on very successfully in many of the large associations throughout the country. At the meeting last evening the following appointments were made by the mayor: For commissioner of social welfare, L. Simard; for commissioner of welcome, E. G. Hopkins. Also a constitutional committee was elected to frame a constitution, composed of the following: J. E. Wilson, Geo. Cole, Chas. Morse, J. T. Gearn, Wm. Rhodes. It was also voted to have a weekly village sheet called "The Dorn," in which will be put items of interest, suggestions, knocks, etc. Supper was served by the ladies before the meeting was held. Forty of the dormitory men were present.

Trains in the United States are about four times as heavy as those in Great Britain.

Terms of Three Members of Federal Body Established in 1920 Expire

CHICAGO, April 15.—The terms of three members of the United States railroad labor board expire today, marking the first birthday of the federal body as established under the transportation act of 1920. One member from each of the public, railway and labor groups terminates his one-year appointment.

The one-year members were Henry T. Hunt of Cincinnati, for the public; W. L. Park of Chicago, railway member, and J. J. Forrester of Washington, D. C., representing labor. They may be reappointed or successors appointed by the president, with the confirmation of congress.

The railroad labor board consists of nine members, three in each of the public, railway and labor groups. When the first appointments were made on April 15, 1920, one member of each group was appointed for one year, one from each group for two years and the third from each group for three years. Appointments as vacancies occur are to be for five years.

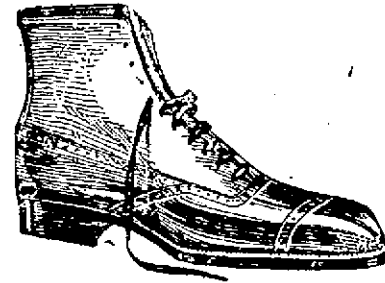

The outgoing public member, Henry T. Hunt, is a lawyer and former mayor of Cincinnati. During the war, he attended the first officers' training camp at Fort Ben Harrison, being commissioned first lieutenant and subsequently being promoted to major in May, 1918. Mr. Hunt served with the A.E.F. from September of that year until the following January and was a member of the war department board of contract adjustment in Washington when appointed to the labor board. Mr. Hunt was born in 1878 and was graduated from Yale and Cincinnati Law school, being admitted to the Ohio bar in 1903. He practiced law in Cincinnati, being elected to the state legislature in 1906 for two years and serving as mayor of the city from 1912 to 1914.

William Leo Park, railway member, has been a railroad man since 1875, when he entered the service of the Union Pacific as a brakeman, after studying at Seagrave's academy, Omaha, Neb. Two years later, at the age of 18, he was promoted to freight conductor. He continued with the Union Pacific for 35 years, acting as superintendent of several western divisions.

In March, 1910, Mr. Park became vice president of the Illinois Central and the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley railroads, in charge of operation, maintenance of way construction and hospital departments. In November, 1913, he was appointed vice president of the Chicago Great Western railroad, in charge of all departments, except traffic and accounting, and continued with this road as federal manager under the U. S. railroad administration.

The labor member, John J. Forrester, was born on a farm in Ohio in 1867 and has been a railroad man since 1882. He began on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern (now the New York Central) as a messenger and extra ticket clerk, while teaching school and studying law in his spare hours. After a varied experience on the Wabash and Clover Leaf he returned to the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern in 1902 at Toledo.

In 1904, Mr. Forrester became assistant chief clerk for the general superintendent of the Hocking Valley railroad at Columbus, O., and three years later resigned to accept a position as organizer for the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. He held various executive positions in the organization until his election in 1915 as grand president. He was re-elected president in 1919. Mr. Forrester first became a member of the clerks' organization in 1899 and remained active in their affairs through the consolidation which grouped all organizations under the present Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees.

Under the transportation act, members of the board may be nominated upon the occurrence of a vacancy, but no provision is made for continuing present members on the boards until they are reappointed or until successors are named.

STATE POLICE NOTIFIED OF SCHOOL FIRE HERE

The state police have been asked to investigate the fire which destroyed considerable stock in the stock room of the Washington school in Lang street last evening. The mystery surrounding the origin of the blaze, which started a long time after the school children and janitor had left the building, caused Chief Saunders to notify the state officials.

rooms on the first floor of the building, where a new supply of stock consisting of books, etc., had recently been put in, was discovered shortly before 5 o'clock by a storekeeper in the rear of the school, who sounded an alarm from box 522. When the firemen reached the premises they found the interior of the room filled with smoke and the fire was soon placed under control and the blaze prevented from spreading to other rooms, but many of the books and papers were destroyed.

MEDFORD, April 15.—Mare S. Brooks, deputy commissioner of education of New Hampshire, today was notified by the superintendent of schools of this city.

FOR POOR OF PARISH A group of women amateurs of St. Joseph's parish under the direction of Rev. L. N. The affair will be given for the poor of the parish under the auspices of St. Joseph's branch of the St. Vincent de Paul society, and those who will take part are as follows: Mrs. Omer J. Smith, Misses Angeline and Archange Hoda, Caroline Desautels, Antoinette and Yvonne Montmarquet, Marguerite Turgeon, Jeanette Chevalier, Leda Delisle, Georgina Desrosiers, Juliette Viere, Blanche Montmarquet, Elizabeth Lachapelle, Cecile Martin and Blanche Levesque.

INVEST IN REAL ESTATE
Hearing Today on Petition Presented for Lowell Credit Associations

(Special to The Sun) STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 15.—The committee on banks and banking gave a hearing this morning on the petition of Representative Henri Achin, Jr., of Lowell, that the Notre Dame de Lourdes Credit association and the Jeanne d'Arc Credit association, both of Lowell, be allowed to hold real estate for the transaction of their business. Each seeks permission to invest not more than 15 per cent of its deposits in real estate. It was explained that their deposits had increased greatly in the past two years, being in excess of $300,000 each, and that their present quarters had been outgrown. The speakers for the bill included Representative Achin, Representative Jewett, Senator Putnam, Joseph Provost, Ephrem Pelletier, Paul Vigeant, Henry Charbonneau, J. A. Guillet, Joseph Caporetto and Joseph E. Hamer, all of Lowell and officials of one or other of the unions. There was no opposition and the committee will report the bill favorably. HOYT.

MAN DROPS DEAD
IN HURD STREET

George Sheppard, aged 67 years, of 153 Market street, dropped dead in Hurd street about 5 o'clock last evening. Mr. Sheppard went to the Crescent A.A. to attend the boxing bouts and witness one of his sons, Johnny, box. The boy was unable to perform owing to an injured hand, but the father remained during the first contest. He suddenly arose to leave the hall, apparently feeling ill and desiring to get into the air. Upon reaching the street he collapsed. He was carried into the Crescent alley, and Dr. William Collins, who was upstairs, was hastily summoned. The doctor arrived just as the man was passing away. Mr. Sheppard was employed at the Massachusetts mill. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Catherine, two sons, John and Patrick, and two daughters, Miss Mary and Margaret Sheppard. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons.

SCALE TO REMAIN
AS BEFORE STRIKE

BOSTON, April 15.—The first break in the ranks of the printing industry employers came yesterday, when the Filmon Press at Norwood settled the wage dispute with the members of unions employed at this plant and more than 400 bindery workers, present and past, returned to work. The wage scale will be the same as that in effect previous to the strike last week. The members of Typographical union 13 did not return to the Filmon shops yesterday, but it is expected that the difference will be adjusted today and that the workers will be back on the job tomorrow. This settlement was brought about through arbitration. The management of the Norwick & Smith company at Norwood, after a conference with the representatives of the different unions, agreed to send the troubles to arbitration. The arbitration board consisted of the above companies was made by the leaders of the unions last night.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 15.—Abrogation of national agreements by the railroad labor board infused a strong tone to the stock market at the opening today. Within the first few minutes gains of 1 to 4 points were made by all classes of railroad shares, especially the more popular Pacifics, Granders and coals. The rebound extended to oils and industrials with Mexican Petroleum, Royal Dutch, General Asphalt, Atlantic Gulf, Republic Iron and Steel, and others.

Regardless of considerable profit-taking the market held the great part of its broad advance during the lively forenoon. Following a moderate reaction, in which Crucible Steel and Western Union fell 2 points each, the list rallied easily, being sustained by reports which indicated a break in the ranks of British labor. Steels, equipments, motors, oils and food specialties were added to the many strong rallies, in which short covering was especially extensive. Call money opened and recovered into next week at 7 per cent, and exchange rates on London were substantially higher.

The market made further progress at mid-day with Mexican Petroleum as the feature at a 5 point gain. Ralls held their advance despite further selling for profits, but steels made no perceptible response to announcement of further price cuts by the United States Steel corporation and several independent concerns.

Highest prices of the day were made by oils, rails and steels in the last hour, realizing sales making little or no impression. The closing was strong.

CLAIM BOSTON WORLD'S WHITE TO BE TREASURER OF UNITED STATES LEADING FISHING PORT

BOSTON, April 15.—Rank as the world's greatest fishing port was claimed for Boston today in the 46th annual report of the Boston fish bureau. A total of 115,568,902 pounds of all varieties of fresh fish was landed at the fish pier in 1920 in vessels making 5342 trips. These receipts exceeded by 5,000,000 pounds those of 1919, the previous bumper year. Grimsby, England, has previously been regarded as the principal fishing port. The largest stock and share ever made in the fresh halibut fishery in the Atlantic went to the credit of the schooner Joffre, Captain Chris Gibbs, which stocked 15,047, with the crew sharing 1312 each for three weeks' work.

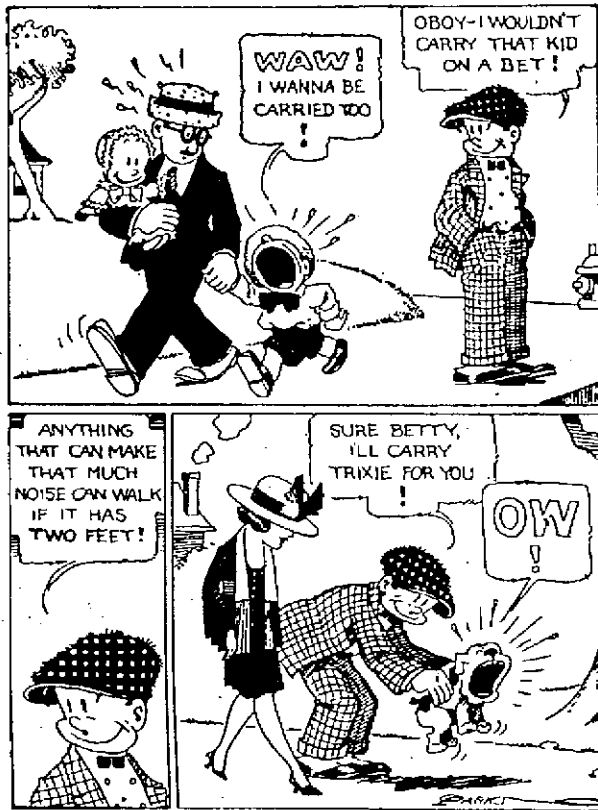

DENIES NEW TRIAL FOR CORSARO

LAWRENCE, April 15.—Judge Louis S. Cox today denied a motion for a new trial for Savino Corsaro, found guilty of murder in the second degree in causing the death by shooting of Michael Laramie here on Jan. 24, 1920. Corsaro will be sentenced next week.

SEC. HUGHES TAKES UP MEXICAN TROUBLES

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Consideration of the Mexican problem by Secretary Hughes was forecast today by announcement that Charles T. Sumner, American charge at Mexico City, had been called to Washington for a conference. He left Mexico City last night and is expected to place before the department information that will enable Mr. Hughes to formulate more definitely the policy to be adopted in dealing with Mexico.

It is understood that in general the attitude of the administration will not differ greatly from that indicated by former Secretary Coghly, when he informed the Mexican government through its agent, Roberto V. Pes-queira that a signed acknowledgment of its intention to safeguard the lives and interests of Americans must be one of the preliminary steps to recognition.

The present administration is understood to have agreed that the course outlined in the recommendations of the sub-committee of the senate foreign relations committee which investigated conditions in Mexico must be followed, but there has been no indication that President Obregon of Mexico proposes to commit his government.

On the contrary, he has insisted unofficially that recognition must come, if at all, because Mexico merits it and not because of any agreement. Reports to the department on conditions in Mexico have varied widely. Some have represented President Obregon as the victim of so much intrigue and open opposition as to threaten his tenure of office, while others from persons regarded as equally trustworthy have insisted that he is more than holding his own and restoring order and security.

The American policy, however, will not be based wholly on conditions in Mexico, it is explained. Official reassurances of the future policy of the Mexican government in dealing with Americans will be insisted upon, and it is understood that a modification of Article 27 of the constitution for nationalization of oil, or at least a satisfactory assurance that it will not be retroactive in its effect will be demanded before the recognition is extended.

SAYS BOTH WIVES HAVE SUED FOR DIVORCE

NEW YORK, April 15.—Counsel for Herbert Thompson Andrews, New York stock broker, who is alleged to have lived in Jersey City with two wives for several months, today announced receipt of information that both spouses have initiated action to separate themselves from their husband.

Jacob J. Lazare, Andrews' counsel, said that Mrs. Maud Andrews, to whom his client was married several years ago and who is the mother of his two boys, had employed counsel to file divorce action in New Jersey. Mrs. Esther Andrews, with whom Andrews recently went through a marriage ceremony in Greenwich, Conn., also had employed counsel to start annulment proceedings, Mr. Lazare said.

"I am also informed that Mrs. Maud Andrews, acting on the advice of counsel, ousted Mrs. Esther Andrews from the Jersey City apartment and later ousted Mr. Herbert Andrews," the lawyer continued. "Mr. Andrews does not know the present whereabouts of Mrs. Esther Andrews; and neither do I, nor do I care."

The attorney denied reports that all-mother had been provided by Andrews for Mrs. Maud Andrews. He also denied a report that his client had left the apartment with Mrs. Esther, the younger of the two women.

He said he knew of a warrant having been issued by Greenwich, Conn., authorities for the arrest of Andrews on charges of larceny and perjury. If any such warrant is issued, he added, his client would gladly surrender himself and answer any charges that may be filed against him.

JOHNSON RAPS LODGE Progressive G. O. P. Senators Renew Attack on Colombian Treaty

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Republican senators of the progressive group, led by Senator Johnson of California, renewed the attack on the pending Colombian treaty today, but administration leaders sent word to President Harding that it was assured of ratification when the vote is taken next Wednesday.

Senator Johnson said he could not understand the "marvelous and overnight change" of many republican senators who opposed ratification in 1917. "This treaty," he said, "would never have been ratified during the life of Theodore Roosevelt."

The senator suggested that the $15,000,000 payment provided by the treaty be devoted instead "to starving farmers facing old age after a life of toil, to soldiers broken in the defense of the nation and to alleviation of the unemployed."

He declared that Senator Lodge, who is leading the fight for ratification had opposed the payment to Colombia for 17 years and changed in the last 17 months.

"Was he right or wrong for 17 years?" the California senator inquired. "I, for myself, cannot subscribe to any proposition which was an inquiry under Woodrow Wilson and William Jennings Bryan and a vitious request under the present administration."

$25,000,000 FROM BRITISH GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Receipts of $25,000,000 from the British government as first instalment of the debt of $122,000,000 for silver purchased during the war, was reported to the treasury today by the Federal Reserve bank of New York. Payment was made through J. P. Morgan & Co., as fiscal agents.

Of the amount paid today $18,000,000 represented a reduction of the principal and $7,000,000 interest from April 15, 1919. The next instalment falls due on May 15, when $12,000,000 in principal and $5,000,000 of interest becomes payable.

HELD WHIST PARTY
A successful whist party for the Boston college drive was held in Odd Fellows hall, on Bridge street, Thursday evening by Mrs. Martin A. Maher and a committee of ladies from St. Michael's parish. The prizes, donated by Mrs. M. A. Tighe of Bridge street, were won by Miss Grace Thomas, Mae Fitzgerald and Mrs. D. W. Keenan. Mr. John J. Spaulding, Mr. John J. Gookin, Mr. Monahan. The booby prizes given by Mrs. Frank Morrissey were taken by Mrs. John J. Brennan and Mr. John Lynch. A bag of flour, donated by Mrs. James P. Loftus was won by Mr. Thomas Garvey. Songs by Mr. Edward Donohue, accompanied by Miss Laura Whitten; readings by Miss Mary Casey; character singing by the Misses Dign made a pleasant entertainment during intermission.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Frank E. Charlton and Miss Ruby A. Gagnon, both residents of Grantville, were married Wednesday afternoon at St. John's rectory, North Chelmsford, the ceremony being performed by the pastor, Rev. Charles P. Heaney. The bride, Miss Ruby A. Gagnon, while the best man was Mr. Thomas A. Grant of Somerville. Mrs. Grant was formerly Miss Edith Farrington of this city.

Mr. Henry J. Farrell, a well known Lowell provision dealer, and Miss Josephine T. Donovan were united in marriage at St. Patrick's rectory late Tuesday afternoon by Rev. Joseph A. Curran.

Building is Resumed in Hub for until Monday. Meanwhile he said many applications for work and from employers for workmen were being received.

Union leaders on the other hand said they expected the men, of whom 16,000 have been in idleness for three months, to hold firm. A meeting of the United Building Trades Council was called for tonight, and at that time Secretary E. A. Johnson said he expected to have a large number of reports from the various jobs which have been tied up since the employers announced a wage reduction in January. Until these reports were received and the council had had an opportunity to study yesterday's announcement of the employers' association, he would have no statement to make, he said.

In their announcement the employers said a 50-cent hourly wage of wages would be paid, 10 cents below the former scale, and that they would make no agreement with the unions at least for the remainder of this year. Some who applied for work today expressed a wish for a nine hour day at the 50-cent rate. Mr. Walsh said, and the proposition would be considered by the association council within the next day or two.

CAKE SALE

The ladies of St. Michael's parish will hold a cake sale at Gagnon's, on Friday, April 22, for the benefit of the Boston college building fund. Those in charge are Mrs. Geo. Keefe, Mrs. M. Maher, Mrs. A. Kelly, Mrs. M. A. Tiche, Mrs. Mary Kelly, Mrs. M. A. Tiche, Mrs. Edward Connor, Mrs. Edith Cawley, Mrs. Thomas Donnelly and Mrs. Frank Morrissey.

Lowell Men Called In Elevated Probe

1918 body would be asked to appear. His announcement was made after Edwin T. McKnight, former president of the senate, Representative Andrew P. Doyle and former Representative John L. Donovan, who had been asked to appear, had failed to attend.

Several legislators who were in the hearing room offered to testify immediately in response to the chairman's announcement that all 1918 members would be called and others appeared later.

All of those who had been examined previous to the noon recess answered in the negative on all these points, except Representative Charles H. Harris, born of Gardner. He testified that Harrison H. Atwood of Boston, who served with him on the ways and means committee of the house in 1918, had told him that he had bought Elevated stock.

HELD SOCIAL EVENING

Last evening between 50 and 60 members of the evening school vocational classes for Polish women gathered for a social evening at the International Institute rooms. The guests of honor were Misses Esther Downing, Anna O'Day, Pallader and Mrs. Burns, who were in charge of some of the winter vocational classes. An interesting musical program was given, which included compositions of Tadeusz Niekolski, folk music by the Institute mandolin club, Polish and American songs by Miss Mary Chabak and group community singing by the girls of Polish and American songs. It was decided at the meeting to hold regular gatherings throughout the summer. Miss Josephine Szozynska was in charge of the affair.

MUST NOT CHANGE BILL

Fordney Insists Tariff Measure Be Passed Without Amendments

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The emergency tariff bill must pass the house in the form in which it was introduced, Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee declared today as the house resumed consideration of the combined tariff and anti-dumping measure.

Democratic leaders had half a dozen amendments ready to offer, but Republican leaders hoped to have them voted down.

Provisions of the bill were taken up section by section in today's discussion under an arrangement limiting speeches to five minutes. Leaders pressed for a final vote before adjournment, but opponents of the measure were said to be prepared to delay final action as long as possible.
